Patient No More The Politics Of Breast Cancer:

Patient No More Sharon Batt, 2003 Patient No More Sharon Batt, 1996 The Politics of Women's Health Care in the United States M. Palley, 2014-02-24 In a social and political environment that has become more accepting of gender equity women's health issues have emerged in the forefront of the social policy agenda of the United States The organized women's movement has been successful in many of its endeavors to improve opportunities for women in society in areas such as education business sports and the professions As this book shows they also have been successful in changing the definition of women's health and placing many elements of health care needs on the nation's policy agenda During the late 1960s and early 1970s abortion rights emerged as a central concern for many women's rights activists some of whom took on women's other health issues The Politics of Women's Health Care in the United States shows how the evolution of the women's health agenda has been a reaction to the empowerment of women in the years after the emergence of the contemporary women's movement in 1966 and the subsequent social reconstruction of women from dependent to advantaged population The Breast Cancer Wars Barron H. Lerner, 2003 Chronicles the various campaigns waged against breast cancer and its effects on women during the last century The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer Maren Klawiter, 2008 For nearly forty years feminists and patient activists have argued that medicine is a deeply individualizing and depoliticizing institution According to this view medical practices are incidental to people's transformation from patients to patient activists The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer turns this understanding upside down Maren Klawiter analyzes the evolution of the breast cancer movement to show the broad social impact of how diseases come to be medically managed and publicly administered Examining surgical procedures adjuvant therapies early detection campaigns and the rise in discourses of risk Klawiter demonstrates that these practices created a change in the social relations if not the mortality rate of breast cancer that initially inhibited but later enabled collective action Her research focuses on the emergence and development of new forms of activism that range from grassroots patient empowerment to environmental activism and corporate funded breast cancer awareness The Biopolitics of Breast Cancer opens a window onto a larger set of changes currently transforming medically advanced societies and ultimately challenges our understanding of the origins politics and future of the breast cancer movement Maren Klawiter holds a PhD in sociology from the University of California Berkeley She is currently pursuing a law degree at Yale University

Contesting Illness Pamela Moss, Kathy Teghtsoonian, 2008-02-16 The relationship between power and illness is the subject of limited discussion despite it being one of the most important issues in health related policies and services In an effort to correct this Contesting Illness engages critically with processes through which the meanings and effects of illness shape and are shaped by specific sets of practices Featuring original contributions by researchers working in a number of disciplines this collection examines intersections of power contestation and illness with the aid of various critical theoretical frameworks and methodological approaches The contributors explore experiences of illness diagnosis and treatment and analyse wider discursive and policy contexts within which people become ill and engage with health care systems Though each essay is unique in its approach they are linked together by a shared focus on contestation as a conceptual tool in considering the relationship between power and illness Rather than focus on a single example the contributors address different contested illnesses chronic fatigue syndrome and environmental illness for instance as well as the contested dimensions of illnesses that are accepted as legitimate such as cancer and autism Contesting Illness offers valuable insights into the assumptions practices and interactions that shape illness in the twenty first century Contributors Jan Angus Pia H B low Peter Conrad Joyce Davidson Helen Gremillion Maren Klawiter Joshua Kelley Steve Kroll Smith Katherine Lippel Pamela Moss Michael Orsini Michael J Prince Annie Potts Mary Ellen Purkis Sharon Dale Stone Cheryl Stults Katherine Teghtsoonian Jane M Ussher Catherine van Mossel

From Pink to Green Barbara L. Ley, 2009-06-29 From the early 1980s the U S environmental breast cancer movement has championed the goal of eradicating the disease by emphasizing the importance of reducing even eliminating exposure to chemicals and toxins From Pink to Green chronicles the movement's disease prevention philosophy from the beginning Challenging the broader cultural milieu of pink ribbon symbolism and breast cancer awareness campaigns this movement has grown from a handful of community based organizations into a national entity shaping the cultural political and public health landscape Much of the activists everyday work revolves around describing how the so called cancer industry downplays possible environmental links to protect their political and economic interests and they demand that the public play a role in scientific policy and public health decision making to build a new framework of breast cancer prevention From Pink to Green successfully explores the intersection between breast cancer activism and the environmental health sciences incorporating public and scientific debates as well as policy implications to public health and environmental agendas Into Our Own Hands Sandra Morgen, 2002 Recent history has witnessed a revolution in womens health care Beginning in the late 1960s women in communities across the United States challenged medical and male control over womens health Few people today realize the extent to which these grassroots efforts shifted power and responsibility from the medical establishment into womens hands as health care consumers providers and advocates Into Our Own Hands traces the womens health care movement in the United States Richly documented this study is based on more than a decade of research including interviews with leading activists documentary material from feminist health clinics and advocacy organizations a survey of womens health movement organizations in the early 1990s and ethnographic fieldwork Sandra Morgen focuses on the clinics born from this movement as well as how the movements encounters with organized medicine the state and ascendant neoconservative and neoliberal political forces of the 1970s to the 1980s shaped the confrontations and accomplishments in womens health care The book also explores the impact of political struggles over race and class within the movement organizations Women's Health in Canada Olena Hankivsky, Colleen Varcoe, Marina Helen Morrow, 2007-01-01 This volume fills a gap in Canadian healthcare scholarship by providing a resource for teaching and understanding women s health in this country
