Patients Or Prisoners The Mentally Ill In America:

Patients Or Prisoners? Robert A. Liston, 1976-01-01 Discusses the institutional treatment of mental illness and mental retardation Health and Medical Service in American Prisons and Reformatories Frank Leslie Rector, 1929 The Care of the Uninsured in America Nancy J. Johnson, Lane P. Johnson, 2009-10-27 As Dr Cullen's chapter on information technology points out what is required is not just a new electronic system that follows the patients but a new language that creates and defines a system that can appropriately care for the patient What we design for the complexities of caring for the medically underserved can serve as model for caring for everyone in this country Many innovative bold and wonderful solutions have been developed as local regional models As communities and states we can learn from and support each other But the local models are not by and large self sustaining Ultimately so tions to the lack of medical insurance in this country will require a national perspective and federal funding That is part of the work we all must do and Dr Dalen's chapter points out some of the possibilities and pitfalls other countries have experienced When I wonder how the system we have hasn't already collapsed from its own weight I just need to look at the people working within it Healthcare is a service industry and we have been blessed with professionals who understand and live the concept of service in their daily lives who go the extra mile for the patient despite the vagaries the barriers and the sometimes mean spiritedness of the organizational infrastructure

Understanding Health Care in America Michael Pagano, 2020-09-13 This book examines the current state of American health care using a social science lens to focus on the interdependent intercultural economic and communication aspects of access and delivery This text explores how the cultures of health care organizations health professions governments and capitalism as well as communication all contribute to a disease focused economically driven technology centered health care system It seeks to understand 21st century health care from a macro level view based on historical realizations and the current plethora of interdependent but self serving realities that provide few if any incentives for organizational collaboration and change The fact that the most expensive health care system in the world does not provide the healthiest outcomes is a driving force in this exploration By reflecting on American values and beliefs regarding health care from philosophical clinical communication and cost perspectives this text is designed to encourage an organizational transformation at every level from government to providers to patients This comprehensive survey is an important guide for those studying or working in health care professions as well as health care policy and administration It should also be of interest to any reader who seeks to better understand U S health care policy from social science economic and or health communication perspectives The Chronic Psychiatric Patient in the Community R.D. Budson, I. Barofsky, 2012-12-06 The purpose of this book is to present an integrated approach to the treatment of the chronic psychiatric patient living in the community This requires that topics as diverse as pharmacokinetics psychotherapy and community organization be appropriately coordinated Such an approach is partly complicated by the wide range of differences among patients in terms of social skills intellectual capacity and psychiatric diagnosis In addition unclear insular or overlapping roles of various mental health disciplines further confound integrated treatment efforts Given such complexity any single clinician's point of view is subject to the distortion inherent in specialization Too often a volume in the field of mental health focuses either on only one aspect or presents only one clinician's unique perspective of a task that is in fact multifaceted We have tried to avoid this pitfall by having representatives from many of the concerned professions present a variety of treatment approaches and associated issues in one text Further the editors have attempted to illuminate the relevant clinical and or administrative interrelationship between the subjects of each section through a succinct introductory commentary The book is divided into five sections The first section represents an attempt to address some of the interactive sociological psychological and pharmacological background issues common to all attempts at treatment of this population
