Articles in the World's Languages Laura Becker, 2021-09-20 This study provides a systematic overview of articles and article systems in the world's languages using a sample of 104 languages Articles can be classified into 10 types according to their referential functions definite anaphoric weak definite recognitional indefinite presentational exclusive specific nonspecific inclusive specific and referential articles All 10 types are described in detail with examples from various languages of the world The book also addresses crosslinguistic trends concerning the distribution and the development of different article types and it proposes a typology of article systems The aim of this study is to provide a general crosslinguistic overview concerning the attested properties and distributions of articles It is geared towards readers with interests in language typology and the nominal domain and it can serve as a point of reference for language specific studies of articles or determiners

Frames and Concept Types Thomas Gamerschlag, Doris Gerland, Rainer Osswald, Wiebke Petersen, 2013-11-26 This volume showcases the potential richness of frame representations The presentation includes introductory articles on the application of frames to linguistics and philosophy of science offering readers the tools to conduct the interdisciplinary investigation of concepts that frames allow Introductory articles on the application of frames to linguistics and philosophy of science Frame analysis of changes in scientific concepts Event frames and lexical decomposition Properties frame attributes and adjectives Frames in concept composition Nominal concept types and determination This volume deals with frame representations and their relations to concept types in linguistics and philosophy of science It aims at reviving concepts and frames as a common model across disciplines for representing semantic and conceptual knowledge Departing from the general assumption that frames are not just an arbitrary format of representation but essential to human cognition a number of case studies apply frames as an analytical tool to a wide range of phenomena from changes in scientific concepts to particular linguistic phenomena This provides new insights into long standing semantic issues such as the lexical representation of verbs as predicative frames specifying particular event descriptions or situation types and their participants adjectives and nominals as concept frames which provide attributes and properties of an entity as well as modification complementation possessive constructions compounding nominal concept types determination or definiteness marking Bert Gehrke Pompeu Fabra University Barcelona Spain

Categoriality in Language Change Lauren Fonteyn, 2019-03-25 This book presents the first serious attempt to set out a functional semantic definition of diachronic transcategorial shift between the major classes noun nominal and verb clause In English speakers have different options to refer to an event ranging from that clauses That he had guessed her size over infinitives For him to guess her size and verbal gerunds Him guessing her size to nominal gerunds His guessing of her size and deverbal nouns His guess of her size Interestingly not only do these strategies each resemble prototypical nominals to varying extents but also some of these strategies increasingly resemble clauses and decreasingly resemble prototypical nominals over time as if they are gradually shifting categories Thus far the literature that has dealt with such cases of diachronic categorial shift has mainly described the processes by focusing on form leaving us with a clear picture of what and how changes have occurred Yet the question of why these formal changes have occurred is still shrouded in mystery In this book Lauren Fonteyn tackles this mystery by showing that the diachronic processes of nominalization and verbalization can also involve functional semantic changes in two steps First building on functionalist and cognitive models of grammar she offers a theoretical model of categoriality that allows us to study diachronic nominalization and verbalization not just as morphosyntactic but also as functional semantic processes Second she offers more concrete workable definitions of the abstract functional semantic properties of the nominal and verbal clausal class which are subsequently applied to one of the most intriguing deverbal nominalization systems in the history of English the English gerund

Quantification Lisa Matthewson, 2008 This volume presents articles by formal linguists on quantification in relatively understudied languages The ten contributions provide analysis of quantificational phenomena in languages from nine different families Eskimo Aleut Algonquian Na Dene Austronesian Basque Quechua Otomanguean Bantu and Chadic Approximately half of the papers present systematic overviews of quantificational phenomena in the respective languages the remainder of the papers present theoretical analyses of specific quantificational constructions The cross linguistic focus of this volume enables standard theories of quantification to be challenged by languages other than those for which they were originally designed The volume as a whole also uncovers a number of cross linguistically common properties in the realm of quantification The research presented here forms part of a growing trend towards formal study of understudied languages This is a process which will ultimately lead us to a greatly enriched understanding of the universal human language faculty The authors are all experts on their respective languages most with many years field experience All the authors have theoretical expertise in the area of quantification This book will be of interest to semanticists and syntacticians working on quantification to specialists in the languages discussed and to semantic and syntactic fieldworkers This volume presents articles on quantification in relatively understudied languages The authors are all experts on their respective languages

Canonical Morphology and Syntax Dunstan Brown, Marina Chumakina, Greville G. Corbett, 2013 This is the first book to present Canonical Typology a framework for comparing constructions and categories across languages The canonical method takes the criteria used to define particular categories or phenomena eg negation finiteness possession to create a multidimensional space in which language specific instances can be placed In this way the issue of fit becomes a matter of greater or lesser proximity to a canonical ideal Drawing on the expertise of world class scholars in the field the book addresses the issue of cross linguistic comparability illustrates the range of areas from morphosyntactic features to reported speech to which linguists are currently applying this methodology and explores to what degree the approach succeeds in discovering the elusive canon of linguistic phenomena

Mixed Categories Irina Nikolaeva, Andrew Spencer, 2020 Uses an explicit formal framework to explore and model cross linguistic variation in constructions where a noun modifies another noun
