Democratization in Russia under Gorbachev, 1985-91 Anne White, 1999-07-10 Self help organizations and charities were the most numerous but least studied of pressure groups to emerge during perestroika This book examines the social exclusion experienced before 1985 by non working citizens studies the pre 1985 disabled people s movement and its numerous unofficial but non dissident organizations discusses why the Gorbachev leadership adopted the non Soviet concept of charity analyses the failure of local authorities after 1985 to stave off pluralism and defeat the voluntary organizations and assesses how successfully the latter built the foundations of a civil society Economies of Violence Jennifer Suchland, 2015-07-23 Recent human rights campaigns against sex trafficking have focused on individual victims treating trafficking as a criminal aberration in an otherwise just economic order In Economies of Violence Jennifer Suchland directly critiques these explanations and approaches as they obscure the reality that trafficking is symptomatic of complex economic and social dynamics and the economies of violence that sustain them Examining United Nations proceedings on women s rights issues government and NGO anti trafficking policies and campaigns by feminist activists Suchland contends that trafficking must be understood not solely as a criminal gendered and sexualized phenomenon but as operating within global systems of precarious labor neoliberalism and the transition from socialist to capitalist economies in the former Soviet Union and Eastern Bloc In shifting the focus away from individual victims and by underscoring trafficking s economic and social causes Suchland provides a foundation for building more robust methods for combatting human trafficking Civil Society in Central Asia M. Holt Ruffin, Daniel Waugh, 2011-05-01 Central Asia known as the home of Tamerlane and the Silk Road is a crossroads of great cultures and civilizations In 1991 five nations at the heart of the region Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan suddenly became independent Today they sit strategically between Russia China and Iran and hold some of the world's largest deposits of oil and natural gas Long suppressed ethnic identities are finding new expression in language religion and occasional civil conflicts Civil Society in Central Asia is a pathbreaking collection of essays by scholars and activists that illuminates the social and institutional forces shaping this important region's future An appendix provides a guide to projects being carried out by local and international groups

Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union Julian Agyeman, Yelena Ogneva-Himmelberger, 2009 An examination of the awareness of environmental and social justice issues in the former Soviet republics from the Western style democracies of the Baltic region to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and the resulting activism in those states The legacy of environmental catastrophe in the states of the former Soviet Union includes desertification pollution and the toxic aftermath of industrial accidents the most notorious of which was the Chernobyl disaster of 1986 This book examines the development of environmental activism in Russia and the former Soviet republics in response to these problems and its effect on policy and planning It also shows that because of increasing economic ethnic and social inequality in the former Soviet states debates over environmental justice are beginning to come to the fore The book explores the varying environmental social political and economic circumstances of these countries which range from the Western style democracies of the Baltic states to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and how they affect the ecological environmental and public health Among the topics covered are environmentalism in Russia including the progressive nature of its laws on environmental protection which are undermined by overburdened and underpaid law enforcement the effect of oil wealth on Azerbaijan and Kazakhstan the role of nationalism in Latvian environmentalism the struggle of Russia's indigenous peoples for environmental justice public participation in Estonia's environmental movement and lack of access to natural capital in Tajikistan Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union makes clear that although fragile transition economies varying degrees of democratization and a focus on national security can stymie progress toward just sustainability the diverse states of the former Soviet Union are making some progress toward green and environmental justice issues separately

Building Democracy in Contemporary Russia Sarah L. Henderson, 2018-07-05 Can foreign donors help build new democracies In the 1990s public and private organizations such as USAID and the Soros Foundation poured huge amounts of money and expertise into Russia to help build the dream of a vibrant democratic society Sarah L Henderson argues that despite the altruistic intentions of foreign assistance agencies and domestic activists foreign aid designed to spur civic growth has had unintended consequences Drawing on extensive field work survey research and work experience for several funding agencies in Moscow in the late 1990s Henderson focuses on donor efforts to support the emerging community of nongovernmental organizations and in particular on efforts to build a functioning women's movement in Russia. Her intimate knowledge of Russia's growing NGO community informs a worrisome finding: foreign aid has made a tremendous difference but not in altogether expected or positive ways. New Russian civic groups serve either the needs of an indigenous clientele or the demands of the foreign aid bureaucracy but rarely both. Henderson's research and experience show that while aid has kept a fledgling civic community alive, it is a civic community that is disconnected from its own domestic audience. The book suggests that large flows of foreign aid have in some ways damaged the long-term prospects for democratization in Russia.
