Postal and Delivery Services Michael A. Crew, Paul R. Kleindorfer, 2013-12-01 When Postmaster General Creswell penned his concern about the impact of electronic diversion on his postal organization the year was 1872 General Creswell it turned out fretted unnecessarily Facsimile did not achieve commercial viability until roughly a century after his tenure as Postmaster General and today that technology is fading rapidly from the communication scene Moreover it never appears to have significantly affected physical letter volumes However if General Creswell were leading a major postal organization today he likely would feel threatened by the potential of Internet communication to cause electronic diversion of physical mail Should recent technology developments cause the oft predicted but so far incorrect inflection point that would mark the beginning of declining mail volumes the implications from a management standpoint will be profound The relatively fixed nature of postal costs suggest that volume declines must be offset though improved productivity reduced cost of inputs revenue from new products that share common costs or reduced level of universal service environment for postal services in Lithuania and the upcoming challenges for this industry Postal services continue to play a central part in the development of national economies However the economic and social role of postal services has changed rapidly and fundamentally over the last two decades In most industrialized countries paper based communications are in serious decline while the demand for parcel delivery services is rising steadily with the continuing development of e commerce just in time production techniques and global supply chains For the postal sector as a whole the centre of gravity has shifted dramatically from letters and documents to parcels The authors explain how the organizational paradigm has inexorably shifted from that of a national government owned postal administration providing the basic delivery services required by society to a system of interdependent local and regional undertakings that both compete and cooperate with one another The book argues that there are no indications that the postal sector has stopped changing and that it seems most probable that the European Union s postal sector will look quite different in 2035 than it does today In closing the book explains how the shareholders of postal services companies have recently confirmed that the time has come to rethink the strategy of creating and maintaining competitiveness in the postal services industry     Status and Performance of the United States Postal Service, Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Postal Service ..., 92-2, April 12, 14, 17, 18, 24, 25; May 1, 2, 15, 23; June 12, 14, 19, 20, 22, 26, 28; July 25; August 4, 1972 United States.
