Postcards From The Grave:

Postcards from the Grave Emir Suljagić, 2005 In May 1992 while Serb nationalist forces cleansed the towns and villages of the Drina valley in eastern Bosnia of their formerly majority Muslim population as part of Slobodan Milosevic's criminal attempt to carve an expanded Serbia from the successor states of the former Yugoslav federation thousands of fleeing desperate people converged on the small town of Srebrenica in search of refuge For many of them this would prove to be a fatal decision Serb forces besieged the town for three years undeterred even when it was proclaimed a UN Safe Area As more and more refugees fled to Srebrenica from the surrounding villages conditions there became unbearable near starvation daily death degradation of civilized life The victims themselves were caught up in the dialectic of violence Finally after three years of agony and as those sent to protect them stood by Srebrenica was destroyed In just a few days in July 1995 Bosnian Serb forces murdered some 8 000 people Against all odds Emir Suljagic survived while the lives of nearly every man he had ever known and those of many women too were wiped out His haunted record of those terrible times offers a fitting monument to those who died Jacket Postcards from the Interior Wyn Cooper, 2005 A collection of postcard poems sent from varied places and states of heart and mind The Geopolitics of Memory James Riding, 2019-09-30 In this daring experiment in ethnographic place writing cultural geographer James Riding aims to get at the heart of post conflict Bosnia showing the past alongside the present it created via a series of journeys and through the retelling of memories The juxtaposition between the siege of Sarajevo and supersonic metal the refugee journey and the aid worker travelling in the other direction the desperation and fury to change the present yet being stuck with many of the ethno nationalist politicians and politics of the past it is a journey to Bosnia as it is understood today in popular discourse a war torn place defined by ethnic conflict yet also a journey to deconstruct and reveal more than ancient ethnic hatreds portrayed on television screens across the globe from 1992 to 1995 Heavy with the weight of history on the one hand and an inspirational place with radical emancipatory politics on the other it is only through innovative storytelling that one can attempt to give a sense of what Bosnia itself is like in words for those who have never been and most importantly for those who are from there

Archiving Loss Martine Hawkes,2018-05-11 Drawing together many stories from the archives of difficult events and volatile histories Archiving Loss Holding Places for Difficult Memories asks how we might cut and walk a path for memory loss and silence in the archive The difficult events discussed in this book include state responses to refugees events of genocide alongside other less documented pockets of trauma violence and loss This book describes the archives whose language and logic have shaped our ways we remember and respond to difficult events and the ways in which we expect memory and loss to be coherent credible and lead to clear conclusions In asking what is missing and what is found in the archives of difficult events this book argues for the necessity of looking more closely at other ways of remembering loss and archiving memory

Dancing Bears Witold Szablowski,2018-03-06 As heard on NPR s All Things Considered Utterly original The New York Times Book Review Mixing bold journalism with bolder

allegories Mr Szabowski teaches us with witty persistence that we must desire freedom rather than simply expect it Timothy Snyder New York Times bestselling author of On Tyranny and The Road to Unfreedom An incisive humorous and heartbreaking account of people in formerly Communist countries holding fast to their former lives by the acclaimed author of How to Feed a Dictator and What's Cooking in the Kremlin For hundreds of years Bulgarian Gypsies trained bears to dance welcoming them into their families and taking them on the road to perform In the early 2000s with the fall of Communism they were forced to release the bears into a wildlife refuge But even today whenever the bears see a human they still get up on their hind legs to dance In the tradition of Ryszard Kapuściński award winning Polish journalist Witold Szabowski uncovers remarkable stories of people throughout Eastern Europe and in Cuba who like Bulgaria's dancing bears are now free but who seem nostalgic for the time when they were not His on the ground reporting of smuggling a car into Ukraine hitchhiking through Kosovo as it declares independence arguing with Stalin adoring tour guides at the Stalin Museum sleeping in London's Victoria Station alongside a homeless woman from Poland and giving taxi rides to Cubans fearing for the life of Fidel Castro provides a fascinating portrait of social and economic upheaval and a lesson in the challenges of freedom and the seductions of authoritarian rule From the Introduction Guys with wacky hair who promise a great deal have been springing up in our part of the world like mushrooms after rain And people go running after them like bears after their keepers Fear of a changing world and longing for someone who will promise that life will be the same as it was in the past are not confined to Regime Change Land In half the West empty promises are made wrapped in shiny paper like candy And for this candy people are happy to get up on their hind legs and dance

Representing Genocide Rebecca Jinks, 2016-06-02 This book explores the diverse ways in which Holocaust representations have influenced and structured how other genocides are understood and represented in the West Rebecca Jinks focuses in particular on the canonical 20th century cases of genocide Armenia Cambodia Bosnia and Rwanda Using literature film photography and memorialisation she demonstrates that we can only understand the Holocaust's status as a benchmark for other genocides if we look at the deeper structural resonances which subtly shape many representations of genocide Representing Genocide pursues five thematic areas in turn how genocides are recognised as such by western publics the representation of the origins and perpetrators of genocide how western witnesses represent genocide representations of the aftermath of genocide and western responses to genocide Throughout the book distinguishes between mainstream and other more nuanced and engaged representations of genocide It shows how these mainstream representations the majority largely replicate the representational framework of the Holocaust including the way in which mainstream Holocaust representations resist recognising the rationality instrumentality and normality of genocide preferring instead to present it as an aberrant exceptional event in human society By contrast the more engaged representations often but not always originating from those who experienced genocide tend to revolve around precisely genocide's ordinariness and the structures and situations common to human society which contribute to and become involved in the violence

Inuit Shamanism and Christianity Frédéric B. Laugrand, Jarich G. Oosten, 2010-01-01 Using archival material and oral testimony collected during workshops in Nunavut between 1996 and 2008 Frédéric Laugrand and Jarich Oosten provide a nuanced look at Inuit religion offering a strong counter narrative to the idea that traditional Inuit culture declined post contact They show that setting up a dichotomy between a past identified with traditional culture and a present involving Christianity obscures the continuity and dynamics of Inuit society which has long borrowed and adapted outside elements They argue that both Shamanism and Christianity are continually changing in the Arctic and ideas of transformation and transition are necessary to understand both how the ideology of a hunting society shaped Inuit Christian cosmology and how Christianity changed Inuit shamanic traditions The Edwardian Picture Postcard as a Communications Revolution Julia Gillen, 2023-07-13 This monograph offers a novel investigation of the Edwardian picture postcard as an innovative form of multimodal communication revealing much about the creativity concerns and lives of those who used postcards as an almost instantaneous form of communication In the early twentieth century the picture postcard was a revolutionary way of combining short messages with an image making use of technologies in a way impossible in the decades since until the advent of the digital revolution This book offers original insights into the historical and social context in which the Edwardian picture postcard emerged and became a craze It also expands the field of Literacy Studies by illustrating the combined use of posthuman multimodal historic and linguistic methodologies to conduct an in depth analysis of the communicative sociolinguistic and relational functions of the postcard Particular attention is paid to how study of the picture postcard can reveal details of the lives and literacy practices of often overlooked sectors of the population such as working class women The Edwardian era in the United Kingdom was one of extreme inequalities and rapid social change and picture postcards embodied the dynamism of the times Grounded in an analysis of a unique open access digitized collection of 3 000 picture postcards this monograph will be of interest to researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of Literacy Studies sociolinguistics history of communications and UK social history Postcards from the Edge Ian Coffey, 2015-07-17 In Postcards from the Edge Ian Coffey will help you learn from eight Bible characters about how God can meet you in the hardest moments of your life God often seems most distant when we are going through our hardest times And yet many people have found that it is exactly at the moments of their greatest struggle that they have met God most closely Through vivid retellings of the stories of eight biblical characters who met God at points of extremity in their lives Ian Coffey offers us inspirational ways of making the struggles we face an opportunity for growth By sharing both modern examples of people who have faced the same sorts of struggles and events in his own life he gives us practical help and hope in our hardest moments Esther and courage Jeremiah and inadequacy John and doubt Paul and fear Peter and imprisonment Ruth and loss Elijah and despair Mark and failure Full of rich reflection and thought provoking questions it will help us to discover the God who walks with his people through their darkest moments British Journal of Photography William Crookes, T.A. Malone, George Shadbolt, J. Traill Taylor, William Blanchard Bolton, Thomas Bedding, 1905 British Postcards of the First World War Peter Doyle, 2011-11-20 Postcards sent by men on the front and to them by their families are among the most numerous and most telling surviving artefacts of the Great War They tell us much about attitudes towards the war and provide a great insight into men's lives and into the thoughts and emotions of those left behind. Very different in their illustration and in their writing between the beginning of the war and the end, postcards provide a social history of the war in microcosm. Illustrated with a wide range of postcards, this is a fascinating look into the response of the British people to the horrors of the war. Salem in Vintage Postcards Christopher R. Mathias, Kenneth Turino, D. Michel Michaud, 1999-12-01

From the 1890s through the 1920s the postcard was an extraordinarily popular means of communication and many of the postcards produced during this golden age can today be considered works of art. Postcard photographers traveled the length and breadth of the nation snapping photographs of busy street scenes, documenting local landmarks and assembling crowds of local children only too happy to pose for a picture. These images, printed as postcards and sold in general stores across the country, survive as telling reminders of an important era in America's history. This fascinating new history of Salem, Massachusetts, showcases more than two hundred of the best vintage postcards available. Death in Dublin During the Era of James Joyce's Ulysses Patrick Callan, 2024-09-27 The funeral of Paddy Dignam in James Joyce's Ulysses serves as the pivotal event of the Hades episode. This volume explores how Dignam's interment in Glasnevin Cemetery allowed Joyce the freedom to consider the conventions, rituals, and superstitions associated with death and burial in Dublin. Integrating the words and characters of Ulysses with its figurative locale, the book looks at the presence of Dublin in Ulysses and Ulysses in Dublin. It emphasises the highly visible public role assigned to death in Joyce's world while also appreciating how it is woven into the universe of Ulysses. The study examines the role of Glasnevin Cemetery where the Joyce family plot was opened in 1880 and remained in use for eight decades, as well as the social and medical problems associated with life in Dublin, a city divided by class, status, wealth, and health. Nineteen burials took place in Glasnevin on 16 June 1904, and the analysis of this group illuminates the role of undertakers and insurers along with the importance of memorialisation. This book is an important contribution to Joyce and Irish studies as well as to international studies related to the treatment of the dead body and the development of garden cemeteries.
