Refashioning Futures David Scott, 1999-05-30 How can we best forge a theoretical practice that directly addresses the struggles of once colonized countries many of which face the collapse of both state and society in today s era of economic reform David Scott argues that recent cultural theories aimed at deconstructing Western representations of the non West have been successful to a point but that changing realities in these countries require a new approach In Refashioning Futures he proposes a strategic practice of criticism that brings the political more clearly into view in areas of the world where the very coherence of a secular modern project can no longer be taken for granted Through a series of linked essays on culture and politics in his native Jamaica and in Sri Lanka the site of his long scholarly involvement Scott examines the ways in which modernity inserted itself into and altered the lives of the colonized The institutional procedures encoded in these modern postcolonial states and their legal systems come under scrutiny as do our contemporary languages of the political Scott demonstrates that modern concepts of political representation community rights justice obligation and the common good do not apply universally and require reconsideration His ultimate goal is to describe the modern colonial past in a way that enables us to appreciate more deeply the contours of our historical present and that enlarges the possibility of reshaping it Contemporary Postcolonial Theory Padmini Mongia, 2021-01-07 There is a crisis in contemporary postcolonial theory while an enormous body of challenging research has been produced under its auspices severely critical questions about the validity and usefulness of this theory have also been raised This Reader is positioned at the juncture where it can address these contestations It makes available some of the classics of the field engages with the issues raised by contemporary practitioners but also offers several of the arguments that strongly critique postcolonial theory Although postcolonial theory purports to be inter disciplinary and frequently anti foundationalist traces of disciplinary formations and linearity have continued to haunt its articulations This Reader on the other hand offers a uniquely inter disciplinary mapping It is concerned with three main areas definitional problems and contests including the current challenges to postcolonial theory the disciplining of knowledge where the multiple resonances of the word disciplining are all engaged and the location of practice where the relations between intellectual practice and historical conditions are explored Finally since the guiding principle of this Reader is simultaneous attention to the enabling and constraining mechanisms of historical realities and institutional practices the commentary problematizes the writing of histories the formations of canons and indeed the production of Readers Communicating Social Change Mohan J.
