Postmodern Sublime Technology And American Writing From Mailer To Cyberpunk:

Postmodern Sublime Joseph Tabbi, 2018-05-31 Focusing on works by Norman Mailer Thomas Pynchon Joseph McElroy and Don DeLillo Joseph Tabbi finds that a simultaneous attraction to and repulsion from technology has produced a powerful new mode of modern writing the technological sublime Latin Americanism Román De la Campa, 1999 In this timely book Roman de la Campa asks to what degree the Latin America studied in U S academies is actually an entity made in the U S A He argues that there is an ever increasing gap between the political theoretical and financial pressures affecting the U S academy and Latin America s own cultural political and literary practices De la Campa focuses on the conduct of Latin American literary criticism in U S universities and compares this with the Latin Americanism of Latin America itself

Color Monitors Martin Kevorkian, 2018-07-05 Color Monitors looks at a particular subset of imagined computer use focusing on scenarios that demand from the person at the keyboard an intimate technical knowledge. My research has uncovered a peculiar pattern: race comes into sharp relief when computer use is depicted as difficult labor requiring special expertise. Time and again in such scenarios the helpful person of color is there to take the call to provide technical support to deal with the machines. In interpreting such images, Color Monitors analyzes the computer fearing strain in American whiteness, an aspect of white identity that defines itself against information technology and the racial other imagined to love it and excel at it. Martin Kevorkian. Following up on Ralph Ellison's intimation that blacks serve as the machines inside the machine, Color Monitors examines the designation of black bodies as natural machines for the information age. Martin Kevorkian shows how African Americans are consistently depicted as highly skilled, intelligent, and technologically savvy as they work to solve complex computer problems in popular movies, corporate advertising, and contemporary fiction. But is this progress? Or do such seemingly positive depictions have more disturbing implications? Kevorkian provocatively asserts that white historical fear of a black planet has in the age of microprocessing converged with a new fear of computers and the possibility that digital imperatives will engulf human creativity. Analyzing escapist fantasies from Mission Impossible to Minority Report, Kevorkian argues that the placement of a black man in front of a computer screen doubly reassures audiences: he is nonthreatening, safely occupied, even imprisoned by the very machine he attempts to control, an occupation that simultaneously frees the action heroes from any electronic headaches. The study concludes with some alternatives to this scheme, looking to a network of recent authors with shared affinities for Ellison and Pynchon, willing to think inside the black box of technology. Connecting race, technology, and American empire, Color Monitors will attract attention from scholars working in emerging areas of race theory, African American studies, film studies, cultural studies, and technology and communication studies.

Culture, Identities and Technology in the Star Wars Films Carl Silvio, Tony M. Vinci, 2014-11-26 Released in May 1977, the original Star Wars movie inaugurated the age of the movie blockbuster. It also redefined the use of cinematic special effects, creating a new textual universe that now stretches through three decades, two trilogies, and generations of fascinated viewers. The body of critical analysis that has developed from this epic focuses primarily on the Star Wars universe as a contemporary myth. However, like any fiction, it must also be viewed and consequently analyzed as a product of the culture which created it. The essays in this book analyze the Star Wars trilogies as a culturally and historically specific phenomenon. Moving away from the traditional myth-based criticism of the films, the essayists employ a cultural studies model to examine how this phenomenon intersects with social formations such as economics, technology, race, and gender. Critical approaches are varied and include political and economic analysis informed by feminism, contemporary race theory, Marxism, new media studies, and post-humanism. Among the topics covered are the connections between the trilogies and our own cultural landscape the problematic issues of race and gender and the thematic implications of Lucas presentation of technology

Writing at the Limit Daniel Punday,2012-05-01 While some cultural critics are pronouncing the death of the novel a whole generation of novelists have turned to other media with curiosity rather than fear These novelists are not simply incorporating references to other media into their work for the sake of verisimilitude they are also engaging precisely such media as a way of talking about what it means to write and read narrative in a society filled with stories told outside the print medium By examining how some of our best fiction writers have taken up the challenge of film television video games and hypertext Daniel Punday offers an enlightening look into the current status of such fundamental narrative concepts as character plot and setting He considers well known postmodernists like Thomas Pynchon and Robert Coover more accessible authors like Maxine Hong Kingston and Oscar Hijuelos and unjustly overlooked writers like Susan Daitch and Kenneth Gangemi and asks how their works investigate the nature and limits of print as a medium for storytelling Writing at the Limit explores how novelists locate print writing within the contemporary media ecology and what it really means to be writing at print s media limit

New Perspectives on Dystopian Fiction in Literature and Other Media Saija Isomaa,Jyrki Korpua,Jouni Teittinen,2020-08-27 This collection of essays examines various forms of dystopian fiction in literature television and digital games It frames the timely trend of dystopian fiction as a thematic field that accommodates several genres from societal dystopia to apocalyptic narratives and climate fiction many of them examining the hazards of science and technology to human societies and the ecosystem These are genres of the Anthropocene par excellence capturing the dilemmas of the human condition in the current increasingly precarious epoch The essays offer new interpretations of classical and contemporary works including the canonised prose of Orwell Atwood and Cormac McCarthy modern pop culture classics like Battlestar Galactica Fallout and Hunger Games and the work of Johanna Sinisalo a pioneer of Finnish speculative fiction From Thomas Pynchon to Watership Down the volume s multifaceted approach offers fresh perspectives to those already familiar with existing research but it is no less accessible for newcomers to the ever expanding field of dystopian studies

The Gift of Beauty and the Passion of Being William Desmond,2018-07-06 This book gathers a set of reflections on the gift of beauty and the passion of being There is something surprising about beauty that we receive and that moves the passion of being in us The book takes issue with an ambiguous attitude to beauty among some who proclaim their advanced aesthetic authenticity Beauty seems bland and lacks the more visceral thrill of the ugly indeed the excremental We crave what disrupts and provokes us not what gives delight or even consoles By contrast attention is given to how beauty arouses enigmatic joy in us and we enjoy an elemental rapport with it as other Surprised by beauty our breath is taken away but we are more truly there with the beautiful when we are taken outside of ourselves We are first receivers of the gift of surprise and only then perceivers and conceivers My attention to the passion of being stresses a patience a receptivity to what is other What happens is not first our construction There is something given something awakening something delighting something energizing something of invitation to transcendence The theme is amplified in diverse reflections on life and its transient beauty on soul music and its relation to self on the shine on things given in creation on beauty and Schopenhauer s dark origin on creativity and the dynamis in Paul Weiss s creative ventures on redemption in Romanticism in the thought of Stanley Cavell on theater as a between or metaxu on redeeming laughter and its connection with the passion of being

The Curse of the Werewolf Bourgault du Coudray Chantal, 2006-08-25 Half man half myth the werewolf has over the years infiltrated popular culture in many strange and varied shapes from Gothic horror to the body horror films of the 1980s and today's graphic novels Yet despite enormous critical interest in myths and in monsters from vampires to cyborgs the figure of the werewolf has been strangely overlooked Embodying our primal fears of anguished masculinity of the beast within the werewolf argues Bourgault du Coudray has revealed in its various lupine guises radically shifting attitudes to the human psyche Tracing the werewolf's use by anthropologists and criminologists and shifting interpretations of the figure from the scientific to the mythological and psychological Bourgault du Coudray also sees the werewolf in Freud's wolf man case and the sinister use of wolf imagery in Nazism The Curse of the Werewolf looks finally at the werewolf's revival in contemporary fantasy finding in this supposedly conservative genre a fascinating new model of the human's relationship to nature It is a required reading for students of fantasy myth and monsters No self-respecting werewolf should be without it

The Maximalist Novel Stefano Ercolino, 2014-06-19 The Maximalist Novel sets out to define a new genre of contemporary fiction that developed in the United States from the early 1970s and then gained popularity in Europe in the early twenty-first century The maximalist novel has a very strong symbolic and morphological identity Ercolino sets out ten particular elements which define and structure it as a complex literary form length an encyclopedic mode dissonant chorality diegetic exuberance completeness narratorial omniscience paranoid imagination inter-semiocity ethical commitment and hybrid realism These ten characteristics are common to all of the seven works that centre his discussion Gravity's Rainbow by Thomas Pynchon Infinite Jest by David Foster Wallace Underworld by Don DeLillo White Teeth by Zadie Smith The Corrections by Jonathan Franzen 2666 by Roberto Bolaño and 2005 dopo Cristo by the Babette Factory Though the ten features are not all present in the same way or form in every single text they are all decisive in defining the genre of the maximalist novel insofar as they are systematically co-present Taken singularly they can be easily found both in modernist and postmodern novels which are not maximalist Nevertheless it is precisely their co-presence as well as their reciprocal articulation which make them fundamental in demarcating the maximalist novel as a genre

The Palgrave Handbook of Literature and the City Jeremy Tambling, 2017-02-17 This book is about the impact of literature upon cities world-wide and cities upon literature It examines why the city matters so much to contemporary critical theory and why it has inspired so many forms of writing which have attempted to deal with its challenges to think about it and to represent it Gathering together 40 contributors who look at different modes of writing and film-making in throughout the world this handbook asks how the modern city has engendered so much theoretical consideration and looks at cities and their literature from China to Peru from New York to Paris from London to Kinshasa It looks at some of the ways in which modern cities whether capitals shanty towns industrial or rust belt have forced themselves on people's ways of thinking and writing

Postmodernity,

Ethics and the Novel Andrew Gibson, 2002-01-04 In Postmodernity Ethics and the Novel Andrew Gibson sets out to demonstrate that postmodern theory has actually made possible an ethical discourse around fiction. Each chapter elaborates and discusses a particular aspect of Levinas' thought and raises questions for that thought and its bearing on the novel. It also contains detailed analyses of particular texts. Part of the book's originality is its concentration on a range of modernist and postmodern novels which have seldom if ever served as the basis for a larger ethical theory of fiction. Postmodernity Ethics and the Novel discusses among others the writings of Joseph Conrad, Henry James, Jane Austen, Samuel Beckett, Marcel Proust, and Salman Rushdie.

Kathy Acker Margaret Henderson, 2020-10-15 This project is a feminist study of the idiosyncratic oeuvre of Kathy Acker and how her unique art and politics located at the explosive intersection of punk postmodernism and feminism critiques and exemplifies late twentieth century capitalism. There is no female or feminist writer like Kathy Acker and probably no male either. Her body of work—nine novels, novellas, essays, reviews, poetry, and film scripts published in a period spanning the 1970s to the mid 1990s—is the most developed body of contemporary feminist postmodernist work and of the punk aesthetic in a literary form. Some 20 years after her death, Kathy Acker Punk Writer gives a detailed and comprehensive analysis of how Acker melds the philosophy and poetics of the European avant-garde with the vernacular and ethos of her punk subculture to voice an idiosyncratic feminist radical politics in literary form: a punk feminism. With its aesthetics of shock, transgression, parody, Debordian détournement, caricature, and montage, her oeuvre reimagines the fin de siècle United States as a schlock horror film for her punk girl protagonist, Acker's cipher for herself and other rebellious and nonconformist women. This approach will allow the reader to more fully understand Acker as a writer who inhabits an explosive and creative nexus of contemporary women's writing, punk culture, and punk feminism's reimagining of late capitalism. This vital work will be an important text at both undergraduate and graduate levels in gender and women's studies, postmodern studies, and twentieth century American literature.
