Glossner, 2010-02-28 The years following the end of World War II in Germany were a significant period of change and upheaval This book on the economic reconstruction of post war West Germany traces the development of economic and socio political ideas and their gradual absorption by mainstream politicians officials and the general public during the period of transition between 1945 and 1949 In the aftermath of World War II several German think tanks political parties and individuals gave impulse to and then shaped the development of a viable socio political and economic model between the extremes of laissez faire capitalism and the collectivist planned economy In their endeavours to bring into effect their particular economic ideas often diametrically opposed to one another the parties of left and right stimulated not only academic and political debate but also public debate about the political and economic reconstruction of occupied post war Germany While all the various neo liberal approaches assigned to the people sovereign and decisive status in the institutional economic order and recognised the interdependence of politics economics and the public one particular school of economic thought outpaced the others in communicating a model of coordinated economic and social policy namely the Social Market Economy Christian Glossner here investigates whether or not it was primarily the subtlety of the political campaign for this model that led to its implementation by the then Economic Council and eventual validation by the German electorate The programmes published by the principal academic and political groups of the time and the practical day to day decisions of the first parliament in post war Germany are analysed with reference to popular preferences By examining both the formative involvement of German parties in post war reconstruction and the role of the public during the process of economic liberalisation this book provides explanations for why the Social Market Economy prevailed as the socio political and economic model for the Federal Republic of Germany It will be of interest to scholars of German economic and twentieth century history

Post-war Canada, 1940 - 1955 Nancy Christie,Michael Gauvreau,2004-01-15 The years between the end of World War II and the mid 1960s have usually been viewed as an era of political and social consensus made possible by widely diffused prosperity creeping Americanization and fears of radical subversion and a dominant culture challenged periodically by the claims of marginal groups By exploring what were actually the mainstream ideologies and cultural practices of the period the authors argue that the postwar consensus was itself a precarious cultural ideal that was characterized by internal tensions and while containing elements of conservatism reflected considerable diversity in the way in which citizenship identities were defined Contributors include Denyse Baillargeon Universit de Montr al P E Bryden Mount Allison University Nancy Christie Michael Gauvreau Karine Hebert Carleton University Len Kuffert Carleton University and Peter S McInnis St Francis Xavier University *Post-war Economic Policy and Planning: Problems of foreign trade and shipping. Walstad,2012-12-06 Economics is taught in some form in the secondary schools of nations throughout the world The subject is rarely taught in elementary schools and while economics courses are offered in universities the majority of students end their formal education with secondary school Thus the best opportunity for the economic education of the youth of a nation occurs in secondary schools This book examines economic education at this critical level of the educational system The teaching of economics in secondary schools varies across countries These differences occur because of history the structure of education and other national factors At the same time there are common elements in the economic education of many countries especially in content coverage This contrast between the common features and the uniqueness of economic education in secondary schools of major industrial nations exemplifies the international perspective presented in this book The international perspective is developed in the six sections of the volume The first section discusses why nations should include economics in school curricula and presents a framework for teaching economics that should have global appeal Dissension and consensus on economic issues among North American and European economists are examined in the second section The third section surveys the U S research literature on precollege economic education and assesses the current state of economics instruction in U S schools The economics curricula and educational practices in seven other nations the U K Canada Japan Germany Austria Korea and Australia are described in the fourth and fifth sections The fifth section also presents international comparisons of economic understanding based on national testing in six of those nations The sixth and final section explores the role of economic education in centrally planned economies and its effects on the transition to a market economy using Russia Bulgaria and China as case studies
