Pottery Workshop:

Pottery in the Archaeological Record Mark L. Lawall, John Lund, 2011-04-20 Archaeologists are increasingly focusing on the transformation of artifacts from their use in the past to their appearance in the archaeological record trying to identify the natural and cultural processes that created the archaeological record we study today. In Classical Archaeology attention to these processes received an impetus by J. Theodore Pena's 2007 monograph Roman Pottery in the Archaeological Record which considered how ceramic vessels were made, used, and stayed in use serving various secondary purposes before finally being discarded. Pena relied mainly on evidence from Roman Italy which raises the question of the impact of similar cultural forces on pottery from other periods and places. His work accentuates the need to continue the process of building and developing explicit interpretive models of ceramic life histories in Mediterranean archaeology. With a view to beginning to address these challenges the editors invited a group of specialists in the pottery of Greece and the rest of the Eastern Mediterranean to a colloquium in Athens in June 2008 asking the contributors to reconsider Pena's general models, approaches, and examples from their own particular geographic and cultural perspectives. This publication constitutes the proceedings of this colloquium.

A Late Bronze Age Pottery Workshop at Hazor Jennifer Carol Ross, 1991 Bauhaus Michael Siebenbrodt, Lutz Schöbe, 2015-09-15 The Bauhaus movement meaning the house of building developed in three German cities: it began in Weimar between 1919 and 1925 then continued in Dessau from 1925 to 1932 and finally ended in 1932-1933 in Berlin. Three leaders presided over the growth of the movement: Walter Gropius from 1919 to 1928, Hannes Meyer from 1928 to 1930, and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe from 1930 to 1933. Founded by Gropius in the rather conservative city of Weimar, the new capital of Germany which had just been defeated by the other European nations in the First World War, the movement became a flamboyant response to this humiliation. Combining new styles in architecture, design, and painting, the Bauhaus aspired to be an expression of a generational utopia striving to free artists facing a society that remained conservative in spite of the revolutionary efforts of the post-war period. Using the most modern materials, the Bauhaus was born out of the precepts of William Morris and the Arts and Crafts movement, introducing new forms inspired by the most ordinary of objects into everyday life. The shuttering of the center in Berlin by the Nazis in 1933 did not put an end to the movement since many of its members chose the path of exile and established themselves in the United States. Although they all went in different directions artistically, their work shared the same origin. The most influential among the Bauhaus artists were Anni Albers, Josef Albers, Marianne Brandt, Marcel Breuer, Lyonel Feininger, Ludwig Hilberseimer, Paul Klee, Wassily Kandinsky, and Lothar Schreyer. Through a series of beautiful reproductions, this work provides an overview of the Bauhaus era, including the history, influence, and major figures of this revolutionary movement which turned everyday life into art.

The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold,2015-02-15 In The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E Arnold continues his unique approach to ceramic ethnoarchaeology tracing the history of potters in Ticul Yucat n and their production space

over a period of more than four decades This follow up to his 2008 work Social Change and the Evolution of Ceramic Production and Distribution uses narrative to trace the changes in production personnel and their spatial organization through the changes in production organization in Ticul Although several kinds of production units developed households were the most persistent units of production in spite of massive social change and the reorientation of pottery production to the tourist market Entrepreneurial workshops government sponsored workshops and workshops attached to tourist hotels developed more recently but were short lived whereas pottery making households extended deep into the nineteenth century Through this continuity and change intermittent crafting multi crafting and potters increased management of economic risk also factored into the development of the production organization in Ticul Illustrated with more than 100 images of production units The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community is an important contribution to the understanding of ceramic production Scholars with interests in craft specialization craft production and demography as well as specialists in Mesoamerican archaeology anthropology history and economy will find this volume especially useful The Presented Past B. L. Molyneaux, P. G. Stone, 2003-09-02 The Presented Past is concerned with the differences between the comparatively static well understood way in which the past is presented in schools museums and at historic sites compared to the approaches currently being explored in contemporary archaeology It challenges the all too frequent representation of the past as something finished understood and objective rather than something that is constructed and therefore open to co existing interpretations and constant re interpretation Central to the book is the belief that the presentation of the past in school curricula and in museum and site interpretations will benefit from a greater use of non documentary sources derived from archaeological study and oral histories The book suggests that a view of the past incorporating a larger body of evidence and a wider variety of understanding will help to invigorate the way history is taught The Presented Past will be of interest to teachers archaeologists cultural resource managers in fact anyone who is concerned with how the past is presented Qumran: The Site of the Dead Sea Scrolls: Archaeological Interpretations and Debates Jean-Baptiste Humbert, Jürgen Zangenberg, 2018-11-01 Today archaeology plays an ever growing role in Qumran studies Fifteen papers presented in 2002 at Brown University provide the necessary data to break new ground in the recent debate about the character of Qumran Section I discusses material from old and new excavations that help assess the validity of the traditional Qumran Essene hypothesis Part II discusses various aspects of the main settlement such as division of space the character of period III the date of the cave scroll deposits and the use of food Part III deals with the Qumran cemetery and a similar graveyard at Khirbet Qazone Part IV places Qumran into a wider regional context concentrating on local agriculture and ceramic production The articles strongly call for a new awareness for archaeological detail and in their various ways instigate a renewed debate about how to bring texts and material culture into a meaningful dialogue Live and Work In Hong Kong Rachel Wright, 2013-12-05 Whatever your reasons for planning to live and work in Hong Kong this comprehensive
