Poverty In Western Asia A Social Perspec:

Poverty in Western Asia United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia, 1996-01-01 A new study which provides an invaluable poverty profile of the region with information on the extent the nature the causes of poverty Focusing on the social dimensions of the problem the study singles out four issues to assess their correlation with poverty namely population dynamics employment health education The study also aims to identify groups of the population most affected by poverty Research workers policy makers will find this publication of the greatest help in addressing the most critical aspects of poverty Social Development and Social Work Perspectives on Social Protection Julie L.

Drolet, 2016-04-28 Social protection is now considered a development milestone and an important tool in combating poverty Interventions can include for example health insurance public works programs guaranteed employment schemes or cash transfers targeting vulnerable populations groups This innovative volume is designed to develop understanding about the role and contribution of social protection globally and to share innovative practice and policies from around the world It explores how to cover an entire population effectively especially those who are at risk or who are already in a situation of deprivation and in a sustainable manner Divided into two parts the book begins by exploring the theoretical underpinnings of social protection discussing the social work and social development perspectives and concepts that currently shape it The second part is comprised of case studies from countries implementing successful social protection initiatives including Brazil India South Africa Ghana Nigeria and Indonesia and reveals how the impact of a successful social protection intervention on poverty vulnerability and inequality can be dramatic This volume is an important reference for advanced students and researchers from a range of disciplines including social policy social work development studies geography planning economics sociology population health and political science Perspectives in Social Research Methods and Analysis

Howard Lune, Enrique S. Pumar, Ross Koppel, 2010 This book shows students the steps involved in the research process the various strategies for conducting a valid social inquiry and most importantly the persuasiveness and elegance of reliable social research It highlights the link between academic research and the real world Included are carefully chosen examples of each of the major methodological techniques survey interviews fieldwork observations experiments content analysis secondary analysis and program evaluation Also included are selections on sampling strategies research ethics and both qualitative and quantitative data analysis Expanding Perspectives on Human Rights in Africa M. Raymond Izarali, Oliver Masakure, Bonny Ibhawoh, 2019-03-14 This book draws attention to emerging issues around the rights of minorities marginalized groups and persons in Africa It explores the gaps between human rights provisions and conditions showing that although international human rights principles have been embraced in the continent various minority groups and marginalized persons are denied such rights through criminalization and persecution African countries have a good record of signing and ratifying international and regional rights instruments but the political will and capacity for enforcing these with respect to minorities remain weak International contributors to the book provide new perspectives on the rights of marginalized and minority groups in different parts of Africa and the extent to which they are deprived or denied entitlement to the universality and equality articulated in law The authors show that human rights while having come of age as a moral ideal has not been fully entrenched in practice towards groups such as children indigenous populations the mentally ill persons with disabilities and persons with albinism This volume is geared toward scholars students human rights groups policy makers social workers international organizations and policy makers in the fields of criminology security studies development studies political science sociology children studies social psychology international relations postcolonial studies and African Studies Unity and Diversity in Development Ideas Yves Berthelot, 2004-01-30 This second volume from the United Nations Intellectual History Project surveys the history of the UN's regional commissions and the ideas they have developed over the last 40 years Each essay is devoted to one of the five regional commissions Europe Asia and the Far East Latin America Africa and Western Asia and how it has approached its mission of assessing the condition of regional economies and making prognoses about future conditions The essays describe how each commission has added local perspectives to global debates over economic development and brought an authentic regional voice to the UN Contributors are Adebayo Adedeji Yves Berthelot Leelananda de Silva Blandine Destremau Paul Rayment and Gert Rosenthal

Freedom from poverty as a human right: economic perspectives Andreassen, Bard A., Marks, Stephen P., Sengupta, Arjun, 2010-06-04 Review of the Youth Situation in the ESCWA Region from the Perspective of Human Resources Development, 2001 New Perspectives on African Childhood De-Valera NYM Botchway, Awo Sarpong, Charles Quist-Adade, 2019-09-05 What does it mean to be a child in Africa In the detached Western media narratives of penury wickedness and death have dominated portrayals of African childhood The hegemonic lens of the West has failed to take into account the intricacies of not only what it means to be an African child in local and culturally specific contexts but also African childhood in general Challenging colonial discourses this edited volume guides the reader through different comprehensions and perspectives of childhood in Africa Using a blend of theory empiricism and history the contributors to this volume offer studies from a range of fields including African literature Afro centric psychology and sociology Importantly in its eclectic geographical coverage of Africa this book unashamedly presents the good the bad and the ugly of African childhood The resilience creativity pains and triumphs of African childhood are skilfully woven together to present the myriad of lived experiences and aspirations of children from across Africa As an important contribution to African childhood studies this book has the potential to be used by policymakers to shape sustain or change socio cultural economic and education systems that accommodate African childhood dynamics and experiences at different levels Environmental Health Perspectives, 1993 Asian Perspectives on Workplace Bullying and Harassment Premilla D'Cruz, Ernesto Noronha, Avina Mendonca, 2021-08-10 This book showcases empirical studies on workplace bullying from a range of Asian countries including China India Indonesia Israel Japan Jordan Malaysia Pakistan Singapore South Korea Sri Lanka Thailand UAE and Vietnam and is the first of its kind single academic project documenting workplace emotional abuse in the world's largest continent. It encompasses the varieties of workplace bullying conceptualization in addition to category based harassment and abusive supervision and presents target bystander and interventionist perspectives along with contextualized insights into the phenomenon. The book speaks to the significance of sociocultural factors and draws on several theoretical and substantive bases including dignity social cynicism coping gender sexual orientation job insecurity turnover intention affective events theory attribution theory regulation and policy initiatives. Covering all major regions in Asia where workplace bullying has been found to occur namely West Asia South Asia Southeast Asia and East Asia the book portrays studies which engage both positivist and postpositivist paradigms utilize an array of methods and include a range of industrial sectors and employment contracts and all levels of the organization. While focused on Asia the book's insights have international relevance and are of interest to the worldwide community of researchers practitioners and students of organizational studies human resource management industrial sociology work psychology industrial relations labour law corporate law health sciences social work and Asian studies.

Rethinking Displacement: Asia Pacific Perspectives

Kuntala Lahiri-Dutt, 2016-04-08 This book responds to the need to explore the multitude of interconnected factors causing displacements that compel people to move within their homelands or traverse various borders in the contemporary world that is characterised by extensive and rapid movements of people. It addresses this need by bringing together historical and contemporary accounts and critical examinations of the displaced by articulating the commonalities in their lived experiences. It accomplishes the task of charting a new path in displacement studies by offering a number of studies from interdisciplinary and diverse methodological approaches comprising ethnographic and qualitative research and literary interpretations to emphasise that although the forms and conditions of mobility are highly divergent individual experiences of displacement and placelessness offer a critical challenge to the artificial categorisations of people's movements. Each chapter adds insights into the different configurations of displacement and placement and offers fresh interpretations of migration and dislocation in today's rapidly changing world. The contributors critically examine a variety of displacement processes and experiences in the context of war tourism neoliberal policies of development and the impact of various agro forestry policies. They focus on a range of countries enabling a thorough comparative analysis in terms of scope and range of examples and methods of analysis. This book makes an original contribution to the growing body of literature on displacement and will appeal to a wide readership including advanced undergraduates and graduate students and professors in disciplines such as human geography development studies sociology and anthropology regional studies and comparative impact assessment.

Venkateswarlu, Arun K. Shanker, Chitra Shanker, M.

Maheswari, 2011-11-22. Crops experience an assortment of environmental stresses which include abiotic viz drought, water logging, salinity, extremes of temperature, high variability in radiation, subtle but perceptible changes in atmospheric gases and biotic viz insects, birds, other pests, weeds, pathogens, viruses and other microbes. The ability to tolerate or adapt and overwinter by effectively countering these stresses is a very multifaceted phenomenon. In addition, the inability to do so, which renders the crops susceptible, is again the result of various exogenous and endogenous interactions in the ecosystem. Both biotic and abiotic stresses occur at various stages of plant development and frequently more than one stress concurrently affects the crop. Stresses result in both universal and definite effects on plant growth and development. One of the imposing tasks for the crop researchers globally is to distinguish and to diminish effects of these stress factors on the performance of crop plants, especially with respect to yield and quality of harvested products. This is of special significance in view of the impending climate change with complex consequences for economically profitable and ecologically and environmentally sound global agriculture. The challenge at the hands of the crop scientist in such a scenario is to promote a competitive and multifunctional agriculture leading to the production of highly nourishing, healthy and secure food and animal feed, as well as raw materials for a wide variety of industrial applications. In order to successfully meet this challenge, researchers have to understand the various aspects of these stresses in view of the current development from molecules to ecosystems The book will focus on broad research areas in relation to these stresses which are in the forefront in contemporary crop stress research
