Poverty Law And Social Change The Story Of The Fitzroy Legal Service:

Poverty Law and Social Change John Chesterman, 2015-09-07 Law for the Poor and Lawyers for the People declared the headlines that announced the opening of the Fitzroy Legal Service in December 1972 In a dingy town hall basement in one of the poorest suburbs of Melbourne this new legal service set out to do the unthinkable to provide free legal advice to all comers Almost a quarter of a century later under an equally radical Liberal government the Fitzroy Legal Service has found itself cast in the unlikely role of a defender of the status quo against reforms that threaten judicial independence and restrict the availability of legal aid John Chesterman traces the evolution of the Fitzroy Legal Service from a thorn in the side of the legal profession to a valued contributor to legal debate In this process he provides an entertaining and perceptive account of the forces that have prompted legal reform in Australia from the early 1970s particularly in the development of legal aid

Educating for Justice Jeremy Cooper, Louise C. Trubek, 2018-12-17 Published in 1997 an edited collection of essays by a group of international public interest scholars and activists that examines the role and function of the law school in developing transmitting and understanding the use of law to bring about social change to the advantage of subordinated people The book traces this influence from the early days of the law school and its induction of legal principles and client responsibilities through training for practices in a variety of settings including teaching social action research client empowerment programs to the outer limits of law school in community legal education and awareness An important and pioneering series of international case studies

Access to Justice and Legal Aid Asher Flynn, Jacqueline Hodgson, 2017-01-26 This book considers how access to justice is affected by restrictions to legal aid budgets and increasingly prescriptive service guidelines As common law jurisdictions England and Wales and Australia share similar ideals policies and practices but they differ in aspects of their legal and political culture in the nature of the communities they serve and in their approaches to providing access to justice These jurisdictions thus provide us with different perspectives on what constitutes justice and how we might seek to overcome the burgeoning crisis in unmet legal need The book fills an important gap in existing scholarship as the first to bring together new empirical and theoretical knowledge examining different responses to legal aid crises both in the domestic and comparative contexts across criminal civil and family law It achieves this by examining the broader social political legal health and welfare impacts of legal aid cuts and prescriptive service guidelines Across both jurisdictions this work suggests that it is the most vulnerable groups who lose out in the way the law now operates in the twenty first century This book is essential reading for academics students practitioners and policymakers interested in criminal and civil justice access to justice the provision of legal assistance and legal aid

Lawyers in Conflict Mary Anne Noone, Stephen Tomsen, 2006 This book provides a comprehensive account of the modern Australian legal aid system It charts the twists and turns of policy and practice over the past 30 years with a particular focus on the reaction of the legal profession to conflicts and debates about legal aid policy and services and the way in which this has both reflected and accentuated major shifts in the social and political structure of the profession itself the development of community legal centres from radical fringe organisations to accepted legal practices which provide a value for money service and work in alliance with the big city firms the constancy of government calls for fiscal restraint and the recurrent lack of clear objectives despite widely varying approaches by different administrations

State Crime and Resistance Elizabeth Stanley, Jude McCulloch, 2012-11-27 Within criminology the state is often ignored as an active participant or represented as a neutral force While state crime studies have proliferated criminologists have not paid attention to the history and impact of resistance to state crime This book recognises that crimes of the state are far more serious and harmful than crimes committed by individuals and considers how such crimes may be contested prevented challenged or stopped Gathering together key scholars from the UK USA Asia Australia and New Zealand this book offers a deepened understanding of state crime through the practical and analytical lens of resistance This book focuses on crimes ranging from gross violations of human rights such as genocide war crimes mass killings summary executions torture harsh detention and rape during war to entrenched discrimination unjust social policies border controls corruption fraud resource plunder and the failure to provide the regulatory environment and principled leadership necessary to deal with global warming As the first to focus on state crime and resistance this collection inspires new questions as it maps the contours of previously unexplored territory It is aimed at students and academics researching state crimes resistance human rights and social movements It is also essential reading for all those interested in joining the struggles to champion ways of living that value humanity and justice over power

Sex Discrimination in Uncertain Times Margaret Thornton, 2010-09-01 This collection of essays arose from a conference held to mark the silver anniversary of the Australian Sex Discrimination Act 1984 The collection has two aims first to honour the contributions of both the spirited individuals who valiantly fought for the enactment of the legislation against the odds and those who championed the new law once it was passed secondly to present a stock take of the Act within the changed socio political environment of the 21st century The contributors present clear eyed appraisals of the legislation in addition to considering new forms of legal regulation such as Equality Act and the significance of a Human Rights Act The introduction of a proactive model which would impose positive duties on organisations is explored as an alternative to the existing individual complaint based model of legislation The contributors also pay attention to the international human rights framework particularly the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women and the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People The essays are illuminated by recourse to a rich vein of historical and contemporary literature Regard is also paid to the comparative experience of other jurisdictions particularly the UK and Canada

Creating and Implementing Public Policy Gemma Carey, Kathy Landvogt, Jo Barraket, 2015-12-14 In order to address major social policy problems governments need to break down sectoral barriers and create better working relationships between practitioners policymakers and researchers Currently major blockages exist and stereotypes abound

Academics are seen as out of touch and unresponsive policymakers are perceived to be justifying policy decisions and the community sector seeks more funding without demonstrating efficacy These stereotypes are born out of a lack of understanding of the work and practices that exist across these three sectors Drawing on ground breaking research and partnerships with contributions from senior public servants this book explores the competing demands of different actors involved in policy change It challenges current debates assumptions and reflects a unique diversity of experiences Combined with differing theoretical perspectives it provides a uniquely practical insight for those seeking to influence public policy This innovative text provides essential reading for community sector practitioners academics and advanced level students in public policy social policy and public administration as well as for public service professionals Citizens Without Rights John Chesterman, Brian Galligan, 1997-12-22 3 Is the constitution to blame Monash University Law Review Monash University.
