Poverty Profile Of Cambodia

Poverty Profile Of Cambodia:

A Poverty Profile of Cambodia Nicholas M. Prescott, Menno Pradhan, 1997-01-01 China is in the throes of two transitions from a command economy to a market based one and from a rural agricultural society to an urban industrial one. So far both transitions have been spectacularly successful. China is the fastest growing economy in the world with per capita incomes more than quadrupling since 1978 achieving in two generations what took other countries centuries. Although swift growth and structural change have resolved many problems they also have created new challenges: employment insecurity, growing inequality, stubborn poverty, mounting environmental pressures, rising costs of food self sufficiency and periods of macroeconomic instability stemming from incomplete reforms. Unmet these challenges could undermine the sustainability of growth and China's promise could fade. China 2020 a seven volume set examines China's recent history where it is today and the path it should follow during the first two decades of the 21st century. The volume in the set entitled Financing Health Care Issues and Options for China assesses the state of health care in China and addresses the problems facing the sector in terms of financial access to health care, efficiency and total cost. Although the health sector is in relatively good condition today this study asserts the need to promptly make policy changes to ensure universal health care coverage by either the public or the private sector over the next two decades. Chapters focus on the effects of reduced public health spending on rural populations, the likely increase in health costs as the population ages, the harmful effects of tobacco use and fee for service provider systems.

A Poverty Profile of Cambodia, 2004, 2006 Handbook on Poverty + Inequality Jonathan Haughton, Shahidur R. Khandker, 2009-03-27 For anyone wanting to learn in practical terms how to measure, describe, monitor, evaluate and analyze poverty this Handbook is the place to start. It is designed to be accessible to people with a university level background in science or the social sciences. It is an invaluable tool for policy analysts, researchers, college students and government officials working on policy issues related to poverty and inequality.

A poverty profile of Cambodia, 1999 Cambodia. Krasuan Phaenkär, 2000 Environments of the Poor in Southeast Asia, East Asia and the Pacific Aris Ananta, 2014-11-11 This book provides examples of possible triple win solutions for simultaneously reducing poverty, raising the quality of the environment and adapting to climate change. The book provides empirical evidence and observations from sixteen case studies in Southeast and East Asia and from the Pacific. It argues that a spatial approach focussing on the environments in which the poor and vulnerable live would trigger changes for development policies and implementation that better balance environmental and social concerns. In line with the post 2015 Millennium Development Goals MDG and Sustainable Development Goals SDG agenda emphasizing integrated development approaches for the slum poor, the upland poor, the dryland poor, the coastal poor and the flood affected wetland poor would also bring the environment and poverty agenda closer. The book emerged from a cooperation of the Asian Development Bank ADB with the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies ISEAS in partnership with experts from research institutes and think tanks in the Asian region.

Cambodian Economy Hang Chuon Naron, 2011 This monumental study by arguably the most respected economic policymaker in the Cambodian government over the past decade is a very welcome addition to the sparse literature on the Cambodian economy. It is destined to become the standard reference on economic development in post conflict Cambodia. The volume's 25 chapters are grouped into nine sections: geography and population, the macroeconomic framework, the challenge of modernising agriculture, the challenge of industrialisation, services and infrastructure, human resource development, international economic relations, and a conclusion. The content is encyclopaedic with an immense amount of detail on practically every conceivable aspect of the country's development. Dr Naron is to be congratulated for fitting this admirable project into his extremely demanding daytime job as the secretary of state in the Ministry of Economy and Finance along with many other responsibilities. Among the many reasons to welcome its publication is its authentic Cambodian voice and perspective in a literature dominated by foreign researchers. A generation of scholars on the Cambodian economy and all those with an interest in the country are in his debt. Asian Pacific Economic Literature Cambodia Pou Sothirak, 2003-08-01 In the 20 years since the Paris accords of 1991 brought peace to Cambodia, the country has undergone what can only be described as astounding change. From a polity where the entire fabric of society had been rent asunder through years of war and genocide, contemporary Cambodia is fast becoming a vibrant state and assuming a new position in the Asia Pacific region. The contributions to this volume, many by prominent figures who were intimately connected with the process, describe the diverse strands of mediation and peace building which went into the creation of the 1991 accords. The subsequent role of UNTAC and the 1993 general elections in the process of Cambodian revival and social rebuilding are also described. While not denying that obstacles and difficulties remain, the contributions outline the evolving economic, political, religious, and human resource situations within Cambodia while also examining the country's contemporary international relations. This book constitutes a particularly fitting testament to the 20 years of Cambodian reconstruction which have followed the 1991 peace accords. When There Was No Money Heather A. Clark, 2006-03-14 The challenges in development often seem insurmountable. They overwhelm nations and the builders of their most basic institutions. I am often asked how development finance agencies can work together to meet this challenge. In reply, I invite you to read a story about cooperation in rebuilding one of the most basic institutions of any society: the banking system. KfW Bankengruppe places great emphasis on financial sector development. Our experience in our own country and beyond our borders shows that one of the first steps is building a banking system that fuels growth through investment in enterprises. Micro, small, and medium enterprises are the backbone of many economies; they are also the wealth of the people and generate their hope in the future. We believe that the depth of the financial sector is related to economic growth: the growth and safety of deposits, the facility of payments, and the invitation to develop new products and services that strengthen markets and promote investment. A strong banking system supports economic growth by attracting unproductive capital and injecting it into the economy.

increasing the productivity of the country's capital base and leveraging it by attracting outside capital A Poverty Profile of Cambodia, 1997, 1998 Southeast Asia Rising from the Pandemic Asian Development Bank, 2022-03-01 This publication offers a comprehensive regional level analysis of Southeast Asia's fragile recovery from the coronavirus disease COVID 19 that damaged some core economic drivers and sank millions into poverty It gives a rundown of how eight Southeast Asian countries have dealt with the pandemic and are now beginning to recover It looks at how countries have reshaped their economies to cope with the crisis and considers the impact of job losses as COVID 19 sent development gains into reverse Against a backdrop of global economic headwinds and looming climate change it offers a range of recommendations for how policymakers can best weave lessons from the pandemic into their drive for a resilient and inclusive recovery Testing Global Interdependence Natalia E. Dinello, Ernest Aryeetey, 2007-01-01 While many countries may embrace globalization at the conceptual level the specifics of implementation vary greatly from country to country This book includes diverse narratives which suggest how to limit globalization's negative aspects and ensure constructive engagement in the global community Cambodia's Economic Diversification Asian Development Bank, 2024-11-01 This study outlines actions Cambodia can take to diversify its economy and shows how cutting business costs tackling human capital deficits and reducing vulnerability to external shocks can help drive sustainable inclusive growth Exploring how Cambodia became one of Asia's fastest growing economies the study aims to show how the country can overcome existing constraints and address emerging challenges to reach upper middle income status by 2030 It identifies opportunities to diversify Cambodia's textile food processing and manufacturing industries underlines the need to overhaul education and drive the investment and infrastructure improvements needed to reach its long term goals

Fostering Competition in China's Power Markets Noureddine Berrah, Ranjit Lamech, Jianping Zhao, 2001-01-01 This book compares the recent evolution of the structure of inputs and expenditure in Armenia's general education with international norms and practice In the context of the government's sectoral reform strategy it also outlines various proposals for restructuring the system The purpose of this study is to clarify what the inefficiencies might mean for future costs and performance of the system highlight the trade offs involved and identify measures needed to overcome constraints to rationalization Structural Adjustment in the Transition Paul Siegelbaum, 2002-01-01 Annotation The study reviews the transition efforts of four countries Albania Azerbaijan Kyrgyz Republic and Moldova to develop recommendations which may benefit countries in future transition efforts These countries have been unable to overcome obstacles to achieve any sustainable success in terms of growth or poverty reduction Trade, Global Policy, and the Environment Per Fredriksson, 1999-01-01 QUOTE We live in an increasingly interconnected world Trade flows worldwide are growing rapidly and global production patterns are shifting as countries follow their comparative advantage in production via trade At the same time however there is growing concern about potential adverse environmental impacts from increasing trade QUOTE

John A Dixon Lead Economist The Environment Department World Bank Interest in the trade and environment debate has intensified as a result of international trade agreements and because many proposed solutions to the climate change problem have potential implications for the global trading system Clearly more empirical work is needed to inform the debate guide policymakers toward solutions and help set priorities This volume is an attempt to further our understanding of the empirical links between trade and the environment Thirteen chapters which were presented as papers at a World Bank conference in April 1998 focus on three main themes 1 Effects of trade liberalization and growth on the environment 2 The QUOTEpollution havenQUOTE hypothesis 3 Economic instruments for resolving global environmental problems The papers address a number of different issues within each of the themes offering new data or new questions and approaches They are devoted to deepening our understanding and empirical knowledge of the various effects of trade liberalization Only through a firm understanding of the linkages involved can well founded policy advice be formulated

Gender-related Legal Reform and Access to Economic Resources in Eastern Africa Gita Gopal, 1999 The impetus for change in African legal reform is coming primarily from African women themselves as they respond to their personal and practical experiences with the law Top down imposition of norms has not worked if legal reform is to lead to sustainable equity for women the voices of these women must be heard Given that previous efforts to ensure greater equity in personal laws have not been fully successful in eastern African countries any new legal initiatives must not repeat the mistakes of the past Law must not again remain merely on the books as a legitimizing tool that reinforces or supports gender discrimination but must actively protect and guard the interests of both men and women This paper attempts to draw out some possible lessons from past experience to inform new efforts at legal reform in these countries It examines the laws related to allocation of economic resources within households in the broader historical social and cultural context in some of these countries and examines the effectiveness of these laws in challenging gender relationships Strategic Management for Government Agencies Navin Girishankar, Migara De Silva, 1998-01-01 This paper presents a conceptual framework for the strategic management of government agencies in developing and transition economies It delineates a working model of an efficient government agency for which core strategy internal organizational design and external environment are aligned It then demonstrates how the objectives of public sector management are ideally based on assessments of areas of misalignment in government agencies Case-by-case Privatization in the Russian Federation Harry G. Broadman, 1998 Since the advent of reform in 1992 the Russian authorities have made substantial strides toward creating a market economy through privatization Recently Russian authorities have established an institutional framework for a case by case approach that ensures transparency and competition through the use of independent financial and other advisers This paper contains the principal presentations made at a World Bank workshop on the lessons of international experience in case by case privatization
