Poverty Equity And Growth In Malawi And Madagascar:

The Political Economy of Poverty, Equity and Growth: A Comparative Study Deepak Lal, H. Myint, 1998-10-08 This wide ranging and innovative book synthesises the findings of a major international study of the political economy of poverty equity and growth It is based primarily on analytical economic histories of 21 developing countries from 1950 to 1985 but also takes account of the wider literature on the subject The authors take an ambitious interdisciplinary approach to identify patterns in the interplay of initial conditions institutions interests and ideas which can help to explain the different growth and poverty alleviation outcomes in the Third World Three different types of poverty are distinguished based on their causes and a more nebulous idea of equity in contrast to egalitarianism is shown to have influenced policy Since growth is found to be the major means of alleviating mass structural poverty much of the book is concerned with discovering explanations for policies which are found to be the most important influences on the proximate causes of growth Lal and Myint also consider the available evidence on the role of direct transfers public and private in alleviating destitution and conjunctural poverty The Political Economy of Poverty Equity and Growth develops a novel framework for the comparative analysis of different growth outcomes This framework distinguishes between the different relative factor endowments of land labour and capital and between the different organizational structures of peasant versus plantation and mining economies It also differentiates between the politics of autonomous and factional states in the countries studied breaking the analysis down into further typological subdivisions and providing important new insights into the differing behaviour of economies that are rich in natural resources and those with abundant labour These insights constitute a richer explanation for the divergent developmental outcomes in East Asia compared with Latin America and Africa The evidence collated is used to argue for the continuing relevance of the classical liberal viewpoint on public policies for development and to show why even so nationalist ideologies are likely to be adopted and lead to cycles of interventionism and liberalism The evidence is also used to provide an explanation for the surprising current worldwide Age of Reform

The political economy of poverty, equity, and growth : Malawi and Madagascar Frederic L. Pryor, Banco Mundial, 1990

Growth and Poverty in Sub-Saharan Africa Channing Arndt, Andy McKay, Finn Tarp, 2016 While the economic growth renaissance in sub Saharan Africa is widely recognized much less is known about progress in living conditions This book comprehensively evaluates trends in living conditions in 16 major sub Saharan African countries corresponding to nearly 75% of the total population A striking diversity of experience emerges While monetary indicators improved in many countries others are yet to succeed in channeling the benefits of economic growth into the pockets of the poor Some countries experienced little economic growth and saw little material progress for the poor At the same time the large majority of countries have made impressive progress in key non monetary indicators of wellbeing Overall the African growth renaissance earns two cheers but not three While gains in macroeconomic and political stability are real they are also fragile Growth on a per capita basis is much better than in the 1980s and 1990s yet not rapid compared with other developing regions. Importantly from a pan African perspective, key economies particularly Kenya, Nigeria and South Africa are not among the better performers. Looking forward, realistic expectations are required. The development process is almost always a long hard slog. Nevertheless, real and durable factors appear to be at play on the sub-continent with positive implications for growth and poverty reduction in future.

The State, Counterinsurgency, and Political Policing in Colonial and Postcolonial Malawi, 1891-1994 Paul Chiudza Banda, 2020-10-05. Using the longue duree approach and the political economy approach, The State Counterinsurgency and Political Policing in Colonial and Postcolonial Malawi 1891-1994 studies Malawi's colonial and post-colonial history. Malawi is a former British Protectorate, formerly known as the Nyasaland Protectorate. Paul Chiudza Banda analyzes the story of the rise of insurgencies in Malawi and adopts the concept of counterinsurgency to address the reactions of the state to those who challenged its legitimacy and authority. Banda explores the factors behind the rise of insurgency, such as land alienation, high taxation, elements of forced labor, and denial of development opportunities. Banda also examines the counterinsurgency measures used by the state, such as the use of brutal force, especially through the police and other para-military groups, the codification of strict laws, and the offer of development opportunities. Through Malawi's history, Banda provides an analysis on why citizens challenge state authority, how the state responds, and what methods the state uses to defeat insurgencies.

Reforming the Malawian Public Sector Richard I. C. Tambulasi, 2010. Reforming the Malawian Public Sector argues that the new public management model that Malawi, like most African countries, adopted under the influence of donor organisations has not led to the intended development. The book examines decentralisation, performance contracting, and public-private partnerships as key aspects of the reforms and comes to the conclusion that, at best, it can be argued that the failures have been due to poor implementation and this could be attributed to the fact that the process was led by donors who lacked the necessary institutional infrastructure. The book uses the 2005-6 fertiliser subsidy programme, which the government embarked on despite donor resistance, as it went against market models but which turned out to be overwhelmingly successful to demonstrate the state's developmental ability and potential. This volume is essential reading for academics, students, and practitioners seeking a deeper understanding of public administration, management, policy development, and governance in Africa and the rest of the developing world. The book is dedicated to the memory of Guy Mhone, a Malawian who was among Africa's leading scholars in public administration and governance. His works focused mainly on public sector reforms and development.

Land Tenure and Natural Resource Management Keijiro Otsuka, Frank M. Place, 2001-08-14 The devastating environmental effects of deforestation and the exploitation of other natural resources in the developing world have been well documented yet their impact on local communities has received far less attention This volume fills this gap by looking at how land degradation and deforestation are being addressed at the local level where households have experienced the reduction of farm size and the decline of natural resources Through a comparison of Asia and Africa Land Tenure and Natural Resource Management examines the evolution of land tenure institutions within diverse cultural natural and policy environments Specific topics include the evolution of customary land tenure the impacts of land tenure policies and common property management The editors conclude that the best strategy for managing land and forest resources lies in promoting the establishment of property rights and investment in the improvement of the natural resource base Topics Include Issues and Theoretical Framework Quantitative Methodology Agroforestry Management in Ghana Agroforestry Management in Sumatra Tree and Cropland Management in Malawi Customary and Private Land Management

Innovation in natural resource management Meinzen-Dick, Ruth, Knox, Anna, Place, Frank, Swallow, Brent M., 2002-01-01 International agricultural research is expanding beyond the development of annual crop technologies for individual farms to the development of longer term natural resource management techniques for entire landscapes But technologies of practices with a long lag time between investment and returns are unlikely to be adopted by farmers unless they have secure rights to the underlying resources property rights Similarly technologies that span multiple farms are unlikely to be adopted unless neighbors and groups work together collective action But little is known about the way property rights and collective action in developing countries mediate the adoption of technologies by farmers and groups To address this information gap this volume brings together international experts in economics sociology and natural resource management to examine the links among property rights collective action and technological change for a variety of technologies across a range of community contexts in the developing world

Tobacco, Transformation and Development Dilemmas from Central Africa Martin Prowse, Paul Grassin, 2019-12-10 This book takes the reader through the expansion restructuring and possible salvation of Malawi's main industry tobacco Malawi has been dependent on tobacco exports for a century but now with demand for Malawian tobacco declining fast the country needs to diversify rapidly The authors combine an innovative range of theory and methods to provide a comprehensive and incisive analysis of the dilemmas faced by countries which still rely on a limited number of agricultural commodities in the 21st century This work will be ideal for scholars and researchers interested in political economy and African development

Beyond Market Liberalization Bart Minten, Manfred Zeller, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 Most African countries experienced dramatic agricultural market reforms over the 1990s This has resulted in significant changes in the operation of the agricultural markets and consequently in income generation and welfare of rural households In the case of Madagascar the results suggest that market reforms and corresponding adjustments in rural markets have had an average positive effect on food security for the rural households However richer households seemed to have benefited more than the poorer households This text provides a study of the market reforms focusing particularly in the changes brought to welfare income and environmental sustainability in rural areas The study aims to be of particular interest to economists and those involved in development and environmental issues

The Oxford Handbook of the Malawi Economy Hopestone Chavula, Thomas Chataghalala Munthali, Harold P. E. Ngalawa, Boniface Dulani, 2024-08-28 The Oxford Handbook of the Malawi Economy is an essential reference material with new research contributions and insights across the different areas of economic development to shape the country's future growth and development trajectory The volume is the first publication that tries to assess the performance of the Malawi economy since independence by examining how the underpinning political and economic history and the associated policies and strategies have affected the country's long term socio economic development. It captures a broad range of opinions, approaches and conclusions which serve to underline both the complexity of the issues and challenges facing Malawi and the immense difficulties in tackling them. Common themes emerge as many authors agree that the country needs to learn from its past experiences in terms of policy design and implementation and the need to implement dynamic policies that could spur productive and sustained growth and development by tackling challenges associated with the continuously evolving global economic environment.

Moving in Circles Jimu, Ignasio Malizani, 2016-02-22. Moving in Circles draws on Walter Rodney's treatise on underdevelopment. Underdevelopment is to be associated with various factors contributing to the uncertainties that lack of progress begets regardless of its genesis. Some of the indicators of this condition are pervasive poverty, liquidation of productive assets and precarious livelihoods. Uncertainty stands out as a cost as it is also a catalyst for low investment in agriculture, low returns on agricultural activities, inconsistent approach to planning and rule of law and more generally socio economic backwardness. Development should in a broad sense entail meeting human needs, actualization of local and domestic potential and liberation from uncertainty. In the long term for development talk to be meaningful there is a need for progressive transformation of underlying structures, improvement in productive capacity and general adherence to principles of good governance, openness and transparency, accountability and meaningful popular engagement.

Building State Capacity in Africa Brian Levy, Sahr John Kpundeh, 2004-01-01. This publication considers options for strengthening institutional capacity within the public sector in African countries by drawing on the experiences of public sector reform programmes in over a dozen African states. Issues discussed include the relationship between governance and economic development, public expenditure and accountability, anti corruption reforms, the politics of decentralisation, political structures and public service delivery.

Puzzle and Paradox Mireille Razafindrakoto, François Roubaud, Jean-Michel Wachsberger, 2020-02-06. Analyses the economic and political history of Madagascar from independence to the early twenty first century.

The Failure of the United Nations Development Programs for Africa Adrien M. Ratsimbaharison, 2003. This study attempts to explain why the two major United Nations U N development programs for Africa in the 1980s and 1990s UNPAAERD and UNNADAF failed to promote economic and social development. Additionally, this study systematically analyzes the two development programs and identifies the internal and external causes of their failure by focusing on the processes of their formulation, adoption, implementation and evaluation within the U N General Assembly and discussing their formation and implementation within the context of the late 20th century world economic order.

The Red and the Green Frederic L. Pryor, 2014-07-14. Reorganizing the agricultural sector into large scale state and collective farms was the most radical transformation of economic institutions implemented by Marxist governments. Frederic Pryor provides perspective on this unique experiment by comparing in a systematic and original fashion the changes in the organization of agriculture in all of the world's Marxist nations. This approach allows not only a clearer understanding of the major lines of agricultural policy and organization in these nations but also a keener insight into the reasons underlying the variations among them What have been the doctrinal elements that have led to collectivization Why has the process of collectivization been so different in various nations How have the farms been organized both internally and within the larger economy How has the performance of agriculture differed between the various Marxist nations and comparable capitalist nations And what are the difficulties in reversing collectivization and moving back toward private agriculture In answering these questions The Red and the Green draws on a vast number of primary and secondary sources from many nations as well as from extensive interviews with farmers agricultural officials and specialists in more than a dozen Marxist nations Among books dealing with problems of communist economy this study is unrivaled in its broad scope combined with careful institutional and statistical analysis Originally published in 1992 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Politics, Christianity and Society in Malawi R. Ross, O. Mulwafu, 2020-02-27 With the death of John McCracken in 2017 Malawi lost a pre eminent historian This book celebrates McCrackens contribution to the study of Malawis history and seeks to build on his legacy Part of his genius was that he identified themes that hold the key to understanding the history of Malawi in its broader perspective The authors contributing to this volume address these themes assessing the progress of historiography and setting an agenda for the further advance of historical studies The book is a valuable resource for students researchers and all who are interested in gaining a deeper understanding of Malawis past and present
