Cullen, 2017-07-05 Criminology is in a period of much theoretical ferment Older theories have been revitalized and newer theories have been set forth The very richness of our thinking about crime however leads to questions about the relative merits of these competing paradigms Accordingly in this volume advocates of prominent theories are asked to take stock of their perspectives Their challenge is to assess the empirical status of their theory and to map out future directions for theoretical development Durham County Jean Bradley Anderson, 1990 In this broad sweeping history of Durham County Jean Bradley Anderson begins with a discussion of the geography climate and geology of the region from the seventeenth century to 1981 its centennial year This remarkably comprehensive work moves beyond traditional local histories that focus on powerful families Rather Anderson integrates the stories of well known figures with those of ordinary men and women blacks and whites to create a complex but fascinating portrait of Durham s economic political social and labor history Drawing on extensive primary research Durham County examines the origins of the town of Durham and recounts the growth of communities around mills stores taverns and churches in the century preceding the rise of tobacco manufacturing It examines all phases of life in the county agriculture architecture the arts education industry politics and religion Anderson pays particular attention to such turning points as the coming of the railroad the Confederate surrender at the Bennett Place the war s connection to the rise and flourishing of the tobacco industry the move to Durham of Trinity College the development of the Research Triangle Park and the subsequent rise of the health service and high tech industries
