Clark, 2004-10-30 A historian of early Christianity considers various theoretical critiques to examine the problems and opportunities posed by the ways in which history is written Clark argues for a renewal of the study of premodern Western history through engagement with the critical methods that have transformed other humanities disciplines in recent decades

Truth, Morality, and Meaning in History Paul T. Phillips, 2019-01-01 In this important new book Paul T Phillips argues that most professional historians aside from a relatively small number devoted to theory and methodology have concerned themselves with particular specialized areas of research thereby ignoring the fundamental questions of truth morality and meaning This is less so in the thriving general community of history enthusiasts beyond academia and may explain in part at least history s sharp decline as a subject of choice by students in recent years Phillips sees great dangers resulting from the thinking of extreme relativists and postmodernists on the futility of attaining historical truth especially in the age of post truth He also believes that moral judgment and the search for meaning in history should be considered part of the discipline s mandate In each section of this study Phillips outlines the nature of individual issues and past efforts to address them including approaches derived from other disciplines This book is a call to action for all those engaged in the study of history to direct more attention to the fundamental questions of truth morality and meaning

Droysen and the Prussian School of History Robert Southard, 2021-12-14 The Prussian School of History first predicted and advocated then celebrated and defended the unification of Germany by Prussia Experts in German historiography and the history of German liberalism have often complained about the lack of a book in any language that traces the origins and explains the ideas of this school of history Here is that book Robert Southard finds that for the Prussian School history had an agenda These historians generally expected history to complete its main tasks in their own time and country The outcome of their politics was really an end of history not a cessation to historical occurrences but a cessation of onward historical movement because the historical process had already achieved its long term beneficent purposes Leading us through the intricacies of important but untranslated works of J G Droysen Max Duncker Rudolph Hayn and Heinrich von Sybel Southard demonstrates their belief that the historical sequence was a continual unfolding of God s plan Indispensable for those interested in the history of German historical writing this book also has major implications for understanding the history of political liberalism

Historians as Expert Judicial Witnesses in Tobacco Litigation Ramses Delafontaine, 2015-04-23 Historian Ramses Delafontaine presents an engaging examination of a controversial legal practice the historian as an expert judicial witness This book focuses on tobacco litigation in the U S wherein 50 historians have witnessed in 314 court cases from 1986 to 2014 The author examines the use of historical arguments in court and investigates how a legal context influences historical narratives and discourse in forensic history Delafontaine asserts that the courtroom is a performative and fact making theatre Nonetheless he argues that the civic responsibility of the historian should not end at the threshold of the courtroom where history and truth hang in the balance The book is divided into three parts featuring an impressive range of European and American case studies The first part provides a theoretical framework on the issues which arise when history and law interact The second part gives a comparative overview of European and American examples of forensic history This part also reviews U S legal rules and case law on expert evidence as well as extralegal challenges historians face as experts The third part covers a series of tobacco related trials With remunerations as high as hundreds of thousands of dollars and no peer reviewed publications or communication on the part of the historians hired by the tobacco companies the question arises whether some historians are willing to trade their reputation and that of their university for the benefit of an interested party The book further provides 50 expert profiles of the historians active in tobacco litigation lists detailing the manner of the expert s involvement and West Law references to these cases This book offers profound and thought provoking insights on the post war forensification of history from an interdisciplinary perspective In this way Delafontaine makes a stirring call for debate on the contemporary engagement of historians as expert judicial witnesses in U S tobacco litigation
