Women in the Hong Kong Police Force Annie Hau-Nung Chan, Lawrence Ka-Ki Ho, 2017-11-29 This book examines the development of women in the Hong Kong Police Force HKP over the past 68 years beginning from the early colonial years when calls to include women in law enforcement first emerged to the recruitment of the first female sub inspector in 1949 and through to the current situation where policewomen constitute 15% of the total HKP establishment What accounts for these developments and what do they tell us about organisational culture gender and colonial policing This interdisciplinary work is relevant to fields including women s studies gender studies policing studies criminology colonial history sociology and organisational studies and will appeal to academics students and lay readers interested in the development of women in policing Perception and Organization A. Styhre,2008-10-09 Drawing on a heterogeneous body of literature including art music and media theory as well as philosophical and historical studies of perception this book demonstrates that everyday work in organizations is strongly shaped by and embedded in human perception Movement Or Market? Millie

Thayer,2009-10-16 This ethnographic study examines the transnational relations among feminist movements at the end of the twentieth century exploring two differently situated women s organizations in the Northeast Brazilian state of Pernambuco This book takes what some have called global civil society as its object moving beyond both dire predictions and euphoric celebrations to understand how transnational political relationships are constructed and sustained across social and geographical divides It also provides a compelling case study for use in advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in globalization gender studies and social movements Encyclopedia of Interpersonal Violence Claire M. Renzetti,Jeffrey L.

Edleson,2008-06-19 This Encyclopedia is the definitive resource for students researchers and practioners needing further informationon various aspects of interpersonal violence including different forms of interpersonal violence incidence and prevalence theoretical explanations public policies and prevention and intervention strategies Global Norms and Local Action Peace A. Medie,2020-03-06 Violence against women has been a focus of transnational advocacy networks since the early 1980s and the United Nations has in intervening years passed a series of resolutions to condemn prevent investigate and punish this violence Member states have committed to implementing this agenda Yet despite this buy in at the global level implementation at the domestic level remains uneven Scholars have found that states are more likely to translate global standards into national laws when pressured by women s movements and international organizations However a dearth of research on the implementation at the national and street levels of these international women s rights norms hampers an understanding of what happens after states pass laws In Africa where most states have not prioritized the prevention of violence against women and the majority of perpetrators act with impunity there is a major implementation gap This gap is acute in some post conflict countries on the continent Thus despite the presence of laws on various forms of violence against women in most African countries justice remains inaccessible to most victims In Global Norms and Local Action Peace A Medie studies the domestic implementation of international norms by examining how and why two post conflict states in Africa Liberia and C te d Ivoire have differed in their responses to rape and domestic violence Specifically she looks at the roles of the United Nations and women s movements in the establishment of specialized criminal justice sector agencies and the referral of cases for prosecution She argues that variation in implementation in Liberia and C te d Ivoire can be explained by the levels of international and domestic pressures that states face and by the favorability of domestic political and institutional conditions. Medie's study is based on interviews with over 300 policymakers, bureaucrats, staff at the UN and NGOs, police officers, and survivors of domestic violence and rape, an unprecedented depth of research into women's rights and gender violence norm implementation in post-conflict countries. Furthermore, through her interviews with survivors of violence, Medie explains not only how states implement anti-rape and anti-domestic violence norms but also how women experience and are affected by these norms. She draws on this research to recommend that states adopt a holistic approach to addressing violence against women.
