Revaluation Of Womens Work:

The Revaluation of Women's Work Sheila Lewenhak, 2013-11-05 This book provides a survey and analysis of the different ways in which women's work is valued throughout the world. It challenges the narrow definition of work as paid work as that excludes so many of women's activities. It looks at ways in which women's worth has been consistently undervalued in industrial as well as non industrial countries in socialist as well as free enterprise economies. These practices distort the national product of countries heavily dependent on women's labour but above all they are among the most obvious marks of the exploitation of women. Technological changes are already altering established female male divisions of labour. Transnational enterprises often located in Special Economic Zones are reducing differences between industrial and nonindustrial countries. Valuing women's work correctly whether unpaid in the home or underpaid outside it is part of the battle against discrimination and poverty. Men who do similar work also benefit. It is the crucial step towards the achievement of male female equality. The book will be particularly valuable for those concerned with the issues in trade unions women's groups international agencies and NGOs and for course in economics and social studies.
