Revolution In Structural Dynamics:

The Revolution in Structural Dynamics Hubert I. Flomenhoft, 1997 Revolution, a Sociological Interpretation Michael S. Kimmel, 1990 Examines why the study of revolution has attained such importance and provides a systematic historical analysis of key ideas and theories The book surveys the classical perspectives on revolution offered by nineteenth century and early twentieth century theorists such as Marx Weber Durkheim Tocqueville and Freud Kimmel argues that their perspectives on revolution were affected by the reality of living through the revolutions of 1848 1917 a reality that raised crucial issues of class state bureaucracy and motivation back cover The Industrial Policy Revolution II J. Esteban, J. Stiglitz, Justin Lin Yifu, 2013-12-13 This volume is the result of the 2012 International Economic Association's series of roundtables on the theme of Industrial Policy The first New Thinking on Industrial Policy was hosted by the World Bank in Washington D C and the second New Thinking on Industrial Policy Implications for Africa was held in Pretoria South Africa

Winning Revolutions J. Harold Ellens, 2013-11-26 The product of 35 senior scholars research these volumes examine the psychology driving the religious political and economic forces that cause turbulence and violence in human society Religious political and economic revolts have defined the human experience throughout history These kinds of universal turbulence continue to be the dominant source of human suffering and perplexity during the first decade of the 21st century What can intensive study of the psychodynamics of cultural and social eruptions tell us that may serve to move cultures around the world beyond ongoing strife This work seeks to find out examining the spectrum of cultural and social eruptions from ancient Jewish Christian and Muslim revolutions to the modern day economic and political turbulence in Eastern Europe the Near East and Latin America The breadth of this three volume set ranges from the 12th century BCE to the current struggles in Iraq Afghanistan and Syria and from the irrational violence of the French Revolution to the genuine quest for liberty of the American Revolution and the Singing Revolutions in the Baltic States in recent decades Each volume is introduced with a description of its philosophical perspective and concludes with a brief summarization of the takeaways of the research presented Revolution Rosemary H. T. O'Kane, 2000 All of the major work on the subject of revolutions is collected in this useful set Including work from seminal figures such as Hatto and Gottschalk in the 1940s as well as the most important literature all the way through 1998 the articles reprinted here consider the concept theory and causes of revolution revolutionary state building and the outcomes of revolutions case studies of great revolutions and much more Revolutions and the Collapse of Monarchy Zhand Shakibi, 2007-02-23 What causes revolution What brought about the end of the last major monarchies of the modern period Were Louis XVI Nicholas II and Mohammad Reza Pahlavi the unwitting victims of historical circumstance or did their own actions help to bring about the revolutions that overthrew them This powerful and original book is the first comparative study of the revolutions in Bourbon France Romanov Russia and Pahlavi Iran Zhand Shakibi analyses fully the timing and causes of these three revolutions and reveals the important similarities between them

Revolutions and the Collapse of Monarchy argues provocatively that it is often the monarch's own personality that provides the vital spark which produces revolution. This ambitious and important book challenges the Marxist interpretation of history and adds a compelling new perspective to theories of revolution. Revolutions as Organizational Change Baohui Zhan, 2015-09-01

By comparing peasant revolutions in Hunan and Jiangxi between 1926 and 1934, Revolutions as Organizational Change offers a new organizational perspective on peasant revolutions. Utilizing newly available historical materials in the People's Republic of China in the reform era, it challenges the established view that the great Chinese revolution of the twentieth century was a revolution made by the Chinese Communist Party (the CCP). The book begins with a puzzle presented by the two peasant revolutions. While outside mobilization by the CCP was largely absent in Hunan, peasant revolutionary behaviors were spontaneous and radical. In Jiangxi, however, despite intense mobilization by the CCP, peasants remained passive and conservative. This study seeks to resolve the puzzle by examining the roles of communal cooperative institutions in the making of peasant revolutions. Historically, peasant communities in many parts of the world were regulated by powerful cooperative institutions to confront environmental challenges. This book argues that different communal organizational principles affect peasants' perceptions of the legitimacy of their communal orders. Agrarian rebellions can be caused by peasants' attempts to restructure unjust and illegitimate communal organizational orders, while legitimate communal organizational orders can powerfully constrain the mobilization by outside revolutionary agents such as the CCP. In this thorough comparative account of the peasant risings in Hunan and Jiangxi and the role of the Communist Party, Professor Zhang casts new light on both the risings themselves and what they can tell us about peasant risings in general. This work is strong in both theory and detailed historical research. Richard Rigby, professor, China Institute, Australian National University.

Professor Zhang has beautifully crafted a comparative study of divergent peasant revolutions in two Chinese regions during Mao's long revolutionary war. He brings to this task a broad and deep knowledge about revolutionary theory and also a razor-like analytical sensibility which enables him to examine the pros and cons of existing perspectives. Timothy P. Wickham-Crowley, associate professor of sociology, Georgetown University.

Messianism and Sociopolitical Revolution in Medieval Islam Said Amir Arjomand, 2025-10-28

This study of messianism and revolution examines an extremely rich though unexplored historical record on the rise of Islam and its sociopolitical revolutions from Muhammad's constitutive revolution in Arabia to the Abbasid revolution in the East and the Fatimid and Almohad revolutions in North Africa and the Maghreb. Bringing the revolutions together in a comprehensive framework, Said Amir Arjomand uses sociological theory as well as the critical tools of modern historiography to argue that a volatile but recurring combination of apocalyptic motivation and revolutionary action was a driving force of historical change, time and again. In addition to tracing these threads throughout 500 years of history, Arjomand also establishes how messianic beliefs were rooted in the earlier Judaic and Manichaean notions of apocalyptic transformation of the world. By bringing to light these linkages and factors not found in the dominant sources this text offers a sweeping account of the long arc of Islamic history outlines the history of the revolutionary process at the national level and as it was experienced in one major Portuguese city. While generally little known, the achievements of grassroots organizations in Portugal far exceeded those of other developed countries and their examination provides insights, poses important questions and suggests unexpected answers relevant far beyond Portugal. The Portuguese revolution provides a unique window through which to examine not only the role of community organizations in a time of revolutionary change but also the dynamics, potential and limitations of majority participation. Over a period of nineteen months beginning with a military coup which ended the longest lasting European dictatorship, the period brought to a close 500 years of colonialism in Africa and ending with another military coup, the Portuguese society and political debate were significantly transformed largely by the unanticipated development of mass movements advocating direct democracy and social, economic and political change.

Transitional Justice in Post-Revolutionary Tunisia (2011-2013) Domenica Preysing, 2016-01-28. Domenica Preysing offers a critical reading of transitional justice that focuses on political dynamics in post-revolutionary Tunisia from the ouster of president Ben Ali in January 2011 until the adoption of transitional justice bill in December 2013. She explores the role, structure and characteristics of evolving transitional justice policy discourse to provide a better understanding of how, by whom and to what effect the policy label transitional justice is progressively filled with meaning. She shows that conflicting interpretations of both the past and the present have been both deeply embedded in and an expression of the dynamic context of domestic political transformation as old and new elites struggle over the political identity and direction of post-Ben Ali Tunisia.

Revolution in Iran Mehran Kamrava, 2016-11-10. Observers of Iran have often ascribed the main cause of the revolution to economic problems under the Shah's regime. This book, first published in 1990, on the other hand focuses on the political and social factors which contributed to the fall of the Pahlavi dynasty. Mehran Kamrava looks at the revolution in detail as a political phenomenon, making use of extensive interviews with former revolutionary leaders, cabinet ministers and diplomats to show the central role of the political collapse of the regime in bringing about the revolution. He concentrates on the internal and the international developments leading to this collapse and the social environment in which the revolution's leaders emerged.
