Major Australian Races And Racehorses 1960-1980:

Major Australian Races and Racehorses 1960-1980 Peter Pring, 1980 Peter Pring's Great Moments in Australian Racing Peter Pring, 1978 The History of Australian Thoroughbred Racing Andrew Lemon, 2008

The History of Australian Thoroughbred Racing Volume Three is as much a history of Australia as a history of Australian thoroughbred horse racing. This book covers the social and political history of racing throughout Australia in the period 1939 to 2007 from war to equine influenza, totes and SP bookies to TAB corporations, champion horses, jockeys and trainers, scandals and glories, outback scrubbers to Bernborough, Tulloch and Makybe Diva and literally a cast of thousands. Uniquely giving emphasis to the story in the smaller states as well as the larger and richer ones, the book also examines the turbulent recent history of the sport or industry in an attempt to demystify the jargon of privatization, rationalization and internationalization. Standing alone as a history of modern racing, it is also a sequel to Andrew Lemon's previous two volumes on the beginnings and the golden age of Australian racing and is the long-awaited conclusion to the trilogy. Like volumes one and two that have been updated and reissued, with Volume Three it is structured around Harold Freedman's History of Racing mural at Flemington, a sequence of seven enormous paintings based on the original research which is the foundation of this book. Scenes from the mural's final two panels are beautifully reproduced throughout this volume, supplemented by dozens of photographs and the works of other artists. The mural, twenty years after its completion, perhaps only now is beginning to be recognized as a master work. In its own intricate detail, it conveys something of the richness and complexity of the sport and the beauty of Australian horse racing in its first two hundred years. Book and mural were conceived together and now the saga reaches its conclusion.

Rough Habit Ken Linnett, 2020-05

Rough Habit: An Unlikely Champion is a tale that captures the essence of horse racing from dreaming to inspiration to luck, good and bad, to fortunes and reputations made. It's the story not just of an unexpected champion horse but of those who took him to greatness. Rough Habit is one in the long line of New Zealand-bred champions who have crossed the Tasman and become dominant figures in Australian racing: think Rising Fast, Redcraze, Kiwi Bonecrusher and Sunline. Like so many before him, Rough Habit came from humble beginnings, bred as little more than a hobby via a free service to an unfashionable imported sire, Rough Cast, from the unraced mare Certain Habit. The resultant colt's stature suggested that the experiment was doomed to fail. His breeder, Isabell Roddick, said of Rough Habit the foal: "He was probably not the best looking, but I didn't think he was as hideous as he's been made out to be. He was a very small horse. But looks don't tell you if they're going to win a race. Win races he did, 11 of them at Group 1 level, behind only the mighty Sunline for wins at the highest level. He became a cult hero in Brisbane, winning two Stradbroke Handicaps and a record three Doomben Cups. Telling his story in full for the first time is Ken Linnett, winner of the 2018 Bill Whittaker Award for the best book on horse racing in Australia and New Zealand for his story on Tulloch, the champion of the 1950s and 60s. Linnett has applied the same forensic attention that made Tulloch such a critical and commercial success to the story of Rough Habit.

Sydney's Pony Racecourses Wayne Peake, 2006 Contrary to the name of the sport which may evoke memories of children riding Shetland ponies at agricultural shows most pony races were contested by fully grown thoroughbreds Many writers have perpetuated myths about pony racing depicting the sport as a rough and ready corrupt form of weekday racing featuring midget horses on miniature racecourses run during the Great Depression It has been suggested that pony racing appealed to desperate the needy and greedy elements of the working class only SYDNEY'S PONY RACECOURSES demonstrates that such assertions are without basis The sport was one of the country's biggest industries with the prize money for its cup races matching the Cox Plate Some of its Sydney racecourses were rated second only to Randwick and that for a time it was more popular on Saturdays than Australian Jockey Club racing The four pony racecourses between the city and Botany Bay were an integral part of Sydney life during the first half of the 20th century Existing histories of horse racing fail to acknowledge the contemporary importance and popularity of pony racing This alternative history of horseracing enables pony racing to claim its fair share in the past Race Across the Great Divide Darryl Flack, Don Cox, 2017-04-08 The 1970s was the high water mark for motorcycling in Australia The Japanese motorcycle boom rippled around the nation attracting a new wave of enthusiasts to the sport Women rode step thrus thousands of kids were zipping around on minibikes and suburban bushlands were filled with burbling trailbikes Wheel standing Japanese superbikes were menacing the streets and race grids were bursting with a sea of new riders eager to try their hand on the race circuits of Australia Blessed with a great climate Australia was the only country in the world to stage racing all year round But instead of top racers emerging
