Matthew Bach

Making Ends Meet Pawnbroking And Working Class Credit:

Making Ends Meet Melanie Tebbutt, 2025-07-01 Originally published in 1983 this book filled a gap in the existing literature because the effect of credit upon a family's real income was frequently omitted in studies of living standards. The book highlights daily routines and relationships which would otherwise remain hidden using interviews with pawnbrokers, credit personnel and their customers in the Manchester and Salford areas of the UK. These supplement unusual documentary sources such as pledge records from the inter-war years which suggest how sensitive a barometer the trade was of working class poverty or prosperity. The pawnshop epitomized the economic dependence of women whose critical role in domestic management and credit organization is a key theme. Yet indebtedness became the fulfilment of a damning sexual stereotype. Insecurity of income and the physical conditions of life combined to produce a distinct set of values of which pawning was a central part. At a time when the cost of living crisis is affecting the global population and pawnbroking in the UK is on the increase this book has an enduring relevance.

The Regulation of Consumer Credit Sarah Brown, 2019 This incisive book gives a comprehensive overview of the regulation of consumer credit in both the US and the UK. It covers policy, procedure and the dynamics of the consumer credit relationship to advocate for a balanced approach in achieving more effective consumer protection.

The Politics of Consumer Credit in the UK, 1938-1992 Stuart Aveyard, Paul Corthorn, Sean O'Connell, 2018-08-30 As early as the 1930s Britain had a highly innovative and profitable mortgage sector that promoted a major extension in home ownership. These controversial and risky offerings had an equivalent in numerous hire purchase agreements with which new homes were furnished. Such developments were forerunners of the easy credit regime more commonly associated with the 1980s. Taking a long-term perspective on this issue indicates that Britain's departure from European models of consumer credit markets was not simply a by-product of neoliberalism's influence on the Thatcher administration and this book offers a much fuller explanation to the phenomenon. It explores debates within and between the major political parties, reveals the infighting amongst civil service departments over management of consumer demand, charts the varying degrees of influence wielded by the Bank of England and finance capital as opposed to that of consumer durable manufacturers, reviews the perspectives of consumers and their representatives and explains the role of contingency and path dependency in these historical events. The central focus of this book is on consumer credit but this subject provides a case study through which to explore numerous other important areas of British history. These include debates on the issues of post-war consensus, the impact of rising home ownership and its impact on consumer credit and personal finance markets, the management of consumer society, political responses to affluence, the development of consumer protection policy and the influence of neoliberalism.

Combating London's Criminal Class Matthew Bach, 2020-07-09 The criminal class was seen as a violent, immoral and dissolute sub-section of Victorian London's population. Making their living through crime and openly hostile to society, the lives of these criminals were characterised by drunkenness, theft and brutality. This book explores whether this criminal class did indeed truly exist and the effectiveness of measures brought against it Tracing the notion of the criminal class from as early as the 16th century this book questions whether this sub section of society did indeed exist Bach discusses how unease of London's notorious rookeries the frenzy of media attention and a word deleted here panic among the general public enforced and encouraged the fear of the criminal class and perpetuated state efforts of social control Using the Habitual Criminals Bills this book explores how and why this legislation was introduced to deal with repeat offenders and assesses how successful its repressive measures were Demonstrating how the Metropolitan Police Force and London's Magistrates were not always willing tools of the British state this book uses court records and private correspondence to reveal how inconsistent and unsuccessful many of these measures and punishments were and calls into question the notion that the state gained control over recidivists in this period

Cultures of Selling Laura

Ugolini, 2018-12-07 The study of consumption and its relationship to cultural and social values has become a vibrant and important field in recent years Hitherto however relatively few detailed and full length works on this topic have been published In what will become a seminal volume this book examines retail selling in various historical contexts and locations as both an activity at once mundane and almost universal The book introduces the reader to the existing literature relevant to the subject and explores the widespread perceptions of moral ambiguity surrounding the practice of selling consumer goods ranging from concerns about the adulteration of goods to fears about sharp practice on the part of retailers and places such concerns in the context of wider societal values and ideas The ambivalence towards retail selling and sellers is also a central focus of the collection focussing on the attempts by retailers to develop selling techniques and successful practices of salesmanship and at the same time establish widely shared understandings of good retailing The book also delves into the more dubious practices of retail selling including practices on the margin of legality the issue of credit and changing attitudes towards debt Uniquely the book examines how sales techniques relate to the wider context of a whole shopping experience or shopping environment Taken as a whole this volume will provide a first port of call for students researchers and others interested in exploring consumer cultures and the cultural norms and practices involved in the sale of consumer goods in various historical periods and geographical contexts

Student Consumer Culture in Nineteenth-Century Oxford

Sabine Chaouche, 2020-09-01 This book explores students' consumer practices and material desires in nineteenth century Oxford Consumerism surged among undergraduates in the 1830s and decreased by contrast from the 1860s as students learned to practice restraint and make wiser choices putting a brake on past excessive consumption habits This study concentrates on the minority of debtors the daily lives of undergraduates and their social and economic environment It scrutinises the variety of goods that were on offer paying special attention to their social and symbolic uses and meanings Through emulation and self display undergraduate culture impacted the formation of male identities and spending habits Using Oxford students as a case study this book opens new pathways in the history of consumption and capitalism revealing how youth consumer culture intertwined with the rise of competition among tradesmen and university reforms in the 1850s and 1860s Women's History Hannah Barker, Elaine Chalus, 2005 A wide ranging thematic survey of women's history in Britain in the 18th and early 19th centuries with chapters written by both well established writers and new and dynamic scholars in a thorough and well balanced selection Cultures of Unemployment Godfried Engbersen, Kees Schuyt, Jaap Timmer, Frans van Waarden, 2006 An extraordinarily rich and detailed study of the social and economic life of unemployed and poor households Michael Sherraden in Social Work Collected Essays Haym Soloveitchik, 2013-07-18 Studies of Rashi and the Tosafists usury and money lending and the ban on Gentile wine offer a fascinating study of the stimuli to change in the halakhah and what that change says about the values and self perception of Ashkenazi society The Character of
