Making Government Work Electronic Delivery Of Federal Services:

Making Government Work United States. Congress. Office of Technology Assessment, 1993 This report published in its entirety OTA TCT 578 and in a summary form OTA TCT 579 containing only the first chapter of the complete report focuses on key topics and issues that are central to the successful use of electronic delivery by government The review conducted by the Office of Technology Assessment concludes that the movement toward electronic delivery of government services is accelerating but that many factors must be considered The greatest risks of electronic delivery are overlooking the human element and users needs which would further widen the gap between the technologically literate and the technologically illiterate and failing to capitalize on all the opportunities that partnerships among government agencies and the private sector could provide Changes that will be required in federal management are outlined and options for successful implementation of electronic delivery are sketched Many rely on the amplification of existing structures Five appendixes complement the complete report including a list of the 11 boxes 5 figures and 22 tables that illustrate the discussion and lists of acronyms and terms contributors field study participants and contractor reports The summary volume contains four tables and two boxes SLD Making Government Work ,1993 Making Government Work ,1993 Creating a Benefit

Delivery System that Works Better & Costs Less United States. Federal EBT Task Force, 1994 Information Security and Privacy in Network Environments ,1994 The use of information networks for business and government is expanding enormously Government use of networks features prominently in plans to make government more efficient effective and responsive But the transformation brought about by the networking also raises new concerns for the security and privacy of networked information This Office of Technology Assessment OTA report was requested by the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs and the House Subcommittee on Telecommunications and Finance The report begins with background information and an overview of the current situation a statement of the problems involved in safeguarding unclassified networked information and a summary of policy issues and options The major part of the report is then devoted to detailed discussions of policy issues in three areas 1 cryptography policy including federal information processing standards and export controls 2 guidance on safeguarding unclassified information in federal agencies and 3 legal issues and information security including electronic commerce privacy and intellectual property Appendices include Congressional letters of request the Computer Security Act and related documents evolution of the digital signature standard and lists of workshop participants reviews and other contributors An index is provided A separately published eight page OTA Report Summary is included JLB Information security and privacy in network environments. Congress. Senate. Committee on Governmental Affairs. Subcommittee on Regulation and Government Information,1994 The Changing Nature of Telecommunications/Information Infrastructure National Research Council,Computer Science and Telecommunications Board,Steering Committee on the Changing Nature of Telecommunications/Information Infrastructure,1995-03-27 Advancement of telecommunications and information infrastructure occurs largely through private investment The government affects the rate and direction of this progress through regulation and public investment This book presents a range of positions and perspectives on those two classes of policy mechanism providing a succinct analysis followed by papers prepared by experts in telecommunications policy and applications The ^ADigital Hand, Vol 3 James W. Cortada,2007-11-06 The third volume of The Digital Hand describes how computers were used in all of the American public sector industries over the past half century in order to determine what were the critical uses of computing technologies how these technologies came into these industries and how they were changed by it Cortada claims that computing profoundly changed the nature of work in these public sector industries creating the bedrock of the Information Age Intelligent Environments P. Droege,1997-03-20 The environment as modified and created by people is largely about the use of information its generation and exchange How do recent innovations in the technologies of information management and communication affect our use of space and place and the way we perceive and think about our surroundings This volume provides an international exploratory forum for the complex phenomenon of new information and communication technology as it permeates and transforms our physical world and our relation to it the architectural definition of our surrounding geographical space urban form and immediate habitats This book is a reader an attempt at registering disciplinary changes in context at tracing subtexts for which most mainstream disciplines have no established language The project is to give voice to an emerging meta discipline that has its logic across the specializations A wide range of professionals and academics report findings views and ideas Together they describe the architecture of a postmodern paradigm how swiftly mutating the proliferating technology applications have begun to interact with the construction and reading of physical space in architecture economics geography history planning social sciences transport visual art but also in the newer domains that have joined this spectrum through the very nature of their impacts information technology and telecommunications The space navigated in this volume is vast both in physical terms and in its virtual and analogous form It ranges from the space that immediately encompasses or is simulated to encompass the human body as in buildings and virtual tectonics to that of towns and regions We stay clear of molecular scale space and of dimensions that are larger than earth
