Mrs Balfame:

Mrs. Balfame Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton, 2021-04-26 Mrs Balfame penned by Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton is a provocative exploration of societal norms and the intricacies of female identity in the early 20th century. Set against the backdrop of a rapidly changing America, Atherton weaves a narrative that scrutinizes the constraints placed upon women of her era. With a distinct literary style that combines rich prose and sharp psychological insight, the novel deftly reflects the struggles of its protagonist to assert her individuality amidst the expectations of marriage and domesticity, engaging with themes of independence and self-discovery. Atherton, a prominent figure in American literature, was an early advocate for women's rights and a keen observer of social dynamics, elements that permeate her work. Having lived through a transformative period in society, her experiences as a writer and an activist undoubtedly shaped her perspectives on the roles of women. Atherton's background, being both a member of the literati and an astute critic of her times, provides a unique lens for examining the complex interplay between gender, class, and personal autonomy. Readers seeking a compelling narrative that challenges conventional gender roles will find Mrs Balfame to be an enriching experience. Atherton's nuanced character development and incisive commentary invite reflection on the nature of freedom and the societal constructs that bind women. This novel is an essential read for those interested in feminist literature and the historical evolution of women's rights.

Mrs. Balfame Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton, 1916 Mrs. Balfame Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton, 1916 Mrs. Balfame A Novel Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton, 2025-03 Mrs Balfame A Novel is a compelling exploration of a woman's internal struggle with the oppressive societal expectations of her time and the dark complexities of domestic life. The story follows a woman living in a small town, trapped in an unsatisfying marriage to a complacent and self-destructive husband. As her resentment grows, she begins to grapple with thoughts of vengeance, torn between her desire for autonomy and the societal norms that confine her. The narrative delves into her psychological turmoil, portraying her as a woman on the edge, struggling with her own desires for freedom and respect. Her inner conflict intensifies as she contemplates taking drastic measures to end the marriage, ultimately questioning her morality and the personal cost of her actions. Through vivid character development, the novel highlights the tension between societal expectations and individual needs, capturing the complexities of marriage, gender roles, and personal agency. The emotional depth of the story reveals the intricate layers of Mrs Balfame's character, creating a suspenseful and thought-provoking narrative. Mrs. Balfame Gertrude Atherton, 2021-10-21 Enid Balfame is a respectable middle-aged woman who lives a quiet life in a peaceful, sleepy small town. As her marriage turns sour, Enid can see only one way out: a solution to all of her problems, but a decision which will send her down a path of spiritual and personal transformation from which she may never recover. An intriguing and compelling psychological mystery from the renowned author Gertrude Atherton and a tale which fans of her contemporary Henry James will also enjoy. Gertrude Atherton (1857-1948) was an American novelist, short story writer, and early feminist. Born in California,

Gertrude attended schools in California and Kentucky and became widely read. She married George H B Atherton in 1876 and lived with him and his mother in San Francisco where they had two children. Atherton struggled with married life; her husband did not support her writing ambitions and Gertrude found life as a wife and mother stifling. When her husband died at sea in 1887, Atherton felt free to pursue her burgeoning career as an author and went on to publish over 50 novels. She is best known for her California series of novels which explored the social history of California and included popular works such as The Californians and the controversial Black Oxen which was adapted into a silent movie in 1923. Feminist themes and strong female characters are common in her novels. She died in San Francisco in 1948. The Publishers Weekly, 1917

Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton Gertrude Franklin Horn Atherton, 2020-09-28. Countess Gisela Niebuhr sat in the long dusk of Munich staring over at the beautiful park that in happier days had been famous in the world as the Englischer Garten and deliberately recalled on what might be the last night of her life the successive causes that had led to her profound dissatisfaction with her country as a woman. She was so thoroughly disgusted with it as a German that personal grievances were far from necessary to fortify her for the momentous role she was to play with the dawn but in this rare hour of leisure it amused her naturally introspective mind to rehearse certain episodes whose sum had made her what she was. When she was fourteen and her sisters Lili and Elsa sixteen and eighteen they had met in the attic of their home in Berlin one afternoon when their father was automatically at his club and their mother taking her prescribed hour of rest and solemnly pledged one another never to marry. The causes of this vital conclave were both cumulative and immediate. Their father, the Herr Graf, a fine looking junker of sixty odd with a roving eye and a martial air despite a corpulence which annoyed him excessively, had transferred his lost authority over his regiment to his household. The boys were in their own regiments and rid of parental discipline but the countess and the girls received the full benefit of his military and Prussian relish for despotism. In his essence a kind man and fond of his women, he balked their every individual wish and allowed them practically no liberty. They never left the house unattended like the American girls and those fortunate beings of the student class. Lili had a charming voice and was consumed with ambition to be an operatic star. She had summoned her courage upon one memorable occasion and broached the subject to her father. All the terrified family had expected his instant dissolution from apoplexy and in spite of his petty tyrannies they loved him. The best instructor in Berlin continued to give her lessons as nothing gave the Graf more pleasure of an evening than her warblings The household quite apart from the Frau Gräfin's admirable management ran with military precision and no one dared to be the fraction of a minute late for meals or social engagements They attended the theater the opera court functions dinners balls on stated nights and unless the Kaiser took a whim and altered a date there was no deviation from this routine year in and out They walked at the same hour drove in the Tiergarten with the rest of fashionable Berlin started for their castle in the Saxon Alps not only upon the same day but on the same train every summer and the electric lights went out at precisely the same moment every night the count's faithful steward manipulated a central stop They were encouraged to read and study but not oh by no means to have individual opinions The men of Germany were there to do the thinking and they did it Perhaps the rebellion of the Niebuhr girls would never have crystallized for after all their everyday experience was much like that of other girls of their class merely intensified by their father's persistence of executive ardors had it not been for two subtle influences quite unsuspected by the haughty Kammerherr they had an American friend Kate Terriss who was finishing her voice in Berlin and their married sister Mariette had recently spent a fortnight in the paternal nest The count despised the entire American race as all good Prussians did but he was as wax to feminine blandishments outside of his family and Miss Terriss was pretty diplomatic alluring and far cleverer than he would have admitted any woman could be She wound the old martinet round her finger subdued her rampant Americanism in his society and amused herself sowing the seeds of rebellion in the minds of those poor Niebuhr girls As the countess also liked her she had been in and out of the house for nearly a year The young Prussians had alternately gasped and wept at the amazing stories of the liberty the petting the procession of good times enjoyed by American girls of their own class to say nothing of the invariable prerogative of these fortunate girls to choose their own husbands who according to the unprincipled Miss Terriss invariably spoiled their wives and permitted them to go and come to spend their large personal allowances as they listed Gisela closed her beloved volume of Grimm's fairy tales and never opened it again
