Ireland's First Settlers Peter Woodman,2015-12-31 Ireland's First Settlers tells the story of the archaeology and history of the first continuous phase of Ireland's human settlement. It combines centuries of search and speculation about human antiquity in Ireland with a review of what is known today about the Irish Mesolithic. This is in part provided in the context of the author's 50 years of personal experience searching to make sense of what initially appeared to be little more than a collection of beach-rolled and battered flint tools. The story is embedded in how the island of Ireland, its position, distinct landscape and ecology impacted on when and how Ireland was colonized. It also explores how these first settlers evolved their technologies and lifeways to suit the narrow range of abundant resources that were available. The volume concludes with discussions on how the landscape should be searched for the often ephemeral traces of these early settlers and how sites should be excavated. It asks what we really know about the thoughts and life of the people themselves and what happened to them as farming began to be introduced.

Excavations at Tlachtga, Hill of Ward, Co. Meath, Ireland Stephen Davis,Caitríona Moore,2024-04-30 Initial remote sensing survey at Tlachtga Co Meath in 2011/12 highlighted the presence of multiple partially overlapping phases of enclosure at the site. Three subsequent seasons of excavation provided critical interpretive evidence with over 15,000 fragments of animal bone, human remains, charred plant material, evidence of metalworking and a hoard of Anglo-Saxon silver coins dating to the late 10th century AD. The main activity at the site spans four broad periods and two main phases of monumental construction: a late Bronze Age to early Iron Age Hillfort Phase (1100-400 BC) and a late Iron Age to early medieval AD (400-600) ringfort phase associated with a smaller foundation enclosure, the Southern Enclosure. This ringfort phase was remodeled later in the early medieval period (9th-10th century AD) and augmented by a phase of mound construction in the mid 10th century AD. This is contemporary with the deposition of the coin hoard east of the main complex in an apparent craft working area. The final phase of the central mound indicates the construction of a timber stockade, most likely in the 12th century, again with significant craft activity. This volume represents the excavation of at least four loci within the broader monumental landscape of Tlachtga, charting its progression from Bronze Age hillfort to pre-Anglo-Norman power display mound. The excavations at the Hill of Ward and this publication were made possible through funding by the National Monuments Service via the Royal Irish Academy archaeological research excavation grants and by Meath County Council with additional support by the Office of Public Works and the Heritage Council.

Llangorse Crannog Alan Lane,Mark Redknap,2020-02-28 The crannog on Llangorse Lake near Brecon in mid Wales was discovered in 1867 and first excavated in 1869 by two local antiquaries Edgar and Henry Dumbleton who published their findings over the next four years In 1988 dendrochronological dates from submerged palisade planks established its construction in the ninth century and a combined off and on shore investigation of the site was started as a joint project between Cardiff University and Amgueddfa Cymru National Museum Wales The subsequent surveys and excavation 1989 1994 2004 resulted in the recovery of a remarkable time capsule of life in the late ninth and tenth century on the only crannog yet identified in Wales This publication re examines the early investigations describes in detail the anatomy of the crannog mound and its construction and the material culture found The crannog s treasures include early medieval secular and religious metalwork evidence for manufacture the largest depository of early medieval carpentry in Wales and a remarkable richly embroidered silk and linen textile which is fully analysed and placed in context The crannog s place in Welsh history is explored as a royal llys court within the kingdom of Brycheiniog Historical record indicates the site was destroyed in 916 by Aethelflaed the Mercian queen in the course of the Viking wars of the early tenth century The subsequent significance of the crannog in local traditions and its post medieval occupation during a riotous dispute in the reign Elizabeth I are also discussed Two logboats from the vicinity of the crannog are analysed and a replica described The cultural affinities of the crannog and its material culture is assessed as are their relationship to origin myths for the kingdom and to probable links with early medieval Ireland The folk tales associated with the lake are explored in a book that brings together archaeology history myths and legends underwater and terrestrial archaeology Hunter-Gatherer Ireland Graeme Warren,2022-02-03 Explores the Irish Mesolithic the period after the end of the last Ice Age when Ireland was home to hunter gatherer communities mostly from about 10 000 6 000 years ago At this time Ireland was an island world with striking similarities and differences to its European neighbours not least in terms of the terrestrial ecology created by its island status To understand the communities of hunter gatherers who lived there it is essential that we consider the connections established between people and the other beings and materials with which they shared the world and through which they grew into it Understanding the Mesolithic means paying attention to the animals plants spirits and things with which hunting and gathering groups formed kinship relationships and in collaboration with which they experienced life The book closes with a reflection on hunting and gathering in Ireland today The overriding aim of the book is to provide a point of entry into the lives of the Irish Mesolithic to show the different ways in which people have lived on this island and to show how we might narrate those lives Viking encounters Anne Pedersen,Søren M. Sindbæk,2020-09-25 The Viking Congresses bring together scholars of archaeology philology history toponymy numismatics and a number of other disciplines to discuss the Viking Age from a variety of viewpoints This volume contains 44 peer reviewed papers selected from those presented at the 18th Viking Congress held in Denmark in August 2017 The contributors take up the interdisciplinary challenge and the papers cover a wide range of subjects rooted in the past but also connecting to the present Exploring

Prehistoric Identity in Europe Victoria Ginn, Rebecca Enlander, Rebecca Crozier, 2014-03-19 Identity is relational and a construct and is expressed in a myriad of ways For example material culture and its pluralist meanings have been readily manipulated by humans in a prehistoric context in order to construct personal and group identities Artefacts were often from or reminiscent of far flung places and were used to demonstrate membership of an imagined regional or European community Earthworks frequently archive maximum visual impact through elaborate ramparts and entrances with the minimum amount of effort indicating that the construction of identities were as much in the eye of the perceiver as of the perceived Variations in domestic architectural style also demonstrate the malleability of identity and the prolonged intermittent use of particular places for specific functions indicates that the identity of place is just as important in our archaeological understanding as the identity of people By using a wide range of case studies both temporally and spatially these thought processes may be explored further and diachronic and geographic patterns in expressions of identity investigated

Elements of Being Daniela Hofmann, Jessica Mills, Andrew Cochrane, 2005 This volume is the product of a Theoretical Archaeology Group TAG conference session held at Lampeter Wales in December 2003 entitled Mentalities and Identities in Motion Included here are all the papers held there and more besides The session centred on the role of past ways of thinking feeling and acting in social transformation and exploring past worldviews as instead of being relegated to the fictional or anecdotal an integral part of every aspect of human life not just explicit contexts of power struggles and domination but also approachable from the material evidence The contributions are widely spread across space and time ranging from Northern Ireland to Sicily from France to Bulgaria and covering almost every period from the Mesolithic to the Thirty Years War On top of this they are also very different in methodology in the ways they have interpreted the session title and approached their evidence Before rushing headlong into this kaleidoscopic mix then it is worth briefly explaining the rationale behind the session title and the selection and arrangement of papers web infiltration parameters from surface irrigation advance and advances in irrigation sep 22 2020 advances in irrigation volume 1 covers updated comprehensive elucidations of the various topics of contemporary interest and importance related to the rapidly advancing science and engineering practice of irrigation the book infiltration parameters from surface irrigation advance and run off - Sep 21 2023

web misation scheme that calculates infiltration parameters based on both the advance and storage phases of furrow irrigation the proposed technique gives improved estimates of the final infiltration rate over those techniques based on the advance only without the requirement for the irrigation to last long enough to reach a steady run off rate modeling of surface flow and infiltration during surface irrigation - May 17 2023 web feb 10 2022 modeling of surface flow and infiltration during surface irrigation advance based on numerical solution of saint venant equations using preissmann s scheme springerlink home pure and applied geophysics article published 10 measurement and simulation of irrigation performance in nature - Mar 15 2023 web apr 8 2023 the first studies of surge irrigation dates back to early 1980 with focus on improving advance rate surface irrigation efficiencies and uniformities and reducing the total amount of irrigation

pdf infiltration parameters from surface irrigation advance and - Aug 20 2023 web oct 1 2005 infiltration parameters from surface irrigation advance and run off data authors malcolm h gillies university of southern queensland r j smith abstract a computer model was developed to
