Moita-Lopes,2014-12-17 This book aims at deconstructing and problematizing linguistic ideologies related to Portuguese in late modernity and questioning the theoretical presuppositions which have led us to call Portuguese a language Such an endeavor is crucial when we know that Portuguese is a language which is increasingly internationalized used as the official language in four continents in ten countries and which has come to play a relevant role in the so called linguistic market on the basis of the geopolitical transformations in a multipolar world The book covers a wide range of social political and historical contexts in which Portuguese is used in Brazil Canada East Timor England Portugal Mozambique and Uruguay and considers diverse linguistic practices Through this critique contributors chart new directions for research on language ideologies and language practices including research related to Portuguese and to other languages and consider ways of developing new conceptual compasses that are better attuned to the sociolinguistic realities of the late modern era in which people texts and languages are increasingly in movement through national borders and those of digital networks of communication The Portuguese in Canada Carlos Teixeira,Victor M.P. Gatekeepers explores the interactions among these immigrants and the gatekeepers mostly middle class individuals and institutions whose definitions of citizenship significantly shaped the immigrant experience. Iacovetta's deft discussion examines how dominant bourgeois gender and Cold War ideologies of the day shaped attitudes towards new Canadians. She shows how the newcomers themselves were significant actors who influenced Canadian culture and society even as their own behaviour was being modified. Generously illustrated Gatekeepers explores a side of Cold War history that has been left largely untapped. It offers a long overdue Canadian perspective on one of the defining eras of the last century. The New African Diaspora in Vancouver Gillian Laura Creese, 2011-01-01. The

The New African Diaspora in Vancouver documents the experiences of immigrants from countries in sub-Saharan Africa on Canada's west coast. Despite their individual national origins many adopt new identities as African and are actively engaged in creating a new place based African community. In this study Gillian Creese analyzes interviews with sixty one women and men from twenty one African countries to document the gendered and racialized processes of community building that occur in the contexts of marginalization and exclusion as they exist in Vancouver. Creese reveals that the routine discounting of previous education by potential employers the demeaning of African accents and bodies by society at large cultural pressures to reshape gender relations and parenting practices and the absence of extended families often contribute to downward mobility for immigrants. The New African Diaspora in Vancouver maps out how African immigrants negotiate these multiple dimensions of local exclusion while at the same time creating new spaces of belonging and emerging collective identity.

Not Born a Refugee Woman Maroussia Hajdukowski-Ahmed, Nazilla Khanlou, Helene Moussa, 2008-06-01. Not Born a Refugee Woman is an in depth inquiry into the identity construction of refugee women. It challenges and rethinks current identity concepts policies and practices in the context of a globalizing environment and in the increasingly racialized post September 11th context from the perspective of refugee women. This collection brings together scholar-practitioners from across a wide range of disciplines. The authors emphasize refugee women's agency resilience and creativity in the continuum of domestic civil and transnational violence and conflicts whether in flight or in resettlement during their uprooted journey and beyond. Through the analysis of local examples and international case studies the authors critically examine gendered and interrelated factors such as location humanitarian aid race cultural norms and current psycho-social research that affect the identity and well being of refugee women. This volume is destined to a wide audience of scholars students policy makers advocates and service providers interested in new developments and critical practices in domains related to gender and forced migrations. Refugees in Extended Exile Jennifer Hyndman, Wenona Giles, 2016-10-04 This book argues that the international refugee regime and its temporary humanitarian interventions have failed Most refugees across the global live in protracted conditions that extend from years to decades without legal status that allows them to work and establish a home It is contended that they become largely invisible to people based in the global North and cease to remain fully human subjects with access to their political lives Shifting the conversation away from the salient discourse of solutions and technical fixes within state centric international relations the authors recover the subjectivity lost for those stuck in extended exile The book first argues that humanitarian assistance to refugees remains vital to people s survival even after the emergency phase is over It then connects asylum politics in the global North with the intransigence of extended exile in the global South By placing the urgent crises of protracted exile within a broader constellation of power relations both historical and geographical the authors present research and empirical findings gleaned from refugees in Iran Kenya and Canada and from humanitarian and government workers Each chapter reveals patterns of power circulating through the colonial present Cold War legacies and the global war on terror Seeking to render legible the more quotidian struggles and livelihoods of people who find themselves defined as refugees this book will be of great interest to international humanitarian agencies as well as migration and refugee researchers including scholars in refugee studies and human displacement human security globalization immigration and human rights

Migration and Economy Lillian Trager, 2005 Focuses on migration not as a single event but as a dynamic process that responds to and is shaped by broader economic cultural and social forces This title features individual essays that offer studies on Mexico Puerto Rico West Africa Kazakhstan and Mozambique It is useful for development anthropology migration studies and more This book focuses on the historical sociology of the Turkish state It seeks to compare the development of the Ottoman Turkish state with similar processes of large scale historical change in Europe identified by Michael Mann in The Sources of Social Power It traces the contours of Turkey's modernisation with the intention of formulating a fresh way to approach state development in countries on the global economic periphery particularly those attempting to effect closer ties with Northern markets It also highlights matters of social change pertinent to states grappling with issues relating to political Islam minority identity and irredentist dissent

This Pilgrim Nation Gilberto Fernandes, 2019-12-12 This book tells the transnational history of Portuguese communities in Canada and the United States against the backdrop of the Cold War the American Civil Rights movement the Portuguese Colonial War and Canadian multiculturalism It considers the ethnic racial class gender linguistic regional and generational permutations of Portuguese diaspora from both a transnational and comparative perspective Besides showing that diasporas and nations can be co dependent This Pilgrim Nation counters the common notion that hybrid diasporic identities are largely benign and empowering by revealing how they can perpetuate asymmetrical power relations

Class, Contention, and a World in Motion Winnie Lem, Pauline Gardiner Barber, 2010-07-01 Prevailing scholarship on migration tends to present migrants as the objects of history subjected to abstract global forces or to concrete forms of regulation imposed by state and supra state organizations In this volume by contrast the focus is on migrants as the subjects of history who not only react but also act to engage with and transform their worlds Using ethnographic examples from Africa Asia Europe North America and the Middle East contributors question how and why particular forms of political struggle and collective action may or indeed may not be carried forward in the context of geographic and social border crossings In doing so they bring the dynamic relationship between class gender and culture to the forefront in each distinctive migration setting
