Deliciae Fictiles V. Networks and Workshops Patricia Lulof, Ilaria Manzini, Carlo Rescigno, 2019-09-16 Temples are the most prestigious buildings in the urban landscape of ancient Italy emerging within a network of centres of the then known Mediterranean world. Notwithstanding the fragmentary condition of the buildings, these monuments and especially their richly decorated roofs are crucial sources of information on the constitution of political, social and craft identities acting as agents in displaying the meaning of images. The subject of this volume is thematic and includes material from the Eastern Mediterranean including Greece and Turkey. Contributors discuss the network between patron elites and specialized craft communities that were responsible for the sophisticated terracotta decoration of temples in Italy between 600 and 100 BC, focusing on the mobility of craft people and craft traditions and techniques, asking how images, iconographies, practices and materials can be used to explain the organization of ancient production, distribution and consumption. Special attention has been given to relations with the Eastern Mediterranean, Greece and Anatolia. Investigating craft communities, workshop organizations and networks has never been thoroughly undertaken for this period and region nor for this exceptionally rich category of materials or for the craftspeople producing the architectural terracottas. Papers in this volume aim to improve our understanding of roof production and construction in this period to reveal relationships between main production centres and to study the possible influences of immigrant craftspeople.

Migration, Mobility and Place in Ancient Italy Elena Isayev, 2017-08-31 Migration, Mobility and Place in Ancient Italy challenges prevailing conceptions of a natural tie to the land and a demographically settled world. It argues that much human mobility in the last millennium BC was ongoing and cyclical. In particular, outside the military context, the foreigner in our midst was not regarded as a problem. Boundaries of status rather than of geopolitics were those difficult to cross. The book discusses the stories of individuals and migrant groups: traders, refugees, expulsions, the founding and demolition of sites and the political processes that could both encourage and discourage the transfer of people from one place to another. In so doing, it highlights moments of change in the concepts of mobility and the definitions of those on the move. By providing the long view from history, it exposes how fleeting are the conventions that take shape here and now.

The Archaeology of Lucanian Cult Places Ilaria Battiloro, 2017-08-10 With the emergence and structuring of the Lucanian ethnos during the fourth century BC, a network of cult places set apart from habitation spaces was created at the crossroads of the most important communication routes of ancient Lucania. These sanctuaries became centers of social and political aggregation of the local communities, a space in which the community united for all the social manifestations that in urban societies were usually performed within the city space. With a detailed analysis of the archaeological record, this study traces the historical and archaeological narrative of Lucanian cult places from their creation to the Late Republican Age, which saw the incorporation of southern Italy into the Roman state. By placing the sanctuaries within their territorial, political, social and cultural context, Battiloro offers insight into the diachronic development of sacred architecture and ritual customs in ancient Lucania The author highlights the role of material evidence in constructing the significance of sanctuaries in the historical context in which they were used and crucial new evidence from the most recent archaeological investigations is explored in order to define dynamics of contact and interaction between Lucanians and Romans on the eve of the Roman conquest

The City in the Roman West, c.250 BC-c.AD 250 Ray Laurence, Simon Esmonde Cleary, Gareth Sears, 2011-07-14 The city is widely regarded as the most characteristic expression of the social cultural and economic formations of the Roman Empire This was especially true in the Latin speaking West where urbanism was much less deeply ingrained than in the Greek speaking East but where networks of cities grew up during the centuries following conquest and occupation This well illustrated synthesis provides students and specialists with an overview of the development of the city in Italy Gaul Britain Germany Spain and North Africa whether their interests lie in ancient history Roman archaeology or the wider history of urbanism It accounts not only for the city's geographical and temporal spread and its associated monuments such as amphitheatres and baths but also for its importance to the rulers of the Empire as well as the provincials and locals

Space, Movement and the Economy in Roman Cities in Italy and Beyond Frank Vermeulen, Arjan Zuiderhoek, 2021-05-26 How were space and movement in Roman cities affected by economic life What can the study of Roman urban landscapes tell us about the nature of the Roman economy These are the central questions addressed in this volume While there exist many studies of Roman urban space and of the Roman economy rarely have the two topics been investigated together in a sustained fashion In this volume an international team of archaeologists and historians focuses explicitly on the economics of space and mobility in Roman Imperial cities in both Italy and the provinces east and west Employing many kinds of material and written evidence and a wide range of methodologies the contributors cast new light both on well known and on less explored sites With their direct focus on the everyday economic uses of urban spaces and the movements through them the contributors offer a fresh and innovative perspective on the workings of Roman urban economies and on the debates concerning space in the Roman world This volume will be of interest to archaeologists and historians both those studying the Greco Roman world and those focusing on urban economic space in other periods and places as well as to other scholars studying premodern urbanism and urban economies

The World of the Western Greeks Kathryn Lomas, 2025-07-18 This volume presents studies by international experts on aspects of the society economy religion culture and history of the Greek settlements of the ancient western Mediterranean one of the most innovative areas of the ancient Greek world Across 43 chapters this book synthesizes material evidence integrates this with ancient sources and introduces key methodological debates on the nature and study of Greek settlement in the west It provides an overview of the history of the region from earliest contact with the Greek world to the Roman period and examines the relationships between Greek and non Greek populations of the western Mediterranean and how they shaped each other's histories and cultures The volume also explores aspects of the economy society and culture of the region illustrating the contribution of the western Greeks to shaping wider Greek culture and identity By adopting a wide ranging approach integrating material evidence and ancient sources it illuminates the diversity and innovative nature of the western Greek world from its earliest development to the aftermath of the Roman conquest The World of the Western Greeks is an essential reference work for students and scholars of the Greek western Mediterranean and its history culture and society
