Posing Questions For A Scientific Archaeology:

Posing Questions for a Scientific Archaeology Terry L. Hunt, Carl P. Lipo, Sarah L. Sterling, 2001-06-30 Although many believe that archaeological knowledge consists simply of empirical findings this notion is false data are generated with the guidance of theory or some sense making system acting in its place whether researchers recognize this or not Failure to understand the relationship between theory and the empirical world has led to the many debates and frustrations of contemporary archaeology Despite years of trying the atheoretical empiricist foundations of archaeology have left us little but a history of storytelling and unsatisfying generalizations about historical change and human diversity The present work offers promising directions for building theoretically defensible results by providing well designed case studies that can be used as guides or exemplars Evolutionary theory in at least some form is the foundation for a scientific archaeology that will yield scientific explanations for historical change Handbook of Archaeological Theories R. Alexander Bentley, Herbert D. G. Maschner, Christopher Chippindale, 2009-09-16 This handbook a companion to the authoritative Handbook of Archaeological Methods gathers original authoritative articles from leading archaeologists on all aspects of the latest thinking about archaeological theory It is the definitive resource for understanding how to think about archaeology

Mapping Our Ancestors Carl P. Lipo, 2017 Much of what we are comes from our ancestors Through cultural and biological inheritance mechanisms our genetic composition instructions for constructing artifacts the structure and content of languages and rules for behavior are passed from parents to children and from individual to individual Mapping Our Ancestors demonstrates how various genealogical or phylogenetic methods can be used both to answer questions about human history and to build evolutionary explanations for the shape of history Anthropologists are increasingly turning to quantitative phylogenetic methods These methods depend on the transmission of information regardless of mode and as such are applicable to many anthropological questions In this way phylogenetic approaches have the potential for building bridges among the various subdisciplines of anthropology an exciting prospect indeed The structure of Mapping Our Ancestors reflects the editors goal of developing a common understanding of the methods and conditions under which ancestral relations can be derived in a range of data classes of interest to anthropologists Specifically this volume explores the degree to which patterns of ancestry can be determined from artifactual genetic linguistic and behavioral data and how processes such as selection transmission and geography impact the results of phylogenetic analyses Mapping Our Ancestors provides a solid demonstration of the potential of phylogenetic methods for studying the evolutionary history of human populations using a variety of data sources and thus helps explain how cultural material language and biology came to be as they are Carl P Lipo is assistant professor of anthropology at California State University in Long Beach Michael O'Brien is professor of anthropology and director of the Museum of Anthropology at the University of Missouri Mark Collard is assistant professor of anthropology at the University of British Columbia Stephen J Shennan is a professor and director of the Institute of

Defining and Measuring Diversity in Archaeology Metin I. Eren, Briggs Buchanan, 2022-07-18 Calculating the diversity of biological or cultural classes is a fundamental way of describing analyzing and understanding the world around us Understanding archaeological diversity is key to understanding human culture in the past Archaeologists have long experienced a tenuous relationship with statistics however the regular integration of diversity measures and concepts into archaeological practice is becoming increasingly important This volume includes chapters that cover a wide range of archaeological applications of diversity measures Featuring studies of archaeological diversity ranging from the data driven to the theoretical from the Paleolithic to the Historic periods authors illustrate the range of data sets to which diversity measures can be applied as well as offer new methods to examine archaeological diversity

Evolutionary and Interpretive Archaeologies Ethan Cochrane, Andrew Gardner, 2016-09-16 This collection of original articles compares various key archaeological topics agency violence social groups diffusion from evolutionary and interpretive perspectives These two strands represent the major current theoretical poles in the discipline By comparing and contrasting the insights they provide into major archaeological themes this volume demonstrates the importance of theoretical frameworks in archaeological interpretations Chapter authors discuss relevant Darwinian or interpretive theory with short archaeological and anthropological case studies to illustrate the substantive conclusions produced The book will advance debate and contribute to a better understanding of the goals and research strategies that comprise these distinct research traditions

New Approaches to Old Stones Yorke M. Rowan, Jennie R. Ebeling, 2016-04-08 Ground stone artefacts were widely used in food production in prehistory However the archaeological community has widely neglected the dataset of ground stone artefacts until now New Approaches to Old Stones offers a theoretical and methodological analysis of the archaeological data pertaining to ground stone tools The essays draw on a range of case studies from the Levant Egypt Crete Anatolia Mexico and North America to examine ground stone technologies From medieval Islamic stone cooking vessels and late Minoan stone vases to the use of stone in ritual and as a symbol of luxury New Approaches to Old Stones offers a radical reassessment of the impact of ground stone artefacts on technological change production and exchange

JOURNAL OF NORTHWEST ANTHROPOLOGY Publication Style Guide Hawaii's Past in a World of Pacific Islands
 James M. Bayman, Thomas S. Dye, 2013-03-12 Given its relatively late encounter with the West Hawaii offers an exciting opportunity to study a society whose traditional lifeways and technologies were recorded in native oral traditions and written documents before they were changed by contact with non Polynesian cultures This book in the SAA Press Current Perspectives Series chronicles the role of archaeology in constructing a narrative of Hawaii's cultural past focusing on material evidence dating from the Polynesians first arrival on Hawaii's shores about a millennium ago to the early decades of settlement by Americans and Europeans in the nineteenth century A final chapter discusses new directions taken by native Hawaiians toward changing the practice of archaeology in the islands today Geochemical Evidence for Long-Distance Exchange Michael D. Glascock, 2002-12-30 Studies of prehistoric exchange of goods provide information about the types of economic interaction social organization or political structures in which prehistoric peoples were engaged Long distance exchange is a special situation where the materials exchanged crossed significant boundaries whether they were geographic social political or otherwise By examining the types and quantities of goods exchanged along with the directions and distances they moved archaeologists are able to examine the dynamic properties of exchange systems i.e. how they operate and why they undergo change The purpose of this volume is to present a number of case studies of long distance exchange from around the world which demonstrate the use of geochemical analysis of artifacts to find evidence of exchange More important than the use of analytical technique employed or the types of artifacts studied are the interpretations themselves which illustrate that exchange studies are maturing and helping archaeologists to develop more accurate models of exchange
A Manual of Egyptian Pottery, Volume 2 Anna Wodzinska, 2011-12-31 This is the second volume in a four book set covering all Egyptian pottery ranging from the earliest Fayum A ceramics to modern pottery made in Egypt today organized by historical periods The manuals are quick identification guides as well as starting points for more extensive research For each period ceramic types are illustrated with a line drawing accompanied by a description that includes information on the pot's material manufacturing techniques surface treatment and shape Colour plates of representative ceramic types are included to give the clearest sense of the colour composition and surface treatment All four volumes provide an extensive list of suggested readings as well as a bibliography for each period Introductory chapters in each book discuss the basics of pottery manufacture and analysis The first comprehensive guide to Egyptian pottery this set will prove valuable to students as well as experienced field archaeologists The volumes come in paperback and spiral bound versions The spiral bound manuals with hard laminated covers and tabs are designed especially for the field and lab This second edition includes a new expanded introduction The Science of Qualitative Research Martin J. Packer, 2018 This updated edition is an examination of qualitative research in the social sciences exploring its roots to analyze its current state The Ethics of Anthropology and Amerindian Research Richard J. Chacon, Rubén G. Mendoza, 2011-12-14 The decision to publish scholarly findings bearing on the question of Amerindian environmental degradation warfare and or violence is one that weighs heavily on anthropologists This burden stems from the fact that documentation of this may render descendant communities vulnerable to a host of predatory agendas and hostile modern forces Consequently some anthropologists and community advocates alike argue that such culturally and socially sensitive and thereby politically volatile information regarding Amerindian induced environmental degradation and warfare should not be reported This admonition presents a conundrum for anthropologists and other social scientists employed in the academy or who work at the behest of tribal entities This work documents the various ethical dilemmas that confront anthropologists and researchers in general when investigating Amerindian communities The contributions to this volume explore the ramifications of reporting and specifically of non reporting instances of environmental degradation and warfare among Amerindians Collectively the contributions in this volume which extend across the disciplines of archaeology anthropology ethnohistory ethnic studies philosophy and medicine argue that the non reporting of environmental mismanagement and violence in Amerindian communities generally harms not only the field of anthropology but the Amerindian populations themselves Archaeology of Mind in the Hebrew Bible / Archäologie alttestamentlichen Denkens Andreas Wagner, Jürgen van Oorschot, Lars Allolio-Näcke, 2023-04-27 Research into the Hebrew Bible Ancient Near East Philosophy and History have long considered whether thought in the cultural area of the ancient Middle East differs from that in the western Mediterranean The inclusion of neurobiology psychology brain research and evolutionary research will widen this horizon and allow new approaches This volume provides in depth insides into this Archaeology of Mind in 22 contributions Stable Isotopic Analysis of Carbon and Nitrogen as an Indicator of Paleodietary Change Among Pre-state Metal Age Societies in Northeast Thailand Christopher A. King, 2008 Using northeast Thailand as a model this work uses stable isotopes of carbon and nitrogen to infer paleodietary change in subtropical monsoon Asia It is hypothesized that in northeast Thailand during the pre state Metal Age 2000 B C to A D 500 there are distinct differences among the populations during this time period which coincide with human induced environmental changes and developments of alternative subsistence technologies It is further hypothesized that female and male diets differed possibly from social circumstances such as sex related food accessibility The archaeological skeletal series is from Ban Chiang Ban Na Di Ban Lum Khao and Noen U Loke Stable isotope analysis of local flora and fauna provide a baseline for interpreting stable isotope data from human samples for this and future studies of paleodiet This work makes a significant contribution to studies of subsistence changes from extensive to intensive agriculture in subtropical monsoon Asia This research is relevant to debates of agricultural change as well as the effect of cultural changes on subsistence patterns and the evolution of human diet Strung Out on Archaeology Laurie A Wilkie, 2016-06-16 Teaching the basic principles of archaeology through an excavation and analysis of New Orleans Mardi Gras parades and the beads thrown there A student s dream book Award winning historical archaeologist Laurie Wilkie takes her two loves and merges them into a brief lively introductory textbook that is sure to actively engage students She shows how her analysis of trinkets tossed from parade floats can illustrate major themes taught in introductory archaeology classes from methods to economy social identity to political power introduced in a concrete entertaining way The strength of Wilkie s book is in showing how different theoretical models used by archaeologists lead to different research questions and different answers The textbook covers all the major themes expected of brief introductory texts but is one that students will want to read Has Feminism Changed Science? Londa Schiebinger, 2001-04-02 This book is a history of women in science and an assessment of the role of gender in shaping scientific knowledge Schiebinger considers the lives of women scientists past and present and debunks the myth that women scientists because they are women are somehow more holistic and integrative and create more cooperative scientific communities
