Stoddard,2012-11-09 Stoddard uses the Anglophone Caribbean and Ireland to examine the complex inflections of women and race as articulated in between the colonial discursive and material formations of the eighteenth century and those of the post colonial twentieth century as structured by the defined spaces of the colonizers estates The London Journal, 1845-83

Andrew King,2017-07-05 This book is the first full length study of one of the most widely read publications of Victorian Britain the London Journal inserting the story of this magazine into the wider context of the Victorian mass market periodical It draws on traditional modes of scholarship in history art history and literature as well as on developments in sociology psychoanalysis and cultural theory However the author ultimately relies on new and extensive primary research to ground the changing ways in which the reading public became consumers of literary commodities on a scale never before seen Previous commentators have coded the mass market as somehow always feminine and King offers a genealogy of how such a gender identity came about Finally King recontextualizes within the Victorian mass market three key nineteenth century novels Walter Scott s Ivanhoe Mary Braddon s Lady Audley s Secret and mile Zola s The Ladies Paradise and in so doing suggests radically new and unexpected meanings Developments in Language Theory Marie-Pierre Beal,Olivier

The nineteenth century French novel has long been seen as the heroic production of great men who confronted in their works the social consequences of the French Revolution And it is true that French realism especially as developed by Balzac and Stendhal was one of the most influential novelistic forms ever invented Margaret Cohen however challenges the traditional account of the genesis of realism by returning Balzac and Stendhal to the forgotten novelistic contexts of their time Reconstructing a key formative period for the novel she shows how realist codes emerged in a hostile take over of a prestigious contemporary sentimental practice of the novel which was almost completely dominated by women writers Cohen draws on impressive archival research resurrecting scores of forgotten nineteenth century novels to demonstrate that the codes most closely identified with realism were actually the invention of sentimentality a powerful aesthetic of emerging liberal democratic society although Balzac and Stendhal trivialized sentimental works by associating them with frivolous women writers and readers Attention to these gendered struggles over genre explains why women were not pioneers of realism in France during the nineteenth century a situation that contrasts with England where women writers played a formative role in inventing the modern realist novel Cohen argues that to understand how literary codes respond to material factors it is imperative to see how such factors take shape within the literary field as well as within society as a whole The book also proposes that attention to literature as a social institution will help critics resolve the current vital question of how to practice literary history in the wake of poststructuralism

Text Analysis with R for Students of Literature Matthew L. Jockers, 2014-06-10 Text Analysis with R for Students of Literature is written with students and scholars of literature in mind but will be applicable to other humanists and social scientists wishing to extend their methodological tool kit to include quantitative and computational approaches to the study of text Computation provides access to information in text that we simply cannot gather using traditional qualitative methods of close reading and human synthesis Text Analysis with R for Students of Literature provides a practical introduction to computational text analysis using the open source programming language R R is extremely popular throughout the sciences and because of its accessibility R is now used increasingly in other research areas Readers begin working with text right away and each chapter works through a new technique or process such that readers gain a broad exposure to core R procedures and a basic understanding of the possibilities of computational text analysis at both the micro and macro scale Each chapter builds on the previous as readers move from small scale microanalysis of single texts to large scale macroanalysis of text corpora and each chapter concludes with a set of practice exercises that reinforce and expand upon the chapter lessons The book's focus is on making the technical palatable and making the technical useful and immediately gratifying

Controversies and the Metaphysics of Mind Yaron M. Senderowicz, 2010 Since ancient times metaphysical theories have been shaped by the dialectical relations between metaphysical positions The present book offers a new account of the role of controversies in the evolution of ideas in current metaphysics of mind Part One develops a pragmatic theory of metaphysical controversies that combines Kantian themes and themes from current argumentation theory The theory developed in this book underscores the role of a unique type of dialectical arguments which establish metaphysical positions as controversial relevant alternatives in the evolution of chains of debates in metaphysics In Part Two and Part Three this theory is applied to chains of debates in present day metaphysics of mind which address the problems of consciousness and personal identity One of the contentions defended in this book is that the intellectual history of metaphysics is not a process in which positions are replaced by opposite positions but rather a history of their status as relevant alternatives The book analyzes in detail and demonstrates how progress in contemporary metaphysics of mind consists in a dialectical process through which challenges to extant positions lead to innovative alternatives that are intrinsically relevant to advancing the understanding of the issues under discussion

Narrative Faith David Stromberg, 2017-10-18
Narrative Faith engages with the dynamics of doubt and faith to consider how literary works with complex structures explore different moral visions The study describes a literary petite histoire that problematizes faith in two ways both in the themes presented in the story and the strategies used to tell that story leading readers to doubt the narrators and their narratives Starting with Dostoevsky's Demons 1872 a literary work that has captivated and confounded critics and readers for well over a century the study examines Albert Camus's The Plague 1947 and Isaac Bashevis Singer's The Penitent 1973 83 works by twentieth century authors who similarly intensify questions of faith through narrators that generate doubt The two postwar novelists share parallel preoccupations with Dostoevsky's art and similar personal philosophies while their works constitute two literary responses to the cataclysm of the Second World War extending questions of faith into the current era The book's last section looks beyond narrative inquiry to consider themes of confession and revision that appear in all three novels and open onto horizons beyond faith and doubt to hope

Romantic Fiction and Literary Excess in the Minerva Press Era Hannah Doherty Hudson, 2023-05-11 Jane Austen's ironic reference to the trash with which the press now groans is only one of innumerable Romantic complaints about fiction's newly overwhelming presence This book draws on evidence from over one hundred Romantic novels to explore the changes in publishing reviewing reading and writing that accompanied the unprecedented growth in novel publication during the Romantic period With particular focus on the infamous Minerva Press the most prolific fiction producer of the age Hannah Hudson puts its popular authors in dialogue with writers such as Walter Scott Ann Radcliffe Maria Edgeworth and William Godwin Using paratextual materials including reviews advertisements and authorial prefaces this book establishes the ubiquity of Romantic anxieties about literary excess showing how beliefs about fictional overproduction created new literary hierarchies Ultimately Hudson argues that this so called excess was a driving force in fictional experimentation and the advertising and publication practices that shaped the genre s reception This title is part of the Flip it Open Programme and may also be available Open Access Check our website Cambridge Core for details John Fowles's Fiction and the
