Possibilities Of Hidden Things Narrative Transgression In Victorian Fictional Autobiographies:

Creating Identity in the Victorian Fictional Autobiography Heidi L. Pennington, 2018-04-30 This is the first book length study of the fictional autobiography a subgenre that is at once widely recognizable and rarely examined as a literary form with its own history and dynamics of interpretation Heidi L Pennington shows that the narrative form and genre expectations associated with the fictional autobiography in the Victorian period engages readers in a sustained meditation on the fictional processes that construct selfhood both in and beyond the text Through close readings of Jane Eyre David Copperfield and other well known examples of the subgenre Pennington shows how the Victorian fictional autobiography subtly but persistently illustrates that all identities are fictions Despite the subgenre s radical implications regarding the nature of personal identity fictional autobiographies were popular in their own time and continue to inspire devotion in readers This study sheds new light on what makes this subgenre so compelling up to and including in the present historical moment of precipitous social and technological change As we continue to grapple with the existential question of what determines who we really are this book explores the risks and rewards of embracing conscious acts of fictional self production in an unstable world

Autobiologies Alexis Harley, 2014-12-18 What does heredity mean for identity What role does the individual have in shaping a personal or a human history What is the ethical status of seemingly biologically determined behaviours What does individual death mean in the light of species extinction Autobiologies explores the importance of such questions in Victorian life writing Analysing memoirs diaries letters and natural histories Alexis Harley demonstrates how theories of natural selection shaped nineteenth century autobiographical practices and refashioned the human subject and also how the lived experience of the individual theorist simultaneously impacted their biological formulations

Possibilities of Hidden Things Hsiao-Hung Lee, 1996 Hsiao Hung Lee s Possibilities of Hidden Things traces submerged narratives as transgressive actions against self identities and conventional strategies in three major Victorian fictional autobiographies Jane Eyre Villette David Copperfield Narrative transgression in these three novels breaks the boundaries between reality and imagination historical events and fiction reason and emotion Instances of the possibilities of hidden things self s wish to become the other fairy tales taking over personal history are typical of narrative transgression fully exemplified in these novels Narrative transgression therefore has greatly shaken the stability of I as the centering voice in the first person narrative

Longing Tamara S. Wagner, 2004 By revealing the origins of common misunderstandings about nostalgia this book aims moreover to show that it creatively fosters a personal and imaginative memory Jacket

The Cumulative Book Index ,1997 A world list of books in the English language Secrecy and Disclosure in Victorian Fiction Leila Silvana May,2016-07-15 Why were the Victorians more fascinated with secrecy than people of other periods What is the function of secrets in Victorian fiction and in the society depicted how does it differ from that of other periods and how did readers of Victorian fiction respond to the secrecy they encountered These are some of the questions Leila May poses in her study of the dynamics of secrecy and disclosure in fiction from Queen Victoria's coronation to the century's end May argues that the works of writers such as Charlotte Bront William Makepeace Thackeray Mary Elizabeth Braddon Edward Bulwer Lytton and Arthur Conan Doyle reflect a distinctly Victorian obsession with the veiling and unveiling of information She argues that there are two opposing vectors in Victorian culture concerning secrecy and subjectivity one presupposing a form of radical Cartesian selfhood always remaining a secret to other selves and another showing that nothing can be hidden from the trained eye May calls the relation between these clashing tendencies the dialectics of secrecy and disclosure May's theories of secrecy and disclosure are informed by the work of twentieth century social scientists She emphasizes Georg Simmel's thesis that sociality and subjectivity are impossible without secrecy and Erving Goffman's claim that sociality can be understood in terms of performativity the presentation of the self in everyday life and his revelation that performance always involves disguise hence secrecy May's study offers convincing evidence that secrecy and duplicity in contrast to the Victorian period's emphasis on honesty and earnestness emerged in response to the social pressures of class gender monarchy and empire and were key factors in producing both the subjectivity and the sociality that we now recognize as Victorian Haunting and Spectrality in Neo-Victorian Fiction R. Arias,P. Pulham,2009-11-27 Exploring the pervasive presence of the Victorian past in contemporary culture these essays use the trope of haunting and spectrality as a critical tool with which to consider neo Victorian works as well as our ongoing fascination with the Victorians combining original readings of well known novels with engaging analyses of lesser known works Death and the Mother from Dickens to Freud Carolyn Dever,1998-05-14 The cultural ideal of motherhood in Victorian Britain seems to be undermined by Victorian novels which almost always represent mothers as incapacitated abandoning or dead Carolyn Dever argues that the phenomenon of the dead or missing mother in Victorian narrative is central to the construction of the good mother as a cultural ideal Maternal loss is the prerequisite for Victorian representations of domestic life a fact which has especially complex implications for women When Freud constructs psychoanalytical models of family gender and desire he too assumes that domesticity begins with the death of the mother Analysing texts by Dickens Collins Eliot Darwin and Woolf as well as Freud Klein and Winnicott Dever argues that fictional and theoretical narratives alike use maternal absence to articulate concerns about gender and representation Psychoanalysis has long been used to analyse Victorian fiction Dever contends that Victorian fiction has much to teach us about psychoanalysis Das Schweizer Buch ,1997
