Postcolonial Audiences Bethan Benwell,James Procter,Gemma Robinson,2012-03-12 Without readers and audiences viewers and consumers the postcolonial would be literally unthinkable And yet postcolonial critics have historically neglected the modes of reception and consumption that make up the politics and pleasures of meaning making during and after empire Thus while recent criticism and theory has made large claims for reading as an ethical act as a means of establishing collective quasi political consciousness as identification with difference as a mode of resistance and as an impulsion to the public imagination the reader in postcolonial literary studies persists as a shadowy figure This collection answers the now pressing need for a distinctively postcolonial take on the rapidly expanding area of reader and reception studies Written by some of the top scholars in the field these essays reveal readers and reception to be varied and profoundly unstable subjects that challenge many of our assumptions and preconceptions of the postcolonial from the notion of reading as national fellowship to the demands of an ethics of reading The Routledge Companion To Postcolonial Studies John

Confluences John Cullen Gruesser, 2007 Confluences looks at the prospects for and the potential rewards of breaking down theoretical and disciplinary barriers that have tended to separate African American and postcolonial studies John Cullen Gruesser's study emphasizes the confluences among three major theories that have emerged in literary and cultural studies in the past twenty-five years postcolonialism Henry Louis Gates Jr's Signifying and Paul Gilroy's black Atlantic For readers who may not be well acquainted with one or more of the three theories Gruesser provides concise introductions in the opening chapter In addition he urges those people working in postcolonial or African American literary studies to attempt to break down the boundaries that in recent years have come to isolate the two fields Gruesser then devotes a chapter to each theory examining one literary text that illustrates the value of the theoretical model a second text that extends the model in a significant way and a third text that raises one or more questions about the theory His examples are drawn from the writings of Salman Rushdie Jean Rhys V S Naipaul Walter Mosley Pauline Hopkins Toni Morrison Harry Dean Harriet Jacobs and Alice Walker Cautious not to conflate postcolonial and African American studies Gruesser encourages critics to embrace the black Atlantic s emphases on movement through space routes rather than roots and intercultural connections and to expand and where appropriate to emend Gilroy s efforts to bridge the two fields

English Writing and India, 1600-1920 Pramod K. Nayar, 2008-03-25 This book explores the formations and configurations of British colonial discourse on India through a reading of prose narratives of the 1600 1920 period Arguing that colonial discourse often relied on aesthetic devices in order to describe and assert a degree of narrative control over Indian landscape Pramod Nayar demonstrates how aesthetics furnished a vocabulary and representational modes for the British to construct particular images of India Looking specifically at the aesthetic modes of the marvellous the monstrous the sublime the picturesque and the luxuriant Nayar marks the shift in the rhetoric from the exploration narratives from the age of mercantile exploration to that of the shikar memoirs of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century s extreme exotic English Writing and India provides an important new study of colonial aesthetics even as it extends current scholarship on the modes of early British representations of new lands and cultures
