Voices from the Classroom Brian Hand, Lori Norton-Meier, 2011-10-25 There is much attention currently being given to argument based inquiry in national and state curriculum documents Students are being required to be able to generate and evaluate science knowledge and to think critically and judge the value of evidence and explanations The intent of the book is to provide a rich and broad view of the impact of argument based inquiry in the elementary classrooms from the perspective of the teacher All the teachers and professional development authors were engaged in promoting and using argument based inquiry as the approach to teaching science They were implementing the Science Writing Heuristic SWH approach as the argument based approach for classroom practice As researchers we constantly work to present our views of these experiences with the voice of the teachers only being relayed through the perspective of the researcher The intent of this book is to provide an opportunity for us as a community to listen to what the teachers are telling us Importantly as demands are being placed on classroom experiences that provide opportunities for students to pose questions make claims and provide evidence that is to think critically and reason like scientists we need to understand what this looks like from the perspective of the teacher This book brings together a range of elementary teachers from kindergarten through to year 6 who have used the Science Writing Heuristic approach to teach argument based inquiry These teachers have all gone through professional development programs and successfully implemented the approach at a high level Creating Literacy-Rich Schools for Adolescents Gay Ivey, Douglas Fisher, 2006-03-15 We know that literacy is the key to learning in school yet millions of middle and high school students lack the literacy skills they need to succeed What can educators do In Creating Literacy Rich Schools for Adolescents authors Gay Ivey and Douglas Fisher make a compelling case that all teachers across the content areas have a role to play in students development of literacy which they define as reading writing speaking listening and viewing Rather than focusing solely on reading instruction and the cliché that says all teachers are teachers of reading they urge teachers to incorporate rich literacy based learning experiences into their classrooms with the goal of helping students to learn and think across the curriculum With research based findings engaging examples and extensive lists of resources Ivey and Fisher encourage readers to Reexamine the materials experiences and expectations of the English language arts classroom Use strategies to improve literacy in all the content areas and seek alternatives to the traditional textbook Make independent reading an important part of students ongoing literacy development Design and use interventions that really work for struggling students and Consider the schoolwide elements professional development peer coaching leadership and assessment that should be in place to support teachers and students Essential questions provide the focus for each chapter and Quality Indicators for Secondary Literacy help readers gauge where they are on the continuum of providing a meaningful literacy experience for students Creating Literacy Rich Schools for Adolescents will inspire educators to take up this challenge in their own school with new confidence that the work is worthwhile and achievable Note This product listing is for the Adobe Acrobat PDF version of the book Imagining the Impossible Karl S. Rosengren, Carl N. Johnson, Paul L. Harris, 2000-05-29 This volume first published in 2000 is about the development of human thinking that stretches beyond the ordinary boundaries of reality Various research initiatives emerged in the decade prior to publication exploring such matters as children s thinking about imaginary beings magic and the supernatural The purpose of this book is to capture something of the larger spirit of these efforts In many ways this new work offers a counterpoint to research on the development of children s domain specific knowledge about the ordinary nature of things that has suggested that children become increasingly scientific and rational over the course of development In acquiring an intuitive understanding of the physical biological or psychological domains even young children recognize that there are constraints on what can happen However once such constraints are acknowledged children are in a position to think about the violation of those very same constraints to contemplate the impossible Nonfiction Matters Stephanie Harvey, 1998 A guide to bringing nonfiction into the curriculum in third through eighth grade classrooms with strategies and ideas for reading nonfiction conducting research and writing reports Spinning in Space Dana Meachen Rau, 2006 A very basic introduction to the planets of our solar system Book Review Digest, 1995 Nonfiction Mentor Texts Lynne R.
