Posthuman theory asks in various ways what it means to be human in a time when philosophy has become suspicious of claims about human subjectivity Those subjects who were historically considered aberrant and our future lives becoming increasingly hybrid show we have always been and are continuously transforming into posthumans What are the ethical considerations of thinking the posthuman Posthuman Ethics asks not what the posthuman is but how posthuman theory creates new imaginative ways of understanding relations between lives Ethics is a practice of activist adaptive and creative interaction which avoids claims of overarching moral structures Inherent in thinking posthuman ethics is the status of bodies as the site of lives inextricable from philosophy thought experiments in being and fantasies of the future Posthuman Ethics explores certain kinds of bodies to think new relations that offer liberty and a contemplation of the practices of power which have been exerted upon bodies The tattooed and modified body the body made ecstatic through art the body of the animal as a strategy for abolitionist animal rights the monstrous body from teratology to fabulations queer bodies becoming angelic the bodies of the nation of the dead and the radical ways in which we might contemplate human extinction are the bodies which populate this book creating joyous political tactics toward posthuman ethics Posthuman Gothic Anya Heise-von der Lippe, 2017-11-01

Disability and the Posthuman Stuart Fletcher Murray, 2020-05-08 Disability and the Posthuman is the first study to analyse cultural representations and deployments of disability as they interact with posthumanist theories of technology and embodiment Working across a wide range of texts many new to critical enquiry in contemporary writing film and cultural practice from North America Europe the Middle East and Japan it covers a diverse range of topics including contemporary cultural theory and aesthetics design engineering and gender the visualisation of prosthetic technologies in the representation of war and conflict and depictions of work time and sleep While noting the potential limitations of posthumanist assessments of the technologized body the study argues that there are exciting productive possibilities and subversive potentials in the dialogue between disability and posthumanism as they generate dissident crossings of cultural spaces Such intersections cover both fictional imagined and material grounded examples of disability and look to a future in which the development of technology and complex embodiment of disability presence align to produce sustainable yet radical creative and critical voices

Design, Mediation, and the Posthuman Dennis M. Weiss, Amy D. Proppen, Colbey Emmerson Reid, 2014-08-14 Though the progress of technology continually pushes life toward virtual existence the last decade has witnessed a renewed focus on materiality Design Mediation and the Posthuman bears witness to the attention paid by literary theorists digital humanists rhetoricians philosophers and designers to the crafted environment the manner in which artifacts mediate human relations and the constitution of a world in which the boundary between humans and things has seemingly imploded The chapters reflect on questions about the extent to which we ought to view humans and nonhuman artifacts as having equal capacity for agency and life and the ways in which technological mediation challenges the central tenets of humanism and anthropocentrism Contemporary theories of human object relations presage the arrival of the posthuman which is no longer a futuristic or science fictional concept but rather one descriptive of the present and indeed the past Discussions of the posthuman already have a long history in fields like literary theory rhetoric and philosophy and as advances in design and technology result in increasingly engaging artifacts that mediate more and more aspects of everyday life it becomes necessary to engage in a systematic interdisciplinary critical examination of the intersection of the domains of design technological mediation and the posthuman Thus this collection brings diverse disciplines together to foster a dialogue on significant technological issues pertinent to philosophy rhetoric aesthetics and science

Posthumanism in Young Adult Fiction Anita Tarr, Donna R. award winners like Paolo Bacigalupi's Ship Breaker and Nancy Farmer's The House of the Scorpion as well as the works of Octavia Butler and China Miéville. Bodies of Violence Lauren B. Wilcox, 2015 According to conventional international relations theory states or groups make war and in doing so kill and injure people that other states are charged with protecting. While it sees the perpetrators of violence as rational actors it views those who are either protected or killed by this violence as mere bodies ahistorical humans who breathe suffer and die but have no particular political agency. In its rationalist variants IR theory only sees bodies as inert objects. Constructivist theory argues that subjects are formed through social relations but leaves the bodies of subjects outside of politics as brute facts. According to Wilcox such limited thinking about bodies and violence is not just wrong but also limits the capacity of IR to theorize the meaning of political violence. By contrast to rationalist and constructivist theory feminist theory sees subjectivity and the body as inextricably linked. This book argues that IR needs to rethink its approach to bodies as having particular political meaning in their own right. For example bodies both direct violent acts violence in drone warfare for example and are constituted by practices that manage violence for example scrutiny of persons as bodies through biometric technologies and body scanners. The book also argues that violence is more than a strategic action of rational actors as in rationalist theories or a destructive violation of community laws and norms as in liberal and constructivist theories. Because IR theorizes bodies as outside of politics it cannot see how violence can be understood as a creative force for shaping the limits of how we understand ourselves as political subjects as well as forming the boundaries of our political communities. By engaging with feminist theories of embodiment and violence Bodies of Violence provides a more nuanced treatment of the nexus of bodies subjects and violence than currently exists in the field of international relations. Becoming of the Body Amaleena Damle, 2014-04-09 No detailed description available for The Becoming of the Body
