Post-medieval Sites and Their Pottery, Moulsham Street, Chelmsford C. M. Cunningham, P. J. Drury, 1985

Essex Archaeology and History, 2007 Living Opposite to the Hospital of St John: Excavations in Medieval

Northampton 2014 Jim Brown, 2021-06-10 This volume presents the results of archaeological investigations undertaken at a building site in Northampton in 2014 The location was of interest as it lay opposite the former medieval hospital of St John which influenced the development of this area of the town British and Irish Archaeology, 1994 Ironwork in

Medieval Britain: An Archaeological Study: v. 31 Ian H. Goodall, 2017-12-02 This monograph is the definitive survey of iron tools and other fittings in use during the period c1066 to 1540AD Exceptional in a north western European context for its range and coverage of artefacts from both rural and urban excavations much of the material described here was recovered during rescue projects in the 1960s and 1970s funded by the State through the Ministry of Public Works and Buildings and their successors The text contains almost everything necessary to identify date and understand medieval iron objects In scope and detail there is still no published parallel and as such it will be essential for almost any archaeologist working in later medieval archaeology particularly in the fields of excavation finds study museums and research

Anglo-Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History 14 Sarah Semple, Howard Williams, 2007-10-10 Volume 14 of the Anglo Saxon Studies in Archaeology and History series is dedicated to the archaeology of early medieval death burial and commemoration Incorporating studies focusing upon Anglo Saxon England as well as research encompassing western Britain Continental Europe and Scandinavia this volume originated as the proceedings of a two day conference held at the University of Exeter in February 2004 It comprises of an Introduction that outlines the key debates and new approaches in early medieval mortuary archaeology followed by eighteen innovative research papers offering new interpretations of the material culture monuments and landscape context of early medieval mortuary practices Papers contribute to a variety of ongoing debates including the study of ethnicity religion ideology and social memory from burial evidence The volume also contains two cemetery reports of early Anglo Saxon cemeteries from Cambridgeshire Caldecote Guy Beresford, 2017-12-02 At just 132 hectares 325 acres the parish of Caldecote is one of the smallest parishes in Hertfordshire Today the settlement comprises the manor house until recently surrounded by a range of traditional farm buildings together with six labourer s cottages and the church To the north lies the site of the old rectory and the earthworks of a medieval settlement In 1973 the Department of Environment and the Deserted Medieval Village Research Group arranged a rescue excavation to examine the earthworks of the medieval village before they were levelled and ploughed Five crofts the old rectory site and much of the moated enclosure were investigated in one of the largest excavations ever conducted on a later medieval rural site in Britain Though the excavations did recover a Bronze Age beaker burial and small quantities of Roman and Iron Age pottery the medieval settlement at Caldecote was probably founded in the 10th century and by the time of the Domesday Survey there was a church a priest and nine villeins A moated site was added in the 13th century A century later Caldecote was granted to the abbots of the Benedictine monastery in St Albans at a time when there were seventeen householders Early in the second half of the 14th century the estate and demesne were subdivided into six farms each complete with a hall house and two or more barns Following the dissolution of the monastery in 1539 the manor was again held by an absentee lord and the farms continued to prosper However the late 16th and early 17th centuries for which there are several surviving wills and inventories saw their gradual abandonment After the desertion of Caldecote Marish in 1698 Caldecote was farmed as a single unit until 1970 when the estate was attached to that adjoining the manor of Newnham Of particular importance from Caldecote is the archaeological evidence for medieval peasant structures the development of the later medieval domestic plan and the structural transformation of post medieval period houses including the insertion of chimneys and second storeys The medieval and later pottery assemblage is of regional importance for its size and the range of fabrics represented The metalwork comprises many objects of personal adornment household utensils and tools for woodwork agriculture and the manufacture of textiles Other finds include copper alloy objects both domestic and agricultural whetstones quernstones mortars and clay pipes Although the economy of Caldecote was always dependant on arable farming the faunal remains elucidate aspects of the medieval diet and details of the livestock maintained on the holdings

Rescue Excavation
 ,2014-06-15 Government sponsorship of rescue archaeology became a recognised policy before the 1939 45 war and grew massively in scale over the succeeding decades in response to the huge growth in construction and redevelopment which was affecting both urban and rural areas In the early 1970s when it became clear that effort and funding needed to be concentrated on the post excavation and publication requirements of the work a programme was instituted to bring to completion those projects which had received government funding over the previous decades and to ensure that the information resulting from the work was publicly available This report charts the achievements of that programme It covers projects which received government funding between 1938 and 1972 the date when regional archaeological organisations were set up to cope with the still growing demands for rescue archaeology and central government therefore ceased to have direct responsibility for the work It lists under each site the excavators who worked on the site the dates of the excavations the broad archaeological periods represented details of publications resulting from the work and where relevant the number of the NAR archive deposit It is a valuable resource not only as a record of the large amount of work carried out with public funding since the war but also as a mine of information about the investigations that have taken place in all areas of archaeology in England over the last half century

Post-Roman Pottery from Excavations in Colchester, 1971-85 John P. Cotter, Catherine Hills, Michael John Hughes, 2000

Object and Economy in Medieval Winchester Martin Biddle, 2025-04-03

Over 6000 objects were recovered during the Winchester excavations 1961 1971 offering insight not only into the industries and arts but the economic cultural and social life of medieval Winchester This volume covers all the objects from the finest products of the Anglo Saxon goldsmith s skill to the iron tenter hooks of the cloth industry Beyond Pilgrim Souvenirs and Secular Badges Sarah Blick,2007-07-08 Brian Spencer former Keeper of the Museum of London was a major scholar of medieval popular culture He almost single handedly established the study of pilgrim souvenirs and secular badges He defined what these objects were and ascertained their function manufacture style and iconography with a careful use of primary documents and intricate stylistic analysis He identified every major souvenir and badge discovered in Great Britain during the last few decades He also made prominent contributions to the field of seal matrices gaming pieces and horse paraphernalia What bound all of these interests together was his understanding that the study of these artefacts could shed light on the beliefs and practices of a large number of people This is reflected in the frequency with which his work is cited This volume is a collection of essays written by those who worked with Brian directly and those with whom he corresponded

The Post-Roman Small Finds from Excavations in Colchester 1971-85 Nina Crummy,1988 Colchester, Fortress of the War God David Radford,Adrian Gascoyne,2013-07-19 This volume is a critical assessment of the current state of archaeological knowledge of the settlement originally called Camulodunon and now known as Colchester The town has been the subject of antiquarian interest since the late 16th century and the first modern archaeological excavations occurred in 1845 close to Colchester Castle the towns most prominent historic site The earliest significant human occupation recorded from Colchester dates to the late Neolithic but it was only towards the end of the 1st century BC that an oppidum was established in the area This was superseded initially by a Roman legionary fortress and then the colonia of Camulodunum on a hilltop bounded on the north and east by the river Colne There is little evidence for continuing occupation here in the early post Roman period but in 917 the town was re established as a burgh and gradually grew in importance After the Norman Conquest a castle was built on the foundations of the ruined Roman Temple of Claudius and a priory and an abbey were established just to the south of the walled town Although the town as elsewhere was affected by the Dissolution of the Monasteries and the English Civil War it remained essentially medieval in character until the 18th century During the 19th century this process of change was accelerated by the arrival of the railway industrialisation and the establishment of the military garrison Since the 1960s Colchester has been subject to recurring phases of re development the most recent having ended only in 2007 which have had a significant impact on the historic environment Fortunately the town is one of the best studied in the country Beeston Castle, Cheshire Peter Ellis,2013-01-15 These excavations the first archaeological examination of the medieval fortress of Beeston Castle showed conclusively that the site has been used since prehistory Divided into two parts the report first describes the site s occupation from the Mesolithic period to the thirteenth century Discussions of the Late Bronze Age metalworking and pre Iron Age crop processing are supplemented by detailed descriptions of the flint pottery and jewellery The construction of the medieval castle in the fourteenth century opens the second part of the report with a discussion of the historical and documentary background and the architectural evidence supplemented with extensive discussions of the coins pottery and glass From the mid fourteenth century the castle fell into disuse and was neglected until the Civil War when it changed hands twice between the Royalists and Parliamentarians The subsequent demolition of the castle sealed a large group of Civil War finds among them fragments of a jack of plate armour a collection of spurs and a major group of clay pipes Later in the seventeenth century the Outer Gateway was reoccupied for a short period Many traces were recorded of the nineteenth century fair held annually on the hilltop

Objects Chris Caple, 2006-08-21 An invaluable field textbook Objects examines detailed case studies to provide a brilliantly clear and comprehensible guide to the different methods and approaches cultural forensic and technical which can and have been used to study ancient artefacts From the Bayeux Tapestry to small medieval brass pins medieval wooden doors to Saxon jewellery Chris Caple's integral text deals with a full range of materials and clearly and simply explains key scientific techniques technology anthropological jargon and historical approaches Key demonstrations include how information from objects builds into a picture of the ancient society that made and used it the commonly used scientific techniques for object analysis how and why object typologies work how cultural and economic factors as well as the material properties influences what objects are made of how simple observation of an object can build its biography Revealing answers to crucial questions such as Can DNA be obtained from objects Why do people x ray ancient artefacts Can you determine the source of metal objects from their trace elements Objects is an absolutely essential text for students of archaeology museum studies and conservation
