A Systematic Approach

This book provides a unique, synthetic treatment of postmortem change presented in a systematic fashion with attention to the relative chronologies of both physical and cultural factors that influence human and animal remains. The author integrates reports and observations in the anthropology/archaeology literature with material as appropriate from medicine, pathology, reuropathology, ethnography and the forensic sciences as well as reporting on his own original observations. In addition to discussing transformation of skeletal remains, comprehensive treatment is given to changes in soft tissue remains and to conditions under which said remains may be preserved postmortem. This book "fills in the blanks" where pathology has traditionally left off and before anthropology has traditionally begun with an integrated review of what anthropology traditionally considers. More and more anthropologists and forensic scientists are called upon to systematically interpret postmortem changes "from beginning to end," cutting across various fields of study. This is the first book to explore, explain and interpret all these aspects of postmortem change.

Forensic Anthropology and Medicine Aurore Schmitt,2007-11-09 Recent political religious ethnic and racial conflicts as well as mass disasters have significantly helped to bring to light the almost unknown discipline of forensic anthropology This science has become particularly useful to forensic pathologists because it aids in solving various puzzles such as identifying victims and documenting crimes On topics such as mass disasters and crimes against humanity teamwork between forensic pathologists and forensic anthropologists has significantly increased over the few last years This relationship has also improved the study of routine cases in local medicolegal institutes When human remains are badly decomposed partially skeletonized and or burned it is particularly useful for the forensic pathologist to be assisted by a forensic anthropologist It is not a one way situation when the forensic anthropologist deals with skeletonized bodies that have some kind of soft tissue the advice of a forensic pathologist would be welcome Forensic anthropology is a subspecialty field of physical anthropology Most of the background on skeletal biology was gathered on the basis of skeletal remains from past populations Physical anthropologists then developed an indisputable know how nevertheless one must keep in mind that looking for a missing person or checking an assumed identity is quite a different matter Pieces of information needed by forensic anthropologists require a higher level of reliability and accuracy than those granted in a general archaeological context To achieve a positive identification findings have to match with evidence particularly when genetic identification is not possible
