The Women Hilton Als, 1998-01-31 A New York Times Notable Book Daring and fiercely original The Women is at once a memoir a psychological study a sociopolitical manifesto and an incisive adventure in literary criticism It is conceived as a series of portraits analyzing the role that sexual and racial identity played in the lives and work of the writer's subjects his mother a self-described Negress who would not be defined by the limitations of race and gender the mother of Malcolm X whose mixed race background and eventual descent into madness contributed to her son's misogyny and racism brilliant Harvard educated Dorothy Dean who rarely identified with other blacks or women but deeply empathized with white gay men and the late Owen Dodson a poet and dramatist who was female identified and who played an important role in the author's own social and intellectual formation Hilton Als submits both racial and sexual stereotypes to his inimitable scrutiny with relentless humor and sympathy The results are exhilarating The Women is that rarest of books a memorable work of self investigation that creates a form of all its own Pan-African Chronology III Everett Jenkins, Jr., 2011-02-28 This third volume of the Pan African Chronology set covers 1914 through 1929 a time of two seminal events World War I and the Black Awakening In World War I people of African descent fought for both sides earning distinction on the battlefields of France as well as in the jungles and deserts of Africa The Black Awakening a period from 1919 through 1929 marked the dawning of global awareness of the contributions of African people to the culture of the world The book is arranged by year and events of each year are grouped by region It also has two special biographical divisions for W E B DuBois and Marcus Garvey Writings of Frank Marshall Davis Frank Marshall Davis, 2009-09-09 Frank Marshall Davis 1905 1987 was a central figure in the black press working as reporter and editor for the Atlanta World the Associated Negro Press the Chicago Star and the Honolulu Record Writings of Frank Marshall Davis presents a selection of Davis's nonfiction providing an unprecedented insight into one journalist's ability to reset the terms of public conversation and frame the news to open up debate among African Americans and all Americans During the middle of the twentieth century Davis set forth a radical vision that challenged the status quo His commentary on race relations music literature and American culture was precise impassioned and engaged At the height of World War II Davis boldly questioned the nature of America's potential postwar relations and what they meant for African Americans and the nation His work challenged the usefulness of race as a social construct and he eventually disavowed the idea of race altogether Throughout his career he championed the struggles of African Americans for equal rights and laboring people seeking fair wages and other benefits In his reviews on music he argued that blues and jazz were responses to social conditions and served as weapons of racial integration His book reviews complemented his radical vision by commenting on how literature reshapes one's understanding of the world Even his travel writings on Hawaii called for cultural pluralism and tolerance for racial and economic difference Writings of Frank Marshall Davis reveals a writer in touch with the most salient issues defining his era and his desire to insert them into the public sphere John Edgar Tidwell provides an introduction and contextual notes on each major subject area Davis explored John Edgar Tidwell is an associate professor of English at the University of Kansas He edited Frank Marshall Davis's Living the Blues Memoirs of a Black Journalist and Poet and his Black Moods Collected Poems Bitter Fruit Maureen Honey, 1999 Despite the participation of African American women in all aspects of home front activity during World War II advertisements recruitment posters and newsreels portrayed largely white women as army nurses defense plant workers concerned mothers and steadfast wives This sea of white faces left for posterity images such as Rosie the Riveter obscuring the contributions that African American women made to the war effort In Bitter Fruit Maureen Honey corrects this distorted picture of women's roles in World War II by collecting photos essays fiction and poetry by and about black women from the four leading African American periodicals of the war period Negro Digest The Crisis Opportunity and Negro Story Mostly appearing for the first time since their original publication the materials in Bitter Fruit feature black women operating technical machinery working in army uniforms entertaining audiences and pursuing a college education The articles praise the women's accomplishments as pioneers working toward racial equality the fiction and poetry depict female characters in roles other than domestic servants and give voice to the bitterness arising from discrimination that many women felt With these various images Honey masterfully presents the roots of the postwar civil rights movement and the leading roles black women played in it

Containing works from eighty writers this anthology includes forty African American women authors most of whose work has not been published since the war Of particular note are poems and short stories anthologized for the first time including Ann Petry's first story Octavia Wynbush's last work of fiction and three poems by Harlem Renaissance writer Georgia Douglas Johnson Uniting these various writers was their desire to write in the midst of a worldwide military conflict with dramatic potential for ending segregation and opening doors for women at home Traditional anthologies of African American literature jump from the Harlem Renaissance to the 1960s with little or no reference to the decades between those periods Bitter Fruit not only illuminates the literature of these decades but also presents an image of black women as community activists that undercuts gender stereotypes of the era As Honey concludes in her introduction African American women found an empowered voice during the war one that anticipates the fruit of their wartime effort to break silence to challenge limits and to change forever the terms of their lives

Place and Belonging in America David Jacobson, 2003-05-01 How did the American people come to develop a moral association with this land such that their very experience of nationhood was rooted in and their republican virtues depended upon that land And what is happening now as the exclusivity of that moral linkage between people and land becomes ever more attenuated In Place and Belonging in America David Jacobson addresses the evolving relationship between geography and citizenship in the United States since the nation's origins Americans have commonly assumed that only a people rooted in a bounded territory could safeguard republican virtues But as Jacobson argues in the contemporary world of transnational identities multiple loyalties and permeable borders the notion of a singular territorial identity has lost its resonance The United States has come to represent a diverse quilt of cultures with varying ties to the land These developments have transformed the character of American politics to one in which the courts take a much larger role in mediating civic life An expanding web of legal rights enables individuals and groups to pursue their own cultural and social ends in contrast to the civic republican practice of an active citizenry legislating its collective life In the first part of his sweeping study Jacobson considers the origins of the uniquely American sense of place exploring such components as the Puritans and their religious vision of the New World the early Republic and agrarian virtue as extolled in the writings of Thomas Jefferson the nationalization of place during the Civil War and the creation of post Civil War monuments and later the national park system The second part of Place and Belonging in America concerns the contemporary United States and its more complex interactions between space and citizenship Here Jacobson looks at the multicultural landscape as represented by the 1991 act of Congress that changed the name of the Custer Battlefield National Monument to Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument and the subsequent construction of a memorial honoring the Indian participants in the battle the Vietnam Veterans Memorial and the U S Holocaust Memorial Museum He also reflects upon changing patterns of immigration and settlement At once far reaching and detailed Place and Belonging in America offers a though provoking new perspective on the myriad often spiritual connections between territoriality national identity and civic culture

Performing Feminisms Sue-Ellen Case,1990-02 A valuable provoking important addition to any theatre scholar or practitioner s library especially since feminist theory is a relative newcomer to the world of theatre

Monthly Bulletin San Francisco Public Library,1919 The Richard Wright Encyclopedia Jerry W. Ward,Robert J. Butler,2008-06-30 Richard Wright is one of the most important African American writers He is also one of the most prolific Best known as the author of Native Son he wrote 7 novels 2 collections of short fiction an autobiography more than 250 newspaper articles book reviews and occasional essays some 4 000 verses a photo documentary and 3 travel books By attacking the taboos and hypocrisy that other writers had failed to address he revolutionized American literature and created a disturbing and realistic portrait of the African American experience This encyclopedia is a guide to his vast and influential body of works

Alain L. Locke Leonard Harris,Charles Molesworth,2010-04-02 Alain L Locke 1886 1954 in his famous 1925 anthology TheNew Negro declared that the pulse of the Negro world has begun to beat in Harlem Often called the father of the Harlem Renaissance Locke had his finger directly on that pulse promoting influencing and sparring with such figures as Langston Hughes Zora Neale Hurston Jacob Lawrence Richmond Barth William Grant Still Booker T Washington W E B Du Bois Ralph Bunche and John Dewey The long awaited first biography of this extraordinarily gifted philosopher and writer Alain L Locke narrates the untold story of his profound impact on twentieth century America s cultural and intellectual life Leonard Harris and Charles Molesworth trace this story through Locke s Philadelphia upbringing his undergraduate years at Harvard where William James helped spark his influential engagement with pragmatism and his tenure as the first African American Rhodes Scholar The heart of their narrative illuminates Locke s heady years in 1920s New York City and his forty year career at Howard University where he helped spearhead the adult education movement of the 1930s and wrote on topics ranging from the philosophy of value to the theory of democracy Harris and Molesworth show that throughout this illustrious career despite a formal manner that many observers interpreted as elitist or distant Locke remained a warm and effective teacher and mentor as well as a fierce champion of literature and art as means of breaking down barriers between communities The multifaceted portrait that emerges from this engaging account effectively reclaims Locke s rightful place in the pantheon of America's most important minds

The New Red Negro James Edward Smethurst, 1999 The New Red Negro surveys African American poetry from the onset of the Depression to the early days of the Cold War. It considers the relationship between the thematic and formal choices of African American poets and organized ideology from the proletarian early 1930s to the neo-modernist late 1940s. This study examines poetry by writers across the spectrum: canonical, less well known, and virtually unknown. The ideology of the Communist Left, as particularly expressed through cultural institutions of the literary Left, significantly influenced the shape of African American poetry in the 1930s and 40s, as well as the content. One result of this engagement of African American writers with the organized Left was a pronounced tendency to regard the re-created folk or street voice as the authentic voice and subject of African American poetry. Furthermore, a masculinist rhetoric was crucial to the re-creation of this folk voice. This unstable yoking of cultural nationalism, integrationism, and internationalism within a construct of class struggle helped to shape a new relationship of African American poetry to vernacular African American culture. This relationship included the representation of African American working class and rural folk life and its cultural products, ostensibly from the mass perspective. It also included the dissemination of urban forms of African American popular culture, often resulting in mixed media, high/low hybrids.

soulscripT June Jordan, 2004-11-02 Black poets from the early twentieth century and onward come together for a moving anthology edited and organized by the late, revered poet June Jordan. First published in 1970, soulscripT is a poignant panoramic collection of poetry from some of the most eloquent voices in the art. Selected for their literary excellence and by the dictates of Jordan's heart, these works tell the story of both collective and personal experiences in Jordan's words: in tears, in rage, in hope, in sonnet, in blank, free verse, in overwhelming rhetorical scream. SoulscripT features works by Jordan and other luminaries like Gwendolyn Brooks, Countee Cullen, Paul Laurence Dunbar, Nikki Giovanni, Langston Hughes, Gayl Jones, James Weldon Johnson, Audre Lorde, Claude McKay, Ishmael Reed, Sonia Sanchez, and Richard Wright, as well as the fresh voices of a turbulent era's younger writers. Celebrated spoken word poet Staceyann Chin, an original cast member of Def Poetry Jam on Broadway, has also added an introduction that speaks to Jordan's legacy, helping to further cement soulscripT as a visionary compilation that has already become a modern classic.

The Concise Oxford Companion to African American Literature William L. Andrews, Frances Smith Foster, Trudier Harris, 2001-02-15 A breathtaking achievement, this Concise Companion is a suitable crown to the astonishing production in African American literature and criticism that has swept over American literary studies in the last two decades.
