Powell's Practical Advertiser George Henry Powell, 1908      Mythical River Melissa L. Sevigny, 2016-03-15 In a lyrical mix of natural science history and memoir Melissa L Sevigny ponders what it means to make a home in the American Southwest at a time when its most essential resource water is overexploited and undervalued Mythical River takes the reader on a historical sojourn into the story of the Buenaventura an imaginary river that led eighteenth and nineteenth century explorers fur trappers and emigrants astray for seventy five years This mythical river becomes a metaphor for our modern day attempts to supply water to a growing population in the Colorado River Basin Readers encounter a landscape literally remapped by the search for new water where rivers flow uphill dams and deep wells reshape geography trees become intolerable competitors for water and new technologies tap into clouds and oceans In contrast to this fantasy of abundance Sevigny explores acts of restoration From a dismantled dam in Arizona to an accidental wetland in Mexico she examines how ecologists engineers politicians and citizens have attempted to secure water for desert ecosystems In a place scarred by conflict she shows how recognizing the rights of rivers is a path toward water security Ultimately Sevigny writes a new map for the future of the American Southwest a vision of a society that accepts the desert's limits in exchange for an intimate relationship with the natural world

Women in the War Zone Anne Powell, 2001-08-26 In our collective memory the First World War is dominated by men The sailors soldiers airmen and politicians about whom histories are written were male and the first half of the twentieth century was still a time when a woman's place was thought to be in the home It was not until the Second World War that women would start to play a major role both in the armed forces and in the factories and the fields Yet there were some women who were able to contribute to the war effort between 1914 and 1918 mostly as doctors and nurses In Women in the War Zone Anne Powell has selected extracts from first hand accounts of the experiences of those female medical personnel who served abroad during the First World War Covering both the Western and the Eastern Fronts from Petrograd to Basra and from Antwerp to the Dardanelles they include nursing casualties from the Battle of Ypres a young doctor put in charge of a remote hospital in Serbia and a nurse who survived a torpedo attack albeit with serious
