Television/radio Age, 1986 Australian Newspapers in the Television Age, 1956-2006 Rodney Tiffen, 2025-04-15 This book looks at Australian newspapers over the half century following the introduction of television in 1956 Through a quantitative study it illuminates how the nature of news has changed and how central journalistic practices have developed It examines newspapers changing size and structure their story priorities their use of visual aids and interpretive frames their changing range and treatment of sources and how these changes affected their political and international coverage The content analysis shows a dominant theme of growth and improvement Newspapers offered their readers much more at the end of the half century than at the beginning The much larger volume of news was presented in more visually attractive and reader friendly ways than before News agendas expanded in response both to changing reader interests and a changing political environment Newspapers had a more active orientation towards using a wider range of sources All papers shared in the major trends but to varying degrees so that by the end of the period there were sharper differences between the papers than at the beginning Mapping the multi dimensional nature of change in this pivotal period lays a groundwork for analysing the changing nature of journalism during the existential crisis that news organisations are now facing during the digital age

European Cinemas in the Television Age Dorota Ostrowska, 2007-02-01 European Cinemas in the Television Age is a radical attempt to rethink the post war history of European cinemas The authors approach the subject from the perspective of television s impact on the culture of cinema s production distribution consumption and reception Thus they indicate a new direction for the debate about the future of cinema in Europe In every European country television has transformed economic technological and aesthetic terms in which the process of cinema production had been conducted Television s growing popularity has drastically reshaped cinema s audiences and forced governments to introduce policies to regulate the interaction between cinema and television in the changing and dynamic audio visual environment It is cinematic criticism which was slowest in coming to terms with the presence of television and therefore most instrumental in perpetuating the view of cinema as an isolated object of aesthetic critical and academic inquiry The recognition of the impact of television upon European cinemas offers a more authentic and richer picture of cinemas in Europe which are part of the complex audiovisual matrix including television and new media

The Age of Television Martin Esslin,2017-07-05 Having spent most of his career working with the British Broadcasting Corporation BBC Martin Esslin appraises American TV with the eyes of both a detached outsider and a concerned insider American popular culture writes Esslin has become the popular culture of the world at large American television is thus more than a purely social phenomenon It fascinates and in some instances frightens the whole world The Age of Television discusses television as an essentially dramatic form of communication pointing to the strengths and weaknesses that spring from its character It explores its impact on generations destined to grow up under its influence with such questions as how TV turns reality into fiction and fiction into reality Esslin considers the long term effects of television on our abilities to reason to read to create He asks if current programming on American television constitutes what we want and deserve and asks what we would change if we could These are but a handful of the questions Esslin probes in this penetrating analysis of contemporary television and its impact on our lives In his new introduction Esslin discusses changes in the media over the last two decades He explores the increasing number of television stations available the rise of boutique channels concentrating on news sports or film and the relationship between television and other forms of electronic media such as video games and the Internet Finally he considers the effect of these developments on our ability to concentrate our sensitivity to violence and even our artistic taste Most compelling of all is his final question Can the Age of Television with all its dangers yet become a golden age of cultural growth Martin Esslin is professor emeritus of drama at Stanford University His numerous critical works include Brecht The Man and his Work The Theatre of the Absurd An Anatomy of Drama and Artaud He cur
