Raising Voices Ensuring Quality In Residential Care:

Raising Voices P. J. Youll, C. McCourt-Perring, 1993 Raising Voices P. J. Youll, Christine McCourt Perring, 1993 A major programme of developmental research in residential care practice and management the Caring in Homes Initiative is described and evaluated in this book It raises a series of questions about residential care in the Nineties and highlights serious issues that will shape the provision of residential care in the future The authors evaluated the Initiative over a period of three and a half years visiting projects and interviewing residents staff and managers in homes across all care groups Their findings should be interesting reading for everybody who wishes to see residential care as a positive choice for all those who use it and for the staff who run the services Developing Quality in Personal Social Services Adalbert Evers, Riitta Haverinen, Kai Leichsenring, Gerald Wistow, 2019-05-23 First published in 1997 this volume is about the challenge of introducing business originated concepts of quality assurance personal social services are currently confronted with all over Europe Undoubtedly the new orientation towards a more business like approach in social welfare settings will raise professionalism client orientation and controlling instead of mere inspection There is evidence however that the specificities of personal social services are not always taken into account if it comes to introducing market values and mechanisms Due to this development it becomes essential to promote more adequate criteria for quality standards in the very field of personal social services The challenge is to maintain a certain standard of service provision while at the same time reconsidering the preconditions for defining quality This will imply the search for a consensus between allegedly diverging approaches i e between their different basic concepts aims and standards Given the social and economic context within which these developments are taking place the focus of the contributions is on their critical assessment in different European countries An overview is given about national developments in the areas of care for older persons and other social services The contributors from Austria Belgium Denmark Finland Germany Italy the Netherlands Norway Sweden and the UK look at how and by whom quality is defined and what challenges the actors of the traditionally mixed economy of personal social services are meeting Empirical evidence about user involvement and satisfaction is given but also theoretical reasoning about the impact of business approaches on a public good Thus the book tries to fill an important gap in practice research and policy making concerning personal social services and quality issues Towards Quality Care Caroline Mozley, Caroline Sutcliffe, Heather Bagley, Lis Cordingley, David Challis, Peter Huxley, Alistair Burns, 2017-11-22 This unique evaluation of the outcomes of residential and nursing home care for older people identifies the factors determining the quality of life of older people who have moved into care homes It examines the relationship between older people s psychological well being and the kinds of care received in residential homes The volume draws on a study of UK care homes interviewing new entrants soon after admission and then on two further occasions to ascertain their experience of care and their quality of life Interviews were also undertaken with care staff and their managers and the care environment of each home was assessed

The authors provide valuable evidence of the factors which can influence older people's well being on entering a care home and how they adjust either positively or not to their new surroundings The volume offers clear pointers towards ways to improve quality of residential and nursing home care Residential versus Community Care Raymond Jack, 2016-01-06 The role of residential care in welfare provision has been debated for many years Recent emphasis on care in the community has led to closure of hospitals and residential homes on a massive scale Drawing together contributions from some key names in the field this provocative and stimulating book questions the reasons for the rejection of this form of care and offers a reassessment of its role in community care for the twenty first century Ageing and disability: Transitions into residential care The Open University, This 11 hour free course explored the role of social workers and care staff in supporting individuals who move into residential care Towards More Democracy in Social Services Gaby Flösser, Hans-Uwe Otto, 2011-10-13 No detailed description available for Towards More Democracy in Social Services

Quality care for elderly people Edward J. Dickinson, Peter P. Mayer, Martin Sandler, 2013-11-11 This book is all about improving the health care of elderly people which is facing unprecedented challenges in the 1990s Energies need to be concentrated in three main areas the development of high quality care in community settings the future role of specialized hospital services the way that long term care is delivered All of these are interconnected and success with any of them depends on successful relationships For example success in community care requires working interfaces with primary care the private sector and hospital care These interfaces are not static but comprise dynamic interactions between people people in different teams with different backgrounds training perspectives and interests What people do is influenced strongly by the organizations they work for These inescapable facts lead us to the structure of this book By concentrating on sectors people and organizations we hope to deal with all the important relationships in a coherent way Yet this book is not intended to be from a service providers perspective We have arranged the book in this way so that providers are best equipped to meet the needs of their customers whether they are patients residents or clients We know that elderly people may experience dislocation in their care because of frictions and gaps between different sectors disciplines teams and organizations To achieve seamless care there is a need for greater understanding and harmony of purpose and action across the care spectrum Understanding Old Age Gail Wilson, 2000-02-22 Providing a comprehensive overview of issues of ageing from a global perspective this ambitious text introduces the reader to a wide range of issues and policies on ageing Topics examined include theoretical perspectives on ageing in society demographic trends roles played by older people as political actors migration health pensions family and institutional care and elder abuse This will be an essential text for students of social gerontology as well as an invaluable resource for students of nursing social work social policy and development studies Service User and Carer Participation in Social Work Janet Warren, 2007-06-28 This is the first text to examine the principal elements of service user involvement and participation across both adult and children's services A valuable learning resource it draws together information from research service users carers and practitioners across both groups In addition it gives an overview of the specific knowledge attitude and skills that social workers need for training at qualifying level and integrates theory with evidence to inform everyday social work practice Furthermore case studies and activities encourage reflection and the application of this knowledge to practice situations Child Welfare Kathleen Kufeldt,Brad McKenzie,2011-07-22 Children who receive child welfare services are a vulnerable group and their numbers are growing All who care about them need to be fully informed about current outcomes indicators of success and failure and best practices This second edition of Child Welfare Connecting Research Policy and Practice has a special focus on Canadian child welfare and contains entirely new material on these important themes The book highlights major developments in child welfare and shows how these inform directions taken in research policy and practice The book includes new sections on Indigenous issues and best practices and several of its chapters review efforts to increase supports for families in need Contributions from new and international authors illustrate the endemic nature of child welfare challenges and how we can learn from these experiences Contributors provide recommendations for promoting best practice and enhancing resilience among children and families Closing chapters within each section and at the end of the book summarize key theoretical and practice issues along with recommendations to improve the research policy and practice continuum in child welfare The challenge is to translate good research into policy and practice in ways that enhance the life chances of children who need our care and protection Learning and Teaching in Social Work Margaret Yelloly,1995 This book addresses contemporary themes in the professional education of social workers The contributors raise important questions about the nature and purpose of professional social work practice in a modern changing and complex society Pain, Normality, and the Struggle for Congruence James P Anglin,2014-02-25 Learn what children living in group homes need most Pain Normality and the Struggle for Congruence Reinterpreting Residential Care for Children and Youth presents the results of a 14 month study of 10 staffed group homes in British Columbia The book uses grounded theory to construct a theoretical model that speaks to the primary challenge care workers face each dayresponding to pain and pain based behavior in residents It combines participant observations transcribed interviews and document analysis to develop a core theme of congruence several major psychosocial processes and 11 interactional dynamics identified as being fundamental to group home life The study brings to light several neglected aspects of residential care and proposes new directions in policy development education practice and research to create an integrated and accessible framework for understanding group home life for youths Pain Normality and the Struggle for Congruence Reinterpreting Residential Care for Children and Youth is a full and rigorous examination of the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of residential group care The studyconducted during a time of heightened sensitivity to the rights of children and increased emphasis on accountability and outcome measurementreveals a core theme of congruence focusing on consistency reciprocity and coherence The book examines the major elements of this theme including creating an extra familial living environment developing a sense of normality listening and responding with respect establishing a structure routine and expectations offering emotional and developmental support respecting personal space and time discovering potential communicating a framework for understanding and much more Pain Normality and the Struggle for Congruence Reinterpreting Residential Care for Children and Youth provides professionals concerned with the development and treatment of children and young people with a unique understanding of group home life and work From the Foreword by Dr Barney Glaser I am honored and delighted to be asked by Jim Anglin to write the foreword to this grounded theory text The purpose of this grounded theory is to construct a theoretical framework that would explain and account for well functioning staffed group homes for young people that in turn could serve as a basis for improved practice policy development education and training research and evaluation THE READER WILL SEE THAT ANGLIN HAS ACHIEVED HIS GOAL WITH ADMIRABLE SUCCESS HIS GROUNDED THEORY TRULY MAKES A SCHOLARLY CONTRIBUTION TO THE LITERATURE
