Ralph Hotere Black Light:

Ralph Hotere Ralph Hotere, Bill Culbert, Dunedin Public Art Gallery, Museum of New Zealand, 2000 Black Light celebrates the work of one of New Zealand's greatest artists Ralph Hotere Born in 1931 in the Te Aupouri community of Taikarawa in the northern Hokianga Hotere has baffled commentators and awed viewers for more than forty years In this book which accompanied the exhibition Black Light his paradoxical themes are explored by some of New Zealand's leading writers and critics including Ian Wedde and Cilla McQueen Also celebrated in Black Light is one of the most marvelous creative friendships of our time between Ralph Hotere and the sculptor Bill Culbert The book's title is partly homage to Bill Culbert's light genius Black Light is the result of a partnership between the Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa and the Dunedin Public Art Gallery who together honour a great artist

Ralph Hotere: The Dark is Light Enough Vincent O'Sullivan, 2020-10-20 Vincent O'Sullivan's compelling nuanced portrait of the great New Zealand artist Ralph Hotere brings the man and his art to life Ralph Hotere Te Aupouri and Te Rarawa 1931-2013 was one of Aotearoa's most significant modern artists Hotere invited the poet novelist and biographer Vincent O'Sullivan to write his life story in 2005 Now this book the result of years of research and many conversations with Hotere and his fellow artists collaborators friends and family provides a nuanced compelling portrait of Hotere the man and the artist Vincent O'Sullivan has given us the remarkable story of a small boy Hone Papita Raukura Hotere born in 1931 near Mitimiti on the coastal edge of the Hokianga who first becomes Rau then Ralph and eventually an iconic stand alone signature HOTERE I love the tale about Ralph being invited to explain his work to the Queen It's not hard to guess how he must have felt Now he would simply be able to hand Her Majesty a copy of this book give one of his quiet coughs and say Here you go this should do the trick BILL MANHIRE Ka rawe This rangatira book by Vincent O'Sullivan leaves no doubt as to Ralph Hotere's position on the paepae of New Zealand artists

WITI IHIMAERA Parihaka Te Miringa Hohaia, Gregory O'Brien, Lara Strongman, 2006-04 Parihaka The Art of Passive Resistance commemorates and explores one of the major historical events in the history of Aotearoa New Zealand the invasion of Parihaka Taranaki by Pakeha soldiers in 1881 It considers the events leading up to the invasion and the immense strength and spirit of the Parihaka community which continues today Over one hundred and twenty years of art poetry and waiata were brought together for the exhibition held at City Gallery Wellington during the summer of 2000 and 2001 This book includes existing artworks depicting the story of Parihaka and its leaders Te Whiti o Rongomai and Tohu Kakahi plus new pieces commissioned from leading Maori and Pakeha artists as well as historical and contemporary photographs Texts include major new essays on the history art and contemporary significance of Parihaka plus new poems by leading Maori and Pakeha writers

English, Colonial, Modern and Maori Anna Crichton, 2014-11-24 How and why do works make their way into a public art collection Who decides what will be hung on the walls placed on plinths displayed in cases These important but seldom discussed questions lie at the heart of this cultural biography of the 70 years during which the Robert

McDougall Art Gallery was Christchurch's civic art gallery. The book explains how the collection came together, how it developed, and how the public and artists and critics reacted to it. The book is presented in three parts, each of which has its own introduction. It provides an analytical framework in detail and in context by defining terms and explaining particular recurrent concepts. These include and indeed highlight selection and presentation cultures derived from the core museological functions of collection and display. These together with the framework's other concepts are related to mainstream methodology in the social sciences, particularly political science. The latter is especially relevant to the study of a public art gallery owned and funded by the public and its elected representatives and controlled by these representatives and their appointed agents. Furthermore, the framework explores the concept of post-colonial tensions between heritages, specifically indigenous, transplanted, and autochthonous ones. The significance of this becomes more apparent when the concepts used in relevant previous studies of specific public art galleries in New Zealand are reviewed. There is also a strong emphasis on the development of a public Maori art collection. It is a story too of vivid and influential personalities, the directors and curators who fought for the gallery and the artists represented in it. But the book is more than just the story of a single gallery's collection; it shines a light on concerns and patterns that will be familiar to galleries everywhere and provides a unique perspective on New Zealand's cultural development over much of the twentieth century. Bill Culbert Ian Wedde, 2009. Bill Culbert is one of New Zealand's most celebrated artists. In Bill Culbert Making Light Work, the first substantial book on Culbert, Ian Wedde explores the ideas, materials, and conditions that have formed Culbert's art over the past 50 years. Bill Culbert grew up in Port Chalmers and Wellington but since 1961 has lived largely in France and England, although he returns regularly to New Zealand to exhibit work during the oyster and whitebait seasons. Light has preoccupied Culbert since his days as a student at London's Royal College of Art in the late 1950s. He has used it in domestic scaled works, in dazzling large-scale museum installations, and in public spaces such as the Champs Elysees in Paris and the Millennium Dome in London. Ian Wedde suggests in Bill Culbert that energy and travel, congeniality and conviviality are also key to understanding of Culbert's immensely attractive but conceptually rigorous work: from his wall-mounted light sculptures made of cool white fluorescent tubes and coloured plastic containers, his installations of objects from the local dump, his battered suitcases, wheels, light bulbs, bottles, and wine glasses pouring light. Culbert is also a generous artist, acknowledging the importance of collaborators, locations, situations at a moment in time, the wider culture, and viewers. Thoughtful, compelling, and extensively illustrated, Bill Culbert Making Light Work is an assured participant in this conversation, and readers will relish the opportunity to share in it. Landfall Charles Brasch, 2006. Allegories of the Anthropocene Elizabeth M. DeLoughrey, 2019-06-28. Elizabeth M. DeLoughrey traces how indigenous and postcolonial peoples in the Caribbean and Pacific Islands grapple with the enormity of colonialism and anthropogenic climate change through art, poetry, and literature by using allegorical narratives. Environmental Criticism for the Twenty-First Century Stephanie LeMenager, Teresa

Shewry, Ken Hiltner, 2011-05-09 Environmental Criticism for the Twenty First Century showcases the recent explosive expansion of environmental criticism which is actively transforming three areas of broad interest in contemporary literary and cultural studies history scale and science With contributors engaging texts from the medieval period through the twenty first century the collection brings into focus recent ecocritical concern for the long durations through which environmental imaginations have been shaped Contributors also address problems of scale including environmental institutions and imaginations that complicate conventional rubrics such as the national local and global Finally this collection brings together a set of scholars who are interested in drawing on both the sciences and the humanities in order to find compelling stories for engaging ecological processes such as global climate change peak oil production nuclear proliferation and food scarcity Environmental Criticism for the Twenty First Century offers powerful proof that cultural criticism is itself ecologically resilient evolving to meet the imaginative challenges of twenty first century environmental crises Cultures of decolonisation Ruth Craggs, Claire Wintle, 2016-01-01 Cultures of decolonisation combines studies of visual literary and material cultures in order to explore the complexities of the end of empire as a process Where other accounts focus on high politics and constitutional reform this volume reveals the diverse ways in which cultures contributed to wider political economic and social change This book demonstrates the transnational character of decolonisation thereby illustrating the value of comparison between different cultural forms and diverse places in understanding the nature of this wide reaching geopolitical change Individual chapters focus on architecture theatre museums heritage sites fine art and interior design alongside institutions such as artists groups language agencies and the Royal Mint across Africa Asia the Caribbean and Europe Offering a range of disciplinary perspectives these contributions provide revealing case studies for those researching decolonisation across the humanities and social sciences The Carver and the Artist Damian Skinner, 2008 In this book the carver values the past works within the communal framework of Maoritanga and respects the tapu nature of what he does the artist looks to the present and future practises as an individual within the studio and is concerned with the essential rather than spiritual nature of the work Dust jacket Tangata Whenua Atholl Anderson, Judith Binney, Aroha Harris, 2014-11-15 Tangata Whenua An Illustrated History charts the sweep of M ori history from ancient origins through to the twenty first century Through narrative and images it offers a striking overview of the past grounded in specific localities and histories The story begins with the migration of ancestral peoples out of South China some 5 000 years ago Moving through the Pacific these early voyagers arrived in Aotearoa early in the second millennium AD establishing themselves as tangata whenua in the place that would become New Zealand By the nineteenth century another wave of settlers brought new technology ideas and trading opportunities and a struggle for control of the land Survival and resilience shape the history as it extends into the twentieth century through two world wars the growth of an urban culture rising protest and Treaty settlements Today at the beginning of the twenty first century M ori are drawing on both international connections and their ancestral place in Aotearoa Fifteen stunning chapters bring together scholarship in history archaeology traditional narratives and oral sources A parallel commentary is offered through more than 500 images ranging from the elegant shapes of ancient taonga and artefacts to impressions of M ori in the sketchbooks and paintings of early European observers through the shifting focus of the photographer s lens to the response of contemporary M ori artists to all that has gone before The many threads of history are entwined in this compelling narrative of the people and the land the story of a rich past that illuminates the present and will inform the future

After Bathing at Baxter's Gregory O'Brien,2002 A personal exploration by artist and writer Gregory O'Brien of some of the most significant New Zealand poets and painters of the twentieth century The collection begins with James K Baxter Other writers include Kendrick Smithyman Janet Frame and Ruth Dallas Following a sequence of autobiographical stories O'Brien shifts his gaze to the visual arts and writes about such artists as Ralph Hotere Colin McCahon Rosalie Gascoigne and Denis O'Connor

Hope at Sea Teresa Shewry,2015-09-16 As far back as Thomas More s Utopia and Francis Bacon s New Atlantis the Pacific Ocean has inspired literary creations of promising worlds Hope at Sea asks how literary writers have more recently conceived the future of ocean living In doing so it provides a new perspective on art and imagination in the face of enormous environmental change Drawing together ecocriticism theories of hope and literary analysis this book explores how literary writers evoke hope in engaging with environmental upheavals that are reshaping life in the Pacific Ocean Teresa Shewry considers contemporary poetry short stories novels art and journalistic pieces from Australia New Zealand Hawai i and other ocean sites examining their imaginative accounts of present life and future living in places where humans coexist with environmental loss rivers that no longer reach the sea dwindling populations of ocean life the effects of nuclear weapons testing and more These works are connected by their views of a future that includes hope Until now hope has never been theorized in a direct sustained way in ecocriticism Hope at Sea makes an argument for hope as a lens for creative and critical confrontation with environmental disruptions and the resulting sense of loss It also reflects on the critical approaches that hope as an analytic category opens up for the study of environmental literature With hope as a critical perspective Shewry develops a method for reading environmental literature literary writers create new ways to apprehend existing environmental realities and craft stories about seas forests cities and rivers that could be not as literal plans but as ways of imagining promising lives in the present world and in the world to come

Treasured Possessions Haidy Geismar, 2013-06-04 What happens when ritual practitioners from a small Pacific nation make an intellectual property claim to bungee jumping When a German company successfully sues to defend its trademark of a M ori name Or when UNESCO deems ephemeral sand drawings to be intangible cultural heritage In Treasured Possessions Haidy Geismar examines how global forms of cultural and intellectual property are being redefined by everyday people and policymakers in two markedly different Pacific nations The New Hebrides a small archipelago in Melanesia managed jointly by Britain and France until 1980 is now the independent nation state of Vanuatu with a population that is more than 95 percent indigenous New Zealand by contrast is a settler state and former British colony that engages with its entangled Polynesian and British heritage through an ethos of biculturalism that is meant to involve an indigenous population of just 15 percent Alternative notions of property resources and heritage informed by distinct national histories are emerging in both countries These property claims are advanced in national and international settings but they emanate from specific communities and cultural landscapes and they are grounded in an awareness of ancestral power and inheritance They reveal intellectual and cultural property to be not only legal constructs but also powerful ways of asserting indigenous identities and sovereignties
