underscoring the truth of director Ingmar Bergman's observation that no form of art goes beyond ordinary consciousness as film does straight to our emotions deep into the twilight room of the soul      The Long Time Coming Marvin

Bram,2011-01-01 If you study the past you won't repeat its mistakes That's a hopeful sentiment but as a formula for moving forward humanely it's largely useless A useful appeal to history would adopt the old saying The farther you back up the better you jump forward But the past to which most historians appeal doesn't go back far enough The long time coming will be the time of living full lives as individuals while living in harmony with others as communities Everything we need to do to bring that world about we've already done We must only add humanity's prehistory to its history It may come as a surprise that all the elements of a humane future can be found in this expanded timeframe but it's the case When we synthesize the life serving aspects of the deep past with those of the recent past we'll much shorten the time before the world we deserve comes into being THE LONG TIME COMING attempts such a synthesis      The Woman's Film of the 1940s Alison L.

McKee,2014-04-03 This book explores the relationship among gender desire and narrative in 1940s woman's films which negotiate the terrain between public history and private experience The woman's film and other form of cinematic melodrama have often been understood as positioning themselves outside history and this book challenges and modifies that understanding contextualizing the films it considers against the backdrop of World War II In addition in paying tribute to and departing from earlier feminist formulations about gendered spectatorship in cinema McKee argues that such models emphasized a masculine centered gaze at the inadvertent expense of understanding other possible modes of identification and gender expression in classical narrative cinema She proposes ways of understanding gender and narrative based in part on literary narrative theory and ultimately works toward a notion of an androgynous spectatorship and mode of interpretation in the 1940s woman's film      British Masculinity in Transatlantic Cinema Carolyn Owen-King,2024-12-12

British Masculinity in Transatlantic Cinema explores the Hollywood careers and stardom of British male actors who had fought in the first World War In an apparently incongruous development in the years after the armistice some of the men who fought in Scottish regiments during World War I found some degree of career success in Hollywood's film industry two of which included Ronald Colman and Basil Rathbone Through exploring transatlantic film history this book uncovers the ways in which these men were presented in media and on screen arguing that they carry with them even in films made at the height of censorship an appealing and attractive queerness Owen King expands on Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick's theory of homosocial homosexual continuum and offer readings of film texts that use her theories to survey gender and sexual identities within Hollywood's Golden Era      Mervyn LeRoy Comes to Town Murray Pomerance,R. Barton Palmer,2025-05-13 Mervyn LeRoy Comes to Town is the first book devoted to the career of one of the director producers who in the early years of sound cinema was instrumental in establishing the Hollywood model of production that would endure for more than half a century As a director and producer LeRoy was responsible for turning out more than sixty feature films in a career that spanned five decades as a studio executive he contributed substantially to the success of the industry during the challenging period of the Depression and also in the period of realignment and readjustment that followed the end of World War II This book offers chapters devoted to individual films such as Little Caesar Waterloo Bridge 30 Seconds over Tokyo Gypsy and Quo Vadis A House Made of Light George E. Women in War Celia Lee, Paul Edward Strong, 2012-06-19 The changing role of women in warfare a neglected aspect of military history is the subject of this collection of perceptive thought provoking essays By looking at the wide range of ways in which women have become involved in all the aspects of war the authors open up this fascinating topic to wider understanding and debate They discuss how particularly in the two world wars women have been increasingly mobilized in all the armed services originally as support staff then in defensive combat roles They also consider the tragic story of women as victims of male violence and how women have often put up a heroic resistance and examine how women have been drawn into direct combat roles on an unprecedented level a trend that is still controversial in the present day The collection brings together the work of noted academics and historians with the wartime experiences of women who have remarkable personal stories to tell The book will be a milestone in the study of the recent history of the parts women have played in the history of warfare Authors Dr Juliette Pattinson Professor Mark Connelly Georgina Natzio Christine Halsall Jonathan Walker Major Imogen Corrigan Dr Halik Kochanski Dr T A Heathcote Elspeth Johnstone Mike Ryan Grace Filby Dr George Bailey Tatiana Roshupkina Leicester Chilton Paul Edward Strong Celia Lee John Lee

Making The Best Years of Our Lives Alison Macor, 2022-06-07 2023 Wall Award Finalist Theatre Library Association How a Hollywood gem transformed the national discourse on post traumatic stress disorder Released in 1946 The Best Years of Our Lives became an immediate success Life magazine called it the first big good movie of the post war era to tackle the veterans problem Today we call that problem PTSD but in the initial aftermath of World War II the modern language of war trauma did not exist The film earned the producer Samuel Goldwyn his only Best Picture Academy Award It offered the injured director William Wyler a triumphant postwar return to Hollywood And for Harold Russell a double amputee who costarred with Fredric March and Dana Andrews the film provided a surprising second act Award winning author Alison Macor illuminates the film s journey from script to screen and describes how this authentic motion picture moved audiences worldwide General Omar Bradley believed The Best Years of Our Lives would help the American people to build an even better democracy following the war and the movie inspired broad reflection on reintegrating the walking wounded But the film s nuanced critique of American ideals also made it a target and the picture and its creators were swept up in the anti Communist witch hunts of the late 1940s In this authoritative history Macor chronicles the making and meaning of a film that changed America We Can Take It! Mark Connelly, 2014-07-10 We Can Take It shows that the British remember the war in a peculiar way thanks to a mix of particular images and evidence Our memory has been shaped by material which is completely removed from historical reality These images including complete inventions have combined to make a new history The vision is mostly cosy and suits the way in which the Britons conceive of themselves dogged good humoured occasionally bumbling unified and enjoying diversity In fact Britons load their memory towards the early part of the war Dunkirk Blitz Battle of Britain rather than when we were successful in the air or against Italy and Germany with invasions This suits our love of being the underdog fighting against the odds and being in a crisis Conversely the periods of the war during which Britain was in the ascendant are perversely far more hazy in the public memory
