Retrieving The American Past 2001 Edition Pb 2001:

Information Retrieval Ayse Goker, John Davies, 2009-12-15 This book is an essential reference to cutting edge issues and future directions in information retrieval Information retrieval IR can be defined as the process of representing managing searching retrieving and presenting information Good IR involves understanding information needs and interests developing an effective search technique system presentation distribution and delivery The increased use of the Web and wider availability of information in this environment led to the development of Web search engines This change has brought fresh challenges to a wider variety of users needs tasks and types of information Today search engines are seen in enterprises on laptops in individual websites in library catalogues and elsewhere Information Retrieval Searching in the 21st Century focuses on core concepts and current trends in the field This book focuses on Information Retrieval Models User centred Evaluation of Information Retrieval Systems Multimedia Resource Discovery Image Users Needs and Searching Behaviour Web Information Retrieval Mobile Search Context and Information Retrieval Text Categorisation and Genre in Information Retrieval Semantic Search The Role of Natural Language Processing in Information Retrieval Search for Meaning and Structure Cross language Information Retrieval Performance Issues in Parallel Computing for Information Retrieval This book is an invaluable reference for graduate students on IR courses or courses in related disciplines e.g computer science information science human computer interaction and knowledge management academic and industrial researchers and industrial personnel tracking information search technology developments to understand the business implications Intermediate advanced level undergraduate students on IR or related courses will also find this text insightful Chapters are supplemented with exercises to stimulate further thinking Test Collection Based Evaluation of Information Retrieval Systems Mark Sanderson, 2010-06-03 Use of test collections and evaluation measures to assess the effectiveness of information retrieval systems has its origins in work dating back to the early 1950s Across the nearly 60 years since that work started use of test collections is a de facto standard of evaluation This monograph surveys the research conducted and explains the methods and measures devised for evaluation of retrieval systems including a detailed look at the use of statistical significance testing in retrieval experimentation This monograph reviews more recent examinations of the validity of the test collection approach and evaluation measures as well as outlining trends in current research exploiting query logs and live labs At its core the modern day test collection is little different from the structures that the pioneering researchers in the 1950s and 1960s conceived of This tutorial and review shows that despite its age this long standing evaluation method is still a highly valued tool for retrieval research Gender and difference in the Middle Ages Sharon A. Farmer, Carol Braun Pasternack, Nothing less than a rethinking of what we mean when we talk about men and women of the medieval period this volume demonstrates how the idea of gender in the Middle Ages no less than now intersected in subtle and complex ways with other categories of difference Responding to the insights of postcolonial and feminist theory the authors show that medieval identities emerged through shifting paradigms that fluidity conflict and contingency characterized not only gender but also sexuality social status and religion This view emerges through essays that delve into a wide variety of cultures and draw on a broad range of disciplinary and theoretical approaches Scholars in the fields of history as well as literary and religious studies consider gendered hierarchies in western Christian Jewish Byzantine and Islamic areas of the medieval world

A History of Online Information Services, 1963-1976 Charles P. Bourne, Trudi Bellardo Hahn, 2003-08-01 A detailed chronology of the early pre Internet years of online information systems and services Every field of history has a basic need for a detailed chronology of what happened who did what when In the absence of such a resource fanciful accounts flourish This book provides a rich narrative of the early development of online information retrieval systems and services from 1963 to 1976 a period important to anyone who uses a search engine online catalog or large database Drawing on personal experience extensive research and interviews with many of the key participants the book describes the individuals projects and institutions of the period It also corrects many common errors and misconceptions and provides milestones for many of the significant developments in online systems and technology

New Developments in Mania Research Mathew B. Kotlar, 2006 Mania is a medical condition characterised by severely elevated mood Mania is most usually associated with bipolar disorder where episodes of mania may cyclically alternate with episodes of depression Note not all mania can be classified as bipolar disorder as mania may result from other diseases or causes However bipolar disorder is the classic manic disease Hypomania is a less severe variant of mania where there is less loss of control Mania can be experienced at the same time as depression in a mixed state Dysphoric mania is primarily manic and a depressive mixed state is primarily depressed This has caused speculation amongst doctors that mania and depression are two independent axes in a bipolar spectrum rather than opposites This book presents the latest research in this field
