Return To Paradise A Guide To South Sea Island Films:

Return to Paradise Larry Langman, 1998-03-12 Over 600 American films released between 1908 and the present are arranged in chronological order in this work A must for the film buff each entry lists the title year of release the releasing company or distributor the director screenwriter and major cast credits Facing the Pacific Jeffrey A. Geiger, 2007-04-30 The enduring popularity of Polynesia in western literature art and film attests to the pleasures that Pacific islands have over the centuries afforded the consuming gaze of the west connoting solitude release from cares and more recently self renewal away from urbanized modern life Facing the Pacific is the first study to offer a detailed look at the United States intense engagement with the myth of the South Seas just after the First World War when at home a popular vogue for all things Polynesian seemed to echo the expansion of U S imperialist activities abroad Jeffrey Geiger looks at a variety of texts that helped to invent a vision of Polynesia for U S audiences focusing on a group of writers and filmmakers whose mutual fascination with the South Pacific drew them together and would eventually drive some of them apart Key figures discussed in this volume are Frederick O'Brien author of the bestseller White Shadows in the South Seas filmmaker Robert Flaherty and his wife Frances Hubbard Flaherty who collaborated on Moana director W S Van Dyke who worked with Robert Flaherty on MGM's adaptation of White Shadows and Expressionist director F W Murnau whose last film Tabu was co directed with Flaherty The South Seas Sean Brawley, Chris Dixon, 2015-04-21 The South Seas charts the idea of the South Seas in popular cultural productions of the English speaking world from the beginnings of the Western enterprise in the Pacific until the eve of the Pacific War Building on the notion that the influences on the creation of a text and the ways in which its audience receives the text are essential for understanding the historical significance of particular productions Sean Brawley and Chris Dixon explore the ways in which authors and producers ideas about the South Seas were haunted by others who had written on the subject and how they in turn influenced future generations of knowledge producers The South Seas is unique in its examination of an array of cultural texts Along with the foundational literary texts that established and perpetuated the South Seas tradition in written form the authors explore diverse cultural forms such as art music theater film fairs platform speakers surfing culture and tourism Travel and Colonialism in 21st Century Romantic Historical Fiction Paloma Fresno-Calleja, Hsu-Ming Teo, 2024-12-16 Romantic fiction has often involved stories of travel In narratives of the journey towards love romance often involves encounters with exotic places and peoples When history is invoked in such stories the past itself is exoticised and treated as other to the present to serve the purposes of romanticisation a narrative strategy by which all manner of things settings characters costumes customs consumables are made to perform a luxuriant otherness that amplifies the experience of love This volume questions the reparative function of Anglophone romantic historical fiction to ask can plots of travel and discourses of tourism empower women while narrating stories of healing for the wounds of the past This is the first volume to consider how romanticised and exoticised women's historical fiction not only serves the purposes of armchair travel but may also replicate colonial discourse unintentionally positioning readers as neocolonial neo Orientalist cultural voyeurs as well as voyagers Frank Capra's Eastern Horizons Elizabeth

Rawitsch, 2014-10-16 Frank Capra has long had a reputation as being the quintessential American director the man who perfectly captured the identity and core values of the United States with a string of classic films in the 1930s and 40s including It Happened One Night Mr Smith Goes to Washington and It's a Wonderful Life However as Elizabeth Rawitsch argues Capra's construction of national identity did not occur within an exclusively national context She points out that many of his films are actually set in or include sequences set in China Latin America the Philippines and the South Seas Featuring in depth textual analysis supported by original archival research Frank Capra's Eastern Horizons explains that Capra's view of what constituted America changed over time extending its boundaries to embrace countries often far from the United States Complicating Edward Said's theory of Orientalism as a strict binary in which the West constructs the East as an inferior other it demonstrates that East and West often intermingle in films such as The Bitter Tea of General Yen and in Capra's orientation documentaries for World War II American servicemen Capra imagined a kind of global community albeit one with heavy undertones of British and American imperialism Investigating shifts in what Capra's America has meant over time both to Capra and to those who have watched and studied his films this innovative book offers a startlingly fresh perspective on one of the most iconic figures in American film history The Aesthetics of Island Space Johannes

Riquet, 2019-12-18 Oxford Textual Perspectives is a series of informative and provocative studies focused upon literary texts conceived of in the broadest sense of that term and the technologies cultures and communities that produce inform and receive them It provides fresh interpretations of fundamental works and of the vital and challenging issues emerging in English literary studies By engaging with the materiality of the literary text its production and reception history and frequently testing and exploring the boundaries of the notion of text itself the volumes in the series question familiar frameworks and provide innovative interpretations of both canonical and less well known works The Aesthetics of Island Space discusses islands as central figures in the modern experience of space It examines the spatial poetics of islands in literary texts from Shakespeare's The Tempest to Ghosh's The Hungry Tide in the journals of explorers and scientists such as James Cook and Charles Darwin and in Hollywood cinema It traces the ways in which literary and cinematic islands have functioned as malleable spatial figures that offer vivid perceptual experiences as well as a geopoetic oscillation between the material energies of words and images and the energies of the physical world The chapters focus on America's island gateways Roanoke and Ellis Island visions of tropical islands Tahiti and imagined South Sea islands the islands of the US Canadian border region in the Pacific Northwest and the imaginative appeal of mutable islands It argues that modern voyages of discovery posed considerable perceptual and cognitive challenges to the experience of space and that these challenges were negotiated in complex and contradictory ways via poetic engagement with islands Discussions of island narratives in postcolonial theory have broadened understanding of how islands have been imagined as geometrical abstractions bounded spaces easily subjected to the colonial gaze There is however a second story of islands in the Western imagination which runs parallel to this colonial story In this alternative account the modern experience of islands in the age of discovery went hand in hand with a disintegration of received models of understanding global space Drawing on and rethinking post phenomenological geocritical and geopoetic theories The Aesthetics of Island Space argues that the modern experience of islands as mobile and shifting territories implied a dispersal fragmentation and diversification of spatial experience and it explores how this disruption is registered and negotiated by both non fictional and fictional responses

Waves of Resistance Isaiah Helekunihi Walker, 2011-03-02 Surfing has been a significant sport and cultural practice in Hawai i for more than 1 500 years In the last century facing increased marginalization on land many Native Hawaiians have found refuge autonomy and identity in the waves In Waves of Resistance Isaiah Walker argues that throughout the twentieth century Hawaiian surfers have successfully resisted colonial encroachment in the po ina nalu surf zone The struggle against foreign domination of the waves goes back to the early 1900s shortly after the overthrow of the Hawaiian kingdom when proponents of this political seizure helped establish the Outrigger Canoe Club a haoles whites only surfing organization in Waikiki A group of Hawaiian surfers led by Duke Kahanamoku united under Hui Nalu to compete openly against their Outrigger rivals and established their authority in the surf Drawing from Hawaiian language newspapers and oral history interviews Walker s history of the struggle for the po ina nalu revises previous surf history accounts and unveils the relationship between surfing and colonialism in Hawai i This work begins with a brief look at surfing in ancient Hawai i before moving on to chapters detailing Hui Nalu and other Waikiki surfers of the early twentieth century including Prince Jonah Kuhio the 1960s radical antidevelopment group Save Our Surf professional Hawaiian surfers like Eddie Aikau whose success helped inspire a newfound pride in Hawaiian cultural identity and finally the North Shore s Hui O He e Nalu formed in 1976 in response to the burgeoning professional surfing industry that threatened to exclude local surfers from their own beaches Walker also examines how Hawaiian surfers have been empowered by their defiance of haole ideas of how Hawaiian males should behave For example Hui Nalu surfers successfully combated annexationists married white women ran lucrative businesses and dictated what non Hawaiians could and could not do in their surf even as the popular tourist driven media portrayed Hawaiian men as harmless and effeminate Decades later the media were labeling Hawaiian surfers as violent extremists who terrorized haole surfers on the North Shore Yet Hawaiians contested rewrote or creatively negotiated with these stereotypes in the waves The po ina nalu became a place where resistance proved historically meaningful and where colonial hierarchies and categories could be transposed 25 illus Revisiting Space Wendy Ellen Everett, Axel Goodbody, 2005 How does film construct space and what is the relationship between space and time in film These and other questions are explored in this collection of wide ranging challenging essays that re evaluate and extend recent theoretical debate in relation to the regional and national cinemas of Europe Spatial Modernities Johannes Riquet, Elizabeth Kollmann, 2018-06-12 This collection of essays offers a series of reflections on the specific literary and cultural forms that can be seen as the product of modernity's spatial transformations which have taken on new urgency in today's world of ever increasing mobility and global networks The book offers a broad perspective on the narrative and poetic dimensions of the modern discourses and imaginaries that have shaped our current geographical sensibilities In the early twenty first century we are still grappling with the spatial effects of early and high modern developments and the contemporary crises revolving around political boundaries and geopolitical orders in many parts of the world have intensified spatial anxieties They call for a sustained analysis of individual perceptions cultural constructions and political implications of spatial processes movements and relations The contributors of this book focus both on the spatial orders of modernity and on the various dynamic processes that have shaped our engagement with modern space The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean:

Volume 1, The Pacific Ocean to 1800 Ryan Tucker Jones, Matt K. Matsuda, 2023-01-05 Volume I of The Cambridge History of the Pacific Ocean provides a wide ranging survey of Pacific history to 1800 It focuses on varied concepts of the Pacific environment and its impact on human history as well as tracing the early exploration and colonization of the Pacific the evolution of Indigenous maritime cultures after colonization and the disruptive arrival of Europeans Bringing together a diversity of subjects and viewpoints this volume introduces a broad variety of topics engaging fully with emerging environmental and political conflicts over Pacific Ocean spaces These essays emphasize the impact of the deep history of interactions on and across the Pacific to the present day Film - An International Bibliography Malte Hagener, Michael Töteberg, 2016-12-16 Kommentierte Bibliografie Sie gibt Wissenschaftlern Studierenden und Journalisten zuverlässig
