Return to the High Valley Kenneth E. Read, 1986 Return to the High Valley Kenneth E. Read, 1986 The author describes the changes that have taken place in the village of Susuroka in Papua New Guinea since he studied it during the early 1950s Religions of Melanesia Garry Trompf, 2006-09-30 Melanesia boasts over one quarter of the world's distinct religions and presents the most complex religious panorama on earth The region is famous for its unusual new religious movements that have adapted traditional beliefs to modernity in surprising ways As the first bibliographical survey to comprehensively cover the entire region Religions of Melanesia is an invaluable research aid for anyone interested in this growing field Trompf's work is a complete listing of scholarly publications and provides readable and concise descriptions that will clearly guide the researcher toward the most relevant sources This survey covers 2188 entries organized topically and regionally Trompf covers such subjects as traditional and modern belief systems and the emergent indigenous Christianity that has taken root Regional coverage includes Irian Jaya Papua New Guinea Solomon Islands Vanuatu New Caledonia and Fiji In the Midst of Life A. L. Epstein, 1992-02-12 The Tolai are among the most distinctive of Papua New Guinea's indigenous peoples For all their success in the pursuit of modernity the Tolai remain traditional in their attitudes toward death the cultural elaboration of which colors almost every aspect of their existence In his new book A L Epstein develops an emotional profile of the Tolai contending that societies are distinguished as much by the shape of their emotional life as they are by their social arrangements and cultural styles Epstein describes a wide range of mourning ceremonies and other more and less public occasions By investigating not only the words that stand for emotions but also the way affect enters into and informs people's conduct he charts a new course for ethnography that seeks to integrate the study of the emotions into anthropological analysis Ethnographic Presents Terence E. Hays, 1992-09-24 Until the middle of this century the Western world knew little about the peoples of the Central Highlands of what is now Papua New Guinea and vice versa Only in 1930 was the curtain abruptly lifted on those valleys and mountain ridges with their tens of thousands of inhabitants whose mineral resources service as laborers fealty as colonial subjects and souls became objects of intense interest on the part of gold prospectors Australian administrative officers and missionaries For the most part these early interlopers were mere sojourners and all were too preoccupied with their immediate objectives to learn or report much about the lives of people whose very existence had only recently been suspected Within the general framework of how and why they conducted their early Highlands fieldwork but with the freedom to develop their essays as they chose potential contributors were asked to reflect on a range of interrelated topics Before the Highlands training and theoretical orientation prior to the experience previous fieldwork why the Highlands and a particular region were chosen expectations and preparation Arrival first impressions of the region and the people the colonial encounter selecting and establishing a field base hosts reactions and expectations hosts understandings of the fieldworker's objectives Fieldwork logistics of living in the field relationships with administrators and or missionaries the role of the anthropologists in the community what the community gained from the ethnographer s presence methods employed Analysis how the anthropological climate of the times shaped or influenced analyses how the Highlands experience may have changed the author s theoretical orientation After the Highlands how return visits or later work has been influenced by the first encounter how the early work relates to issues subsequently prominent in Highlands ethnography or anthropology in general Journal of the Anthropological Society of Oxford

Weiner,2023-11-15 For the Foi people who live on the edge of the central highlands of Papua New Guinea the flow of pearl shells is the heart of their social life The pearl shell is the exchange item that mediates the creation of their most important sexual and social roles The Heart of the Pearl Shell analyzes a number of myths of the Foi people elegantly bringing together significant ethnographic materials in a way that has important implications for the development of social theory in anthropology and in Melanesian studies Scholars of semiotic symbolic anthropology and of comparative religion will also share the author s interest in the meaning and role of mythology in Foi culture Instead of relying on orthodox methods of Freudian or structuralist interpretation James Weiner assumes there is a dialectical relationship between the images of Foi myth and the images of the Foi s social world He demonstrates how each set of these images is dependent upon the other for its creation This innovative study locates Foi social meaning in the re creation and attempted solution of the moral dilemmas that are crystallized in mythology and other poetic usages This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1988

A'aisa's Gifts Michele Stephen,2023-09-01 Filled with insight provocative in its conclusions A aisa s Gifts is a groundbreaking ethnography of the Mekeo of Papua New Guinea and a valuable contribution to anthropological theory Based on twenty years fieldwork this richly detailed study of Mekeo esoteric knowledge cosmology and self conceptualizations recasts accepted notions about magic and selfhood Drawing on accounts by Mekeo ritual experts and laypersons this is the first book to demonstrate magic s profound role in creating the self It also argues convincingly that dream reporting provides a natural context for self reflection In presenting its data the book develops the concept of autonomous imagination into a new theoretical framework for exploring subjective imagery processes across cultures Filled with insight provocative in its conclusions A aisa s Gifts is a groundbreaking ethnography of the Mekeo of Papua New Guinea

Just Talk Karen J. Brison,1992-09-18 A very carefully thought out and also a very innovative piece of work the book will have an appreciative readership among Melanesian specialists students of political anthropology and sociolinguists Andrew Strathern University of Pittsburgh History and Tradition in Melanesian Anthropology James G. Carrier,1992 Melanesian societies like village societies in many parts of the world are frequently portrayed as existing in a timeless traditional present The effects of this view are seen not only in overall popular and academic understandings of these societies but also in more abstract debates within anthropology about the nature of kinship exchange or social organization History and Tradition in Melanesian Anthropology offers an alternative view from authors who believe that historical evidence can and must inform our understanding of contemporary cultures This collection of original essays brings together scholars in anthropology and history They point out ways in which the timeless traditionalism approach of anthropology is inadequate Life in the existing societies of Melanesia cannot be understood they say without taking firmly into account how these societies are shaped by their interactions with Western influences In different ways all the contributors bring the history of Melanesian societies into their analyses whether discussing the generally dismissive attitude of ethnographers toward the large numbers of Melanesian Christians the ethnocentrism that led European observers to interpret fighting among the Melanesians solely according to whether it was for or against the Europeans or the mechanism by which a practice such as kerekere the soliciting of goods or services in Fijian society became reified as a custom While the essays are critical of much of the anthropology that is done in Melanesia they also exemplify a responsible historically informed approach to the study of Melanesian societies sober constructive and ideologically disinterested Historians and anthropologists of Melanesia and the Pacific in general will find here original and enlightening work that is sure to influence the theoretical orientation of Melanesian anthropology The Gender of the Gift Marilyn Strathern,1988 Marilyn Strathern argues that gender relations in Melanesia have been a particular casualty of unexamined assumptions held by Western anthropologists and feminist scholars alike The book treats with equal seriousness and with equal good humour the insights of Western social science feminist politics and ethnographic reporting in order to rethink the representation of Melanesian social and cultural life Anthropos ,1989 Papua New Guinea Fraiser McConnell,1988 The Journal of the Polynesian Society Polynesian Society (N.Z.),1988 Vols for 1892 1941 contain the transactions and proceedings of the society Oceania Alfred Reginald Radcliffe-Brown,Raymond Firth,Adolphus Peter Elkin,1988 JASO ,1987 A London Bibliography of the Social Sciences ,1931 Vols 1 4 include material to June 1 1929 Environment, Development and Change in Rural Asia-Pacific John Connell,Eric Waddell,2006-12-05 This volume examines the economic political social and environmental challenges facing rural communities in the Asia Pacific region as global issues intersect with local contexts Such challenges from climatic change and volcanic eruption to population growth and violent civil unrest have stimulated local resilience amongst communities and led to evolving regional institutions and environment management practices changing social relationships and producing new forms of stratification Bringing together case studies from across mainland Southeast Asia and the Island Pacific an expert team of international contributors reveal how communities at the periphery take charge of their lives champion the virtues of their own local systems of production and consumption and engage in the complexities of new structures of development that demand a response to the vacillations of global politics economy and society Inherent in this is the recognition that development as we have come to know it is far from over Each chapter emphasizes the growing recognition that ecological and environmental issues are key to any understanding and analysis of structures of sustainable development Providing diverse multidisciplinary theoretical and empirical perspectives Environment Development and Change in Rural Asia Pacific makes an important contribution to the revitalization of development studies and as such will be essential reading for scholars in the field as well as those with an interest in Asia Pacific studies economic geography and political economy

Chronicling Cultures Robert V. Kemper, Anya Peterson Royce, 2002-04-23 Some field sites have hosted anthropologists for as long as half a century Chronicling Cultures collects articles from principals of many of the longest and best known anthropology projects from four continents the Kung Harvard Chiapas Project Gwembe Valley Tzintzuntzan and Navajo among others These projects have brought a new understanding of change and persistence in communities over time They have forced researchers to develop methods of involving local communities in research of using data over generations of scholars and of resolving ethical issues of research versus advocacy The projects range from individual scholars who return home year after year to large scale institutionalized projects involving many researchers and numerous studies This volume will be an important addition to the literature on fieldwork on the history of ethnology and on ethnographers role in their host cultures
