Return To China:

Return Migration Decisions Ruth Achenbach, 2016-10-21 Ruth Achenbach develops a model of individual return migration decision making which examines both the process and the decisive factors in return migration decision making of Chinese highly skilled workers and students in Japan. She proposes to answer a question yet insufficiently explained by migration research: why do migrants deviate from their migration intentions and return sooner or later than planned or not at all? Her study integrates factors from the spheres of career, family and lifestyle and redefines stages in long term decision making processes, thereby contributing to decision and migration theory. She analyzes migrants' shifting priorities over the course of migration, including a perspective on life course and on the impact of the triple catastrophe of March 11, 2011. Return

Migration in the Asia Pacific Robyn R. Iredale, Fei Guo, Santi Rozario, 2003-01-01 There are few studies on return migration in general and even fewer on migrants who have returned to their home countries in the Asian and Pacific region. Much is heard about brain drain but much less about brain drain reversal. This book is to be welcomed as the first multi-country study to be published on the return of skilled and business migrants and the impact that they can have on their home economies in Asia and the Pacific. That impact is shown to be various and to change over time; the contributions clearly vary depending upon the nature of the environments to which the migrants have returned. The book presents valuable material from Bangladesh, China, Taiwan and Viet Nam together with a contextual analysis of migrant communities from these economies in Australia. Ronald Skeldon, University of Sussex, UK. Globalisation and social transformation theorists have paid significantly less attention to the movement of people than they have to the movement of capital. This book redresses the balance and provides timely insights into recent developments in return skilled migration in four regions in the Asia Pacific: Bangladesh, China, Taiwan and Vietnam. The authors believe that the movement of skilled migrants and the tacit knowledge they bring with them is a vital component in the process of globalisation. China, Cultural Heritage, and International Law Hui Zhong, 2017-11-27 China is a country that is rich in antiquities but it is also a victim of looting that occurred during the period from the First Opium War to the end of the Japanese Occupation, 1840-1945, when innumerable cultural objects were lost overseas. The Chinese Government insists on asserting its interest over its wrongfully removed cultural heritage and has sought for the return of lost cultural heritage by all means in accordance with relevant international conventions and Chinese laws. However, securing the return has been and continues to be problematic. Little research has been done regarding the question as to whether China has a legal basis for recovery, which is the first legal hurdle that China needs to get over. In addition, China does not have a legal basis for all cultural heritage taken during the period of 1840-1945. Claims for return without a legal basis are usually silenced or at best discussed only but very rarely facilitated. This book provides an answer for the return of Chinese cultural heritage. It examines the law contemporaneous to the removal of Chinese cultural heritage and its application. For this lack of a legal basis, this book argues that a new customary international law is emerging.

according to which the interests of the states of origin in their wrongfully removed heritage should be prioritised This proposed customary rule supports the return of wrongfully removed heritage Once this proposed customary rule is accepted it will provide a stronger argument not only for China but also for other states of origin with a similar dilemma including South Korea Egypt Greece Cambodia Turkey Peru and Italy to recover their wrongfully removed heritage While dealing with a large pool of return cases this book is valuable to museums and art collectors in the event of buying and accepting art objects and settling recovery disputes with states of origin It will also be of interest to researchers academics policymakers and students in the fields of cultural heritage law international law international trade and human rights law

Woman's Work for Woman and Our Mission Field, 1913 China Under the Empress Dowager John Otway Percy Bland, 1921 The Revival of China MAO Min, The book is about the revival of China in the 20th century and the first decade of the 21st century It has eight parts 1 The civil revolution in China 2 The countryside bases 3 The Long March of the Red Army 4 The Anti Japanese War 5 Decisive civil battles before the establishment of the People's Republic of China 6 The Mao Era before the Great Cultural Revolution 7 The Great Cultural Revolution and 8 The Reform and opening up This version of the book is without pictures China's Spies Nigel West, 2025-05-30 While many of President Xia Jinping's increasingly aggressive foreign policies manifested by expansion into the South China Sea trade confrontation with Australia and political suppression in Hong Kong have become obvious there has been a covert dimension that has gone largely unreported outside the Allied intelligence community Beijing's Ministry of State Security or MSS has increasingly shifted its priorities to hostile penetration of the CIA That this is the case has been demonstrated by the recent cases of individuals such as Glenn Shriver Jerry Chun Shing Lee Ron Rockwell Hansen Kevin Mallory Dickson Yeo and Alexander Yuk Ching Ma Of these Shriver an American student studying in China became as the FBI itself points out a target of Chinese intelligence services and crossed the line when he agreed to participate in espionage type activity For his actions in 2019 Ron Rockwell Hansen a former Defense Intelligence Agency officer pleaded guilty to attempting to spying for the People's Republic of China and was sentenced to ten years in prison Similarly Jerry Chun Shing Lee a former CIA case officer was sentenced to nineteen years in prison for conspiring to communicate deliver and transmit sensitive US information to the People's Republic of China Hitherto the MSS had concentrated at the direction of the Chinese Communist Party on the collection of foreign technology and proprietary information while also monitoring political dissidents Tibetan and Taiwanese nationalists and Uyghur and Falun Gong religious activists The MSS also tended to recruit ethnic Chinese and were less interested in the collection of political intelligence or mounting influence operations However as Nigel West reveals the MSS has undergone a radical change in doctrine and having consolidated its grip on supposedly independent commercial joint ventures and academic research institutions is leveraging control over these ostensibly legitimate enterprises to access intelligence agencies now perceived as adversaries such as the CIA and FBI As the rhetoric and tensions between the West and China mounts and with the current US administration calling America's relationship with Beijing the biggest geopolitical test of the 21st century China's unseen espionage offensive is one of the most serious developments in recent times Its extent and effectiveness are explored
