Review of Developments in Transport in the ESCAP Region ... ,2007      Review of Developments in Transport and Communications in the ESCAP Region, 1996-2001 United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 2001 This publication provides a review of progress made in the transport sector in the ESCAP region since 1996 Over this period the development of roads railways shipping ports inland waterways and the air transport sector has shown significant though uneven progress in the region While the financial crisis of 1997 1998 has to a degree eased the strains on transport infrastructure to meet rapidly rising demand the increasing scarcity of financial resources appears to have accelerated institutional changes and changes in infrastructure financing      East Asia Integrates Kathie Krumm, Homi Kharas, 2004-01-01 Emerging East Asian economies have seen their share of world exports more than triple during the past quarter century and intraregional trade has driven this growth Broad measures of development in East Asia have improved at the same headlong pace Why push further integration now Two economic events of historic proportions provide the context strategic thinking of development in the region following the East Asian financial crisis of 1997 98 and the accession of China to the World Trade Organization Policymakers interested in a stable prosperous region are concerned by mildly rising inequality within countries and a widening gap between richer economies and the poorest economies Increasingly the development agenda in the region with its focus on growth jobs and social stability and the trade policy agenda with its focus on market access and competitiveness have become intertwined East Asian policymakers seek to develop a coherent set of economic policies that can deliver stability growth and regional integration Without attempting to be comprehensive East Asia Integrates offers fundamental strategies that promote cross border flows of trade along with domestic policies on logistics trade facilitation standards and institutions to maximize the impact of these flows on development and distribute the gains from trade widely As the authors demonstrate multilateral and regional trade initiatives must provide a compelling vision of how integration can deliver broadly shared growth and prosperity if they are to succeed In addition they must use the momentum offered by trade agreements to address the links between trade on the one hand and social stability poverty reduction and growth on the other      Regional Integration in South Asia: What Role for Trade Facilitation? Tsunehiro Otsuki,      Economic and social survey of Asia and the Pacific, 2008 ,2008      Handbook of International Trade and Transportation Bruce A. Blonigen, Wesley W. Wilson, 2018-01-26 International trade has grown rapidly over the past half century accommodated by the transportation industry through concomitant growth and technological change But while the connection between transport and trade flows is clear the academic literature often looks at these two issues separately This

Handbook is unique in pulling together the key insights of each field while highlighting what we know about their intersection and ideas for future research in this relatively unexamined but growing area of study

Meeting the Challenges in an Era of Globalization by Strengthening Regional Development Cooperation United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 2004 This study explores the current state of regional co operation in the Asia Pacific region and the development policy challenges involved in managing the effects of increasing globalisation. It focuses on four key areas of trade, finance, transport and information and communications technology (ICT). Issues discussed include whether the EU can provide an integration model for the region, regional co-operation arrangements such as ASEAN and SAARC, as well as a number of recent initiatives including the growing array of preferential trade agreements, the Asian Bond Market proposals, the Digital Solidarity Agenda, the Asian Highway and the Trans-Asian railway.

Infrastructure and Productivity in Asia J. Kidd, F. Richter, 2005-02-11. There is a feeling that Asia is at a crossroad and is facing a new crisis. The earlier crisis of 1997-98 showed that effective systems were missing. Afterwards, governments, foreign investors and foreign managers initiated more holistic infrastructures, but corruption, poorly connecting systems and a lack of transparent management have ensured that these are under-performing. In this book, well-informed authors offer insights on Asia's political, educational and physical infrastructures and indicate the routes leading to better integrated futures.

Global Economic Prospects 2005, 2004. This annual publication analyses the global and national dimensions of the investment climate for developing countries in terms of the policy and institutional environment. This edition examines the growth of regional trade agreements which have risen eight-fold in two decades, with currently as much as 40 percent of global trade taking place among countries that have some form of reciprocal regional trade agreement. Issues discussed include regional trading trends, effects of regional agreements on trade creation, trade facilitation and services investment, intellectual property rights and labour mobility, whether the proliferation of agreements poses risks for the multilateral trading system and if so, options for managing them. The report finds that agreements leading to open regionalism, that is deeper integration of trade as a result of low external tariffs, increased services competition and efforts to reduce cross-border and customs delays, costs are effective as part of a larger trade strategy to promote growth. Although regional agreements can prove beneficial to member countries, they can have adverse effects on excluded countries and the lowering of border barriers around the world is crucial to minimising these effects. The completion of the Doha Development Agenda by all WTO countries will reduce the risk of trade diversion associated with regional agreements and will decrease trade losses of countries excluded from agreements.
