Seibel, Ann A. Kiessling, Judith Bernstein, Susan R. Levin, 2012-12-06 Medicine is changing at a speed never witnessed before in history With each passing year medical technology achieves the capacity to provide cures and improve treatments that even a short time before were difficult to conceptualize and impossible to provide Reproductive technology personifies this concept perhaps better than any other field of medicine The 1990s have seen an explosion in endoscopic and ambulatory procedures the application of molecular biology to clinical conditions and the refinement of assisted reproduction to allow third parties donors and surrogates into the process of family building More than ever before comprehensive medical care requires a team approach However the team comprises not only medical and scientific personnel but also mental health professionals lawyers and ethicists This integrated and multidisciplinary approach to medical care will become even more necessary as medical capabilities continue to develop faster than society can respond This book reflects such an approach It is based on a Harvard Postgraduate Course in June 1990 entitled Infertility in the 1990s Technological Advances and Their Psychosocial Implications that was sponsored by the Faulkner Centre for Reproductive Medicine The first half of the course was directed by Drs M Seibel A Kiessling and C Richards The second half of the course was directed by Dr M Seibel J Bernstein R N and S Levin LICSW Surviving and Thriving in Care and Beyond Sara Barratt, Wendy Lobatto, 2018-03-21 This is a book about children who have to grow up apart from their biological parents the impact of this on their lives and on those who look after them and how we can respond to the challenges this poses in order that they can grow and develop in healthy directions It provides a systemic framework to describe working with children and adults who are or have been in care or adopted as well as working with their adoptive parents and carers highlighting their own narratives and those of professionals working with them The authors have tried to make space for multiple voices to speak and describe aspects of the care system and life beyond There are contributions from those who have been brought up away from their biological parents their adoptive parents and foster or kinship carers There are also contributions from researchers and professionals with expertise in working with children in substitute care who describe their theoretical and clinical approaches privileging the voices of those with whom they work

Adolescence in America Jacqueline V. Lerner Ph.D., Richard M. Lerner, Jordan Finkelstein, 2001-06-04 An authoritative broad and practical survey of the social psychological and physical development of American teenagers In Adolescence in America more than 100 leading experts from the fields of biology medicine behavioral and social science law education and the humanities piece together the puzzle of adolescence In readable accessible language they analyze the explosion of research that has reshaped the study of adolescence in the last 30 years and explain how today's leading scientists and practitioners view the challenges of this developmental period Best of all they show parents how to apply the latest scientific knowledge such as the 40 developmental assets that predict a child's behavior to their own family situation

Adopted Women and Biological Fathers Elizabeth Hughes, 2017-03-01 Adopted Women and Biological Fathers offers a critical and deconstructive challenge to the dominant notions of adoptive identity The author explores adoptive women's experiences of meeting their biological fathers and reflects on personal narratives to give an authoritative overview of both the field of adoption and the specific history of adoption reunion This book takes as its focus the narratives of 14 adopted women as well as the partly fictionalised story of the author and examines their experiences of birth father reunion in an attempt to dissect the ways in which we understand adoptive female subjectivity through a psychosocial lens Opening a space for thinking about the role of the discursively neglected biological father this book exposes the enigmatic dimensions of this figure and how telling the relational story of reconciliation might be used to complicate wider categories of subjective completeness belonging and truth This book attempts to subvert the culturally normative unifying system of the mother child bond and prompts the reader to think about what the biological father might represent and how his role in relation to adoptive female subjects may be understood This book will be essential reading for those in critical psychology gender studies narrative work sociology and psychosocial studies as well as appealing to anyone interested in adoption issues and female subjectivity
