Lost at the Frontier Deborah Shapley, Rustum Roy, 1985 Science and Technology Policy Takefumi Tanaka, 1992

A History of Science Policy in the United States, 1940-1985, 1986 American Science Policy since World

War II Bruce Smith, 2011-02-01 Just after the close of World War II America's political and scientific leaders reached an informal consensus on how science could best serve the nation and how government might best support science. The consensus lasted a generation before it broke under the pressures created by the Vietnam War. Since then the nation has struggled to reestablish shared beliefs about the means and goals of science policy. In American Science Policy Since World War II author Bruce L R Smith makes sense of the break between science and government and identifies the patterns on postwar science affairs. He explains that what might otherwise seem to be a miscellaneous set of separate episodes actually constituted a continuing debate of national importance that was closely linked to broad political and economic trends. Smith's precise and unique analysis gives both the scholar and historian a better understanding of where we are and how we got there while casting a modest light on future policy directions. U.S. Government Publication John Spencer

Walters, 2005-02-09 Examines the forces that have deflected U S Government publication from becoming the public enterprise that Congress had conceived in the nineteenth century. Walters covers everything from the deeply embedded ideas of the American political consciousness and its inhibitive effect on the production, distribution, preservation, and quality of U S Government documents to reasons why the executive department circumvented the U S Government Printing Office to the causes behind the conspicuous lawlessness of government publication to how the folkways of science served to constrict the sphere of government publication to a narrow strip. Strategic Computing Alex Roland, Philip Shiman, 2002 The story of the U S Department of Defense's extraordinary effort in the period from 1983 to 1993 to achieve machine intelligence.
