Multinational Investment In Developing Countries A Study Of Taxation And Nationalization:

Multinational Investment in Developing Countries Thomas Andersson, 2002-09-11 This book explores the struggle for gains from direct investment between multinationals and developing countries It discusses which policies work best in influencing the behaviour of MNEs and how developing countries compete with one another for multinational investment It argues that the tax regimes of different countries rarely deter investors but that nationalisation acts as a powerful disincentive It also concludes that governments should not be expected to sacrifice the environment to attract multinationals

Privatization and Foreign Investments in Nigeria Lawrence Okechukwu Azubuike, 2009 Nigeria's political economy has straddled the ideological divide between socialism and capitalism The country produces oil and at some point in its existence it embarked on robust state involvement in the economy This was marked by the acquisition or establishment of numerous state enterprises Over the years the performance of these enterprises was found to be dismal and as part of the overall reform of the economy Nigeria has joined the global trend toward reduction in direct state ownership of enterprises Indeed it has embarked on massive divestment of state interests in once publicly owned firms Besides the universal rationale of efficiency one of the objectives of the privatization exercise in Nigeria is the attraction and retention of foreign investments This work examines the direct and indirect linkage between the government's divestiture of its interests in firms on the one hand and foreign investments in the country on the other hand The book is divided into seven chapters Chapter 1 reviews the political and economic history of Nigeria to set the background and context that necessitated the introduction of the reform package of which privatization is just an aspect Chapter 2 is a discussion of various natures of state involvement in an economy This ranges from mere regulation to active participation The chapter discusses the competing conceptual and ideological theories and tries to situate the Nigerian experience within the broader conceptual dichotomies of capitalism socialism and the via media of mixed economy Chapter 3 is an examination of the meaning and rationales for privatization of state owned enterprises generally and the Nigerian attempts in particular Nigeria's privatization program is an ongoing exercise Yet two distinct attempts are identifiable one which started in 1988 and the reinvigoration of the exercise albeit with new constitutive frameworks in 1999 Thus Chapters 4 and 5 review the legal and institutional frameworks for these two exercises Chapter 6 deals with foreign investments in Nigeria The discussion encapsulates the pros and cons of foreign investments especially in Nigeria Chapter 7 explores the direct and indirect linkages between the privatization program in Nigeria and foreign investments in the country This is particularly apposite because one of the touted objectives of the privatization exercise is the attraction of foreign investments A conclusion follows The work finds that although foreign investments appear to have been indirectly boosted by the privatization exercise foreign investors initially did not show interest in direct acquisition of the shares and other interests being relinquished by the government but that that attitude has been changing gradually

Resource Nationalism in International Investment Law Sangwani Patrick Ng'ambi, 2015-11-06 Foreign direct investment in the natural resource industries is fostered through the signing of concession agreements between the host State and the investor However such concessions are susceptible to alteration by the host State meaning that many investors now require the insertion of stabilization clauses These are provisions that require the host State to agree that they will not take any administrative or legislative action that would adversely affect the rights of the investor Arguing that it is necessary to have some form of flexibility in concession agreements while still offering protection of the legitimate expectations of the investor Resource Nationalism in International Investment Law proposes the insertion of renegotiation clauses in order to foster flexible relationships between the investor and the host State Such clauses bind the parties to renegotiate the terms of the contract in good faith when prevailing circumstances change However these clauses can also prove problematic for both State and investor due to their rigidity Using Zambia as a case study it highlights the limitations of the efficient breach theory to emphasise the need for contractual flexibility The United Nations library on transnational corporations :
