Traditional Narratives of the Arikara Indians: Stories of Alfred Morsette, English translations , 1991-01-01 Until the late eighteenth century the Arikaras were one of the largest and most influential Indian groups on the northern plains For centuries they have lived along the Missouri River first in present South Dakota later in what is now North Dakota Today they share the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation in North Dakota with the Mandans and Hidatsas Although their postcontact history and aspects of their culture are well documented Douglas R Parks s monumental four volume work Traditional Narratives of the Arikara Indians represents the first comprehensive attempt to describe and record their language and literary traditions Volumes 1 and 2 present transcriptions of 156 oral narratives in Arikara and include literal interlinear English translations Volumes 3 and 4 contain free English translations of those narratives making available for the first time a broad representative group of Arikara oral traditions that will be invaluable not only to anthropologists and folklorists but to everyone interested in American Indian life and literature. The narratives cover the entire range of traditional stories found in the historical and literary tradition of the Arikara people who classify their stories into two categories: true stories and tales. Here are myths of ancient times, legends of power bestowed, historical narratives and narratives of mysterious incidents that affirm the existence today of supernatural power in the world along with tales of the trickster Coyote and stories of the risqué Stuwí and various other animals. In addition, there are accounts of Arikara ritualism, prayers, and descriptions of how personal names are bestowed and how the Death Feast originated.

Reading Our Lives William L. Randall, Elizabeth McKim, 2008-06-03

Against the background of Socrates' insight that the unexamined life is not worth living, Reading Our Lives investigates the often overlooked inside dimensions of aging. Despite popular portrayals of mid and later life as entailing inevitable decline, this book looks at aging as potentially a process of poesis, a creative endeavor of fashioning meaning from the ever accumulating texts, memories, and reflections that constitute our inner worlds. At its center is the conviction that although we are constantly reading our lives to some degree anyway, doing so in a mindful manner is critical to our development in the second half of life. Drawing on research in numerous disciplines affected by the so-called narrative turn, including cognitive psychology, neuroscience, and the psychology of aging, authors Randall and McKim articulate a vision of aging that promises to accommodate such time-honored concepts as wisdom and spirituality, one that understands aging as a matter not merely of getting old but of consciously growing old.

Counseling People with Cancer Jann Aldredge-Clanton, 1998-01-01

Few moments are as devastating as when one hears a diagnosis of cancer, and one out of three Americans will hear this diagnosis in their lifetimes. In this book, Jann Aldredge-Clanton brings a perspective from a theology of hope for people struggling with cancer. She believes that in the midst of a frightening illness, our spiritual task is to reunderstand our life story in light of the sacred story of God's love in the world. This book is full of practical insights to enable pastors and pastoral counselors to help persons cope with the diagnosis and experience of cancer. The purpose of the Counseling and Pastoral Theology series is to address clinical issues that arise among particular populations currently neglected in the literature on pastoral care and counseling. This series is committed to enhancing both the theoretical base and the clinical expertise of pastoral caregivers by providing a pastoral theological paradigm that will inform both assessment and intervention with persons in these specific populations.

The Storied Church Matthew Gorkos, 2021-09-07

Matthew Gorkos begins The Storied Church with this compelling statement: "I believe in the church in the power of faithful people serving a good and gracious God, and I believe in the power of a good story. Moreover, I believe as this book will argue, that church and story harnessed together could be an even more powerful force for goodness in our world."

Neuroscientists anthropologists archeologists and psychologists all agree Story is how our brains and our communities make sense of things Storytelling helps us cope with change and loss Storytelling helps us transmit lessons and life skills to the next generation As human beings it seems we can't do without story This book indeed this whole idea of story centered church renewal was born of a suspicion that the restorative transformative life giving function that stories have for us as individuals may serve communities of faithful people as well If stories help us survive as human creatures why can't they help churches survive The problem that story centered renewal seeks to remedy has only become more prevalent and urgent in the age of Covid 19 Our churches need hope now more than ever Writing from a pastor's perspective Gorkos hopes to encourage and empower other pastors and lay leaders with both the hope and the tools they need to effect revitalizing change in their faith communities Each chapter includes questions for reflection to help readers listen to and tell the stories that will lead to renewal and transformation

Surviving Emotional Work for Teachers Jean Hopman, 2020-10-29 Surviving Emotional Work for Teachers is a guide to improving teachers wellbeing and practice through support of their emotional workload The book argues that teachers should be given a formal opportunity to debrief on challenging events allowing them to reflect on and reframe these experiences in a way that informs future practice to prevent the emotional fatigue that can lead teachers to leave the field altogether Each chapter opens with a teacher s story acknowledging the emotional layers present in the scenario and what learnings can be drawn from it Each of these stories features tension between what is expected of teachers and how they are limited to act which is further fuelled by underlying assumptions This is valuable reading for teachers at all stages of their career whether preparing for the complex work ahead or making sense of past and current experiences This book offers a reflexive process that teachers and schools can
