Chin,2017-03-23 This book evaluates the common criticism that Christianity in Asia is westernized Since the 1980s Asian evangelical theologians and missiologists argue that the intrusion of Western theology is responsible for the Western and hence alien expressions of Christianity in Asia Yet in Singapore the number of Christians has increased over the last few decades Empirical evidence demonstrates that younger Chinese Singaporeans convert from Buddhism or Taoism to Christianity partly because they perceive it as a rational religion over Buddhism or Taoism which are viewed as irrational or superstitious Not only do many converts favor Christianity as a rational religion but they do not regard Christianity as a Western religion at the point of their conversion What accounts for those recent developments This study explores the processes of modernization and globalization as important factors impacting religious change in Singapore Personal contextual and structural elements actually influence one s religion of choice In facilitating effective mission one must qualify the use of the categories Asian and Western because religious and cultural boundaries overlap What matters most in missiology is discerning how the gospel of Jesus Christ engages the self understanding and lived realities of ethnic and religious others in diverse cultural settings

Quality of Life Impairment in Schizophrenia, Mood and Anxiety Disorders A. George Awad, 2007-06-28 Over the past few decades health related quality of life HRQL has emerged as the new image of medicine viewed from a psychosocial perspective The concept of Quality of Life has attracted a good deal of interest not only from a clinical perspective but also from psychosocial health economics as well as cultural aspects More recently the neurobiological brain substrates that modulate many aspects of subjective experiences which is relevant to quality of life such as affect mood cognition pleasure reward responses as well as feeling of wellbeing and satisfaction has been explored and elucidated Such increased interest in HRQL is highlighted by the large number of recent publications Over the past 10 years at least 350 papers were published describing aspects of HRQL in the psychiatric and mental field Among them 78% dealt with HRQL in schizophrenia and schizoaffective disorders 21% with major depression 14% with anxiety disorders and 4% with bipolar disorder It is gratifying to witness the enhanced interest and popularity in HRQL research and publications yet the field continues to suffer from conceptual inconsistencies as well as a good deal of methodological limitations It is worrisome that we still do not have a clear understanding of the concept itself as applied to mental health and illness as well as the complex array of its determinants Similarly there is a lag in the application of quality of life data in improving clinical practice

The Value of Life Rune Elvik, 2018-06-11 Research on the monetary value of saving life and limb has produced results most laypeople would regard as nonsensical however researchers continue to try to make sense of these bewildering results and produce new studies An almost forgotten theory of science can explain why this is so Studies designed to obtain monetary valuations of life and limb have produced extremely diverse results There is no consensus among researchers working in the field about the best research methods or the most credible results of research However this field of study continues to thrive The methodology of scientific research programmes a theory of science developed by the late philosopher Imre Lakatos can help explain why a particular field of study continues to exist despite not producing meaningful or easily interpreted results Readers of the book will gain insight into internal norms of science that guide researchers to continue to pursue studies even if the findings taken at face value contradict the theoretical foundations of the research Scientific theories can be upheld even when the evidence against them seems to be massive
